HARRY TRUMAN COMES INTO OWN

Chinese Reds' Silence Makes Peace Unlikely

Chiang Keeps Mum After Nationalist Party Backs Truce

NANKING, Jan. 20 (AP) — China's Nationalist Party leadership endorsed a cease-fire resolution today, but governmental double-talk and Communist silence made peace prospects as dim as ever.

In North China, terms for surrendering Peiping to the Reds were reported accepted "in principle' by both sides, but nothing had been done to implement this separate deal.

On the war fronts, the Communists maintained their close siege of Peiping and were edging steadily south of the old Hwai River line 100 miles north of Nanking.

Principal civil war activity, however, was the hastened flight of government departments and officials southward from Nanking — a movement which was difficult to reconcile with talk of a negotiated peace.

Concrete Action Up To Chiang

The Kuomintang (Nationalist Party) Central Political ouncil endorsed Wednesday's resolution of the Executive Yuan (cabinet) urging a cease-fire and negotiations with the dominant Communists.

Although the political council is a party and not a governmental body, no important step ever is taken without its approval.

However, President Chiang Kai-Shek did not attend the meeting, and it is upon his personal decision that any concrete action will depend.

Asked what the next step in the Nationalist "peace offensive" might be, Shen Chang-Huan, government spokesman, replied:

"So far as the government is concerned there will not be one until the Communists have expressed their desires for a similar halt in hostilities.

"Then, and only then, the national government will consider ordering a cease-fire and sending a delegation to discuss negotiations."

Reds Silent Since Jan. 14

The Communists have been silent since January 14, when they broadcast peace terms amounting to a demand for unconditional surrender of the government.

Pressed for a statement on Chiang's attitude, the spokesman said "it may be presumed" that Chiang knew of the cease-fire resolution before it was adopted.

"The resolution indicates the stand of the government," the spokesman said. "I think both the President and the Executive Yuan are part of the government."

If national officials plan no more action towards peace than thus far taken, then the cause appears to have advanced little since Chiang's new year statement calling for peace on his own terms — obviously unacceptable to the Reds.

Asks Crusade To Strengthen 'Free Peoples'

President Lashes Out At Communism After Taking Oath

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—Harry S. Truman came into his own as 32nd President of the United States today—and solemnly called for a great crusade to save the world from Communism by easing the suffering of poverty-ridden millions.

In his inaugural address, he urged the United States and other nations with technical know-how to join in raising the standards of living of the world's "free peoples." Guarantees — presumably government guarantees—to private investors who will do their part were a salient point in the vast program he outlined.

In blunt and scornful tones, the President lashed out against Communism as a "false philosophy" and a breeder of war. The nation, he said, is entering a period that will be "eventful, perhaps decisive, for us and for all the world."

Standing under sparkling, sunny skies, Mr. Truman took the oath for a new, four-year term at 12:29 p. m., E. S. T., before an estimated crowd of 130,000 spectators massed on the Capitol plaza.

A few minutes earlier, Sen. Alben W. Barkley, 71-year-old Kentuckian who was born in a log cabin, had been sworn in as Vice President.

Promptly at 12:30 p. m., while batteries of radio microphones carried his words out across the country and to foreign lands, the one-time Missouri farm boy who became President launched into a fighting speech against Communism and for "peace, plenty and freedom."

Television Catches Spectacle

The great throng volleyed applause as Mr. Truman, pitting the blessings of democracy against the evils of Red Marxism, declared with outthrust jaw:

"The American people stand firm in the faith which has inspired this nation from the beginning. From this faith we will not be moved."

Television cameras caught the dramatic spectacle for the first time in history. Networks beamed the scene to video listeners throughout the East and as far west as the Mississippi River.

Wearing a cutaway coat, grey-striped trousers and grey four-in-hand tie, the 64-year-old President took the grief oath under a glistening white eight-columned portico on the east side of the Capitol, directly under the great dome and the green-bronzed statue of freedom at its top. He took off his overcoat and white silk scarf a moment before the ceremony, and stood bareheaded in the cold wind, facing southeast toward the sun.

After the president concluded his 21-minute address, the skies came alive with the daring dragonflies of war—lightning fast jet fighter planes and swift giant bombers forming an "air umbrella" over jam-packed Washington.

From Capitol Hill, the scene shifted through downtown Washington to the White House as Mr. Truman rode in triumph at the head of his inaugural parade.

East Berlin Red Regime Selects Rump Parliament

Soviet-Backed 'Mayor' Revives Two Demands

BERLIN, Jan. 20 (AP)— The handpicked Communist government of Eastern Berlin appointed a rump city parliament today as a substitute for an elected body which had been promised.

Fritz Ebert, the Soviet-backed "mayor," revived two favorite demands of the Russian propaganda machine in a address:

1—Withdrawal of all occupation troops.

2.—Establishment of a government for all Germany.

Whether these themes had any immediate significance was not discernible. Ebert submitted a written program for his government and the rump parliament approved it promptly.

Western Berliners, who elected a city assembly last December, called the new Communist parliament "ersatz," the German word for phony.

Ebert Promises Election

Communists named their rump parliament a "Bloc Presidium and Working Committe." Anti - Communists said it was obviously designed to give some pretense of support for the separate government the Communists set up by a show of hands in a theater last November.

At that time, Ebert, promised "genuinely democratic" elections would be held soon in the Russian sector of the city to choose a parliament.

Erick Geske, a deputy mayor in the rump government, said the time is not yet ripe for the promised elections. Instead "members" were named from the Communist Party and satellite organizations.

Meanwhile, the Russian press accused the Western Allies of "again sabotaging" efforts to obtain a solution of blockaded Berlin's currency dispute, which centers on a Russian demand that the Soviet-sponsored mark become the city's only legal money.

Counter-Proposals Made

The Red army newspaper, Taegliche Rundschau, said the Western Powers were seeking a prolong tension here to cover up their activities in Western Germany.

American officials said the United States, Britain and France have made counter-proposals on a United Nations plan for settlement of the currency issue and that they consider the plan is still being negotiated.

In Bern, Switzerland, members of the currency committee declined

Parade Marcher Collapses, Dies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) —An American Legion drum major and another marcher collapsed of a heart seizure during the inaugural parade.

The Red Cross gave first aid to more than 200 other persons injured or taken ill on the sidelines.

Dead apparently from a heart attack was Drum Major Edmund P. R. Holt from Allentown, Pa. He crumpled to the street while still swinging his baton at 15th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue as he neared the end of the long march.

Official casualty count of the Red Cross, which maintained 17 first aid stations along the parade route, was placed at 206.

CAMDEN GAS SUPPLY DWINDLES AS STRIKE DEADLOCK CONTINUES

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 20 (AP)—The supply of gas to 100,000 residents of the Camden area dwindled tonight as representatives of 450 striking gas company employes and company officials remained deadlocked in a wage dispute.

Sgt. John Wilkie, of the Camden City Police, said the city would be without gas entirely by 3:30 a. m., Eastern Standard Time, tomorrow.

Many homes didn't have enough gas with which to cook the evening meal, Sgt. Wilkie added. He explained the pressure was too low to push the fuel through the lines in the hilly sections of the city.

Richard Cecich, president of the Camden Gas and Coke Workers Union, independent, said there was enough gas in the tanks to last until around 11 p. m. (EST) and enough coke on hand to manufact ure additional gas for around six or seven hours.

Earlier in the day, pickets prevented a coke truck from entering the plant of the Public Service Electric and Gas Company by lying down in front of the vehicle.

1,000,000 See Greatest Parade In Capital History

Truman, Barkley Lead Procession; Planes By Hundreds Form Mighty Air "Umbrella"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—The mightiest crowd and the greatest parade in the proud history of famous Pennsylvania Avenue hailed Harry S. Truman's inauguration today.

The chief of police estimated that more than 1,000,000 people saw the parade. The estimate seemd exceptionally liberal, since the parade route was only a mile and a half long.

The temperature wasn't far above freezing and there was a wintry wind. Nevertheless the crowd maintained a holiday mood.

Block by block, they roared out a warm and friendly greeting at the first sight of Mr. Truman.

Mostly solemn of face, the silk-hatted President rode beside Vice President Alben W. Barkley at the head of the parade, from the Capitol to the White House.

There they and their families dismounted to watch the rest of the procession from special stands.

It was almost 2 p. m. (EST), about an hour late, when the parade got started.

B-36s Herald Procession

Heralding the vast procession, six mighty B-36 bombers thundered at the head of an armada of some 700 military planes of all types. They pointed northwesterly along the parade route.

Washington had never seen anything to match it.

The Capitol plaza throngs sent up a roar.

A third car carried Mrs. Truman and daughter Margaret.

The presidential salute could be heard booming out from a distance.

Mr. Truman talked frequently with Barkley as they rode along. Together they waved to the crowds.

There was hand clapping and frequent "Hi Harry" greetings from the throngs standing in deep rows behind steel cables.

Many unable to see used mirrors as periscopes. Alert hawkers got $1 apiece for them.

Greets War Buddies

Mr. Truman turned occassionally to voice a greeting to some member of his old World War I Battery D, which formed a guard of honor on each side of his car.

The top hats of the two leaders glistened. It was an unusually bright day.

At the White House, the President's natural jollity quickly assert-

Soviet Envoy Has Fine Poker Face

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) — Alexander Panyushkin, the Soviet Ambassador to the United States, has one of the world's finest poker faces.

President Truman lashed out at Communism in his inaugural address today. But if it had any effect on Panyushkin, seated 20 feet behind Mr. Truman, he didn't show it.

Communism was wrong, said Mr. Truman, when it decided that wrongs can be corrected by violence.

'LOVE EXPERT' AND HIS ATTRACTIVE RED-HAIRED ASSISTANT CONVICTED

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20 (AP) — Claude Marsan, who imported his love - making techniques from France for lecture tours in America, was found guilty today of presenting and participating in an obscene show.

Also convicted was his attractive red-haired model, Miss Barbara Weir, 24, who helped the self-styled "love expert" demonstrate kisses and embraces at a show which police raided last November 19.

A jury of nine women and three men deliberated a little more than an hour before convicting each of presenting and participating in a show "tending to corrupt the morals of youth and others."

The prosecution contended the audience at an auditorium adjoining a beer parlor consisted mainly of college students.

Marsan and Miss Weir climaxed their defense with a reenactment of their show for the jury. Marsan gave his lecture, which included an intimate discussion of sexual matters, and then he and Miss Weir demonstrated what he called the American and French ways of wooing.

Marsan claimed his lecture-demonstration was educational, not obscene.

President Brings Stop-Reds Policy To Complete Turn

Suggests There Can Be No Compromise

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—President Truman committed himself today to a finish fight on Communism as he launched a new campaign for world betterment and universal peace.

In his strongly-worded inaugural address, Mr. Truman left without specific answer the question of whose Communism he was talking about—because he never named Russia outright.

But his speech carried the strong intimation that even Communism in Russia must either be wiped out or radically modified, before the present, world-splitting division between East and West can be bridged.

No Compromise

He seemed at least to suggest that no compromise can be considered likely between the western countries and the Soviet Union with its "false philosophy" of Communism full of "deceit and mockery, poverty and tyranny."

International settlements can be reached, he said, only when the Communist nations "abandon their delusions" and realize the strength and well being of the democracies.

It was in this connection that Mr. Truman proclaimed a new world crusade for "peace and freedom." He described it as a program to raise the standards of more than half the world's population, now living in misery and want.

Policy Completes Turn

In this project, which he described only in general terms, Mr. Truman apparently has brought his stop-Russia policy a full turn beyond the point at which it was first formulated in March, 1947, when he called for aid to Greece and Turkey.

The Truman Doctrine was mainly an "against" policy—against the spread of Russian Communists in the Eastern Mediterranean.

The next major move was development of the European recovery program, projected by Secretary of State Marshall in June, 1947, and finally brought into reality last year. Its aim is to remove the root causes of Communism, as officials here see them, by replacing disorder and want in Western Europe with economic help and strength.

Asian Countries Back Indonesia

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 20 (AP)—Speakers representing various Asian countries unanimously demanded today the establishment of Indonesian independence.

Many of them also indicated that their 20-nation conference here might develop into a vast regional organization similar to the Pan American Union. Such a body, it was could be sent up within the framework of the United Nations.

The conference was called to protest Dutch military action against the young Indonesian republic. Delegates selected a committee to prepare a resolution the the United Nations Security Council dealing with the setting up of an interim Indonesian government. Australia, Pakistan, Ceylon and India were named to the committee.

India submitted a paper proposing that all fighting on Java and Sumatra be stopped, Republican leaders freed and Netherlands troops withdrawn to positions held before the Dutch operation against the Republican was launched in mid-December.

The paper also suggested that the interim government be set up by March 15, a constituent assembly elected by Oct. 1 and a complete transfer of power be made to the new government by next January 1.

Conference leaders who stressed the idea of a regional Asian organization said such a body is needed to represent what Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, of India, referred to as "half the circumference of the globe and the greater part of its population."

Precedent for such an organization exists in the regional arrangements now found in the Western Hemisphere and Western Europe, the delegates were told.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Jan. 20 (AP)—The Hagerstown Junior Chamber of Commerce today asked the repeal of a "blue law" which prohibits Sunday moving pictures in Washington County.

Bill To Outlaw Klan Symbols Is Defeated

ATLANTA, Jan. 20 (AP)—A bill to outlaw hoods and masks, eerie symbols of the Ku Klux Klan, was defeated in the Georgia House today after the secret order was defended as a "glorious symbol."

After two hours of stormy debate, the Georgia House voted 89 to 65 to postpone the measure indefinitely. That killed the bill for this session of the legislature.

Israel, Lebanon Are Negotiating

TEL AVIV, Israel, Jan. 20 (AP) — Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok told the state council today that Israel and Lebanon were negotiating but had not yet reached the decisive stage of straight armistice talks.

He said also that Israel and Trans-Jordan were in communication but no official armistice negotiations have started.

This was the first official statement on armistice reports current here for the past few days.

Overshowing the entire picture was the Israeli-Egyptian armistice talks on Rhodes called by the United Nations.

Shertok told the council it was too early to predict the outcome of this conference.

"The Rhodes negotiations are proceeding clause by clause, but partial agreement reached on every paragraph will not be enforced unless total agreement is reached," he said.

Reds Would Put Judges On Stand

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP)—A defense attorney for 11 high United States Communists moved today to put New York federal judges—and possibly the trial judge himself—on the witness stand.

George W. Rockett, Detroit negro, announced in court a plan to call the judges as a part of the defense attack on the methods by which federal juries are selected here.

The 11 Communists, all members of the party's national committee, went on trial Monday on charges of working for the forcible overthrow of the United States government.

Presiding Judge Harold R. Medina characterized the new defense plan as an "extraordinary" maneuver and said he would have to study the law to determine if such a thing were possible.

United States Attorney John F. X. McGohey said he did not know whether the law permitted it. However, he indicated that such procedure, if found to be proper, might disqualify Judge Medina from further connection with the trial.

T-H "Basic Provisions" Supported By C. Of C.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—Directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce urged Congress today to stick to the "basic provisions" of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

The directors said they will go along with changes "clearly demonstrated to be in the public interest."

Truman Plan Gets Mixed Reception

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—Democrats and Republicans alike apparently agreed today with President Truman's estimate that the nation is entering a period which will be "eventful, perhaps decisive for us and for all the world."

But the lawmakers differed as to whether his call for a vast new development program in backward areas of the globe provided the soultion to the still unresolved problem of universal peace.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), for example, said government guarantees of private investments for such purposes would "not be wise or practical."

But Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) declared: "This plan will preserve the system of private property if we handle it in harmony with the President's concept, as repeatedly set forth in his messages and speeches."

Even the Republicans varied in their interpretation.

Sen. Brewster (R-Me) said it was a "very strong speech" with "no signs of appeasement. Now it is a question of practical application of the principles on which we could substantially agree."

But Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) said the President's statement "was so vague that it might be fairly said he is contemplating foreign investments without profit. I would be against that."

Chairman George (D-Ga), of the Senate Finance Committee, said he thinks the plan is "all right," but he added that he has some doubts it will work out as expected.

"Lucky" 5,300 Attend Truman Inaugural Ball

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) — Everybody wanted to dance at President Truman's inaugural ball tonight, but only 5,300 got to.

The Fire Department turned the rest away.

The capital's fire laddies are not snobbish. The would have been happy if they could have admitted all the Democrats in town (roughly 1,000,000) into the District of Columbia Armory to waltz, samba or rumba. Even if many of the distinguished guests and their dolls did look as if they would be more familiar with the Charleston, the bunny hug, or the mazurka.

But fire regulations say a maximum of 5,300 persons in the armory, and 5,300 it was.

The committee which arranged the ball sort of lost track sending out the invitations, mailing some 8,000 or 10,000 bids. To the committee's surprise, almost every recipient replied yes, thanks, he'd love to come. Some of them came from across the continent.

Still looking remarkably fresh and chipper despite an exhausting day, the President, his wife and daughter, Margaret, arrived at the climatic inaugural ball at 11:10 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

The glittering assembly gave the President a massed standing ovation as the dancing paused.

Mr. Truman waved and smiled down on the throng from his box in the District of Columbia Armory and then the dancing resumed.

As far as could be determined, Margaret Truman was not escorted to the ball by any one other than her parents.

Four Reported Killed In Virginia Auto Crash

SHENANDOAH, Va., Jan. 20 (AP) —A Shenandoah doctor, J. J. Waff, said four persons were killed tonight when a car in which they were riding struck a post on the Eastside Highway near Grove Hill, about five miles north of here.

Two other persons in the car were reported injured.

Dr. Waff listed the following persons as occupants of the car:

Elwood Dellinger, Jr., and Leon Dellinger, New Market; Russell Smith, Harold Dofflemoyer, Charles Rosenberger, and one unidentified person. He could not say which of the men had been killed.

Red Peace Drive Called Move In Right Direction

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 20 (AP)—Warren R. Austin said tonight the reported Russian peace offensive is a move in the right direction. But he warned the world not to get its hopes up at this time.

Austin, chief United States delegate to the United Nations, told newsmen "any movement of that character (the reported Russian peace feelers) is good. The direction is the thing. I feel encouraged. When we have an opportunity like that we ought to welcome it. But I'm not talking about how far we will go with it."

Two U. S. Pilots Killed

NEUBIBERG, Germany, Jan. 20 (AP)—A three-plane collision killing two United States fighter pilots and injuring a third in a formation flight 10 miles south of this air base today.

U. S. Without President For Almost Half An Hour

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—For 29 minutes today the United States had no President.

The technical gap was closed, however, at 12:29 p. m. (EST), with no mishaps. At that time Harry S. Truman took the oath of office as the nation's 32nd Chief Executive. His previous term had expired at noon, under the Constitution, but no rival contender filed a protest with the assembled Supreme Court justices.

Mr. Truman ran through his inaugural address in just 21 minutes. He was interrupted by applause 12 times. As he talked a small boy stood at the base of the platform nonchalantly munching on a banana.

The first person to arrive at the Capitol stands was Miss Florence Simenhoff, 53-year-old employe of the naval gun factory. She got there at 5:45 a. m. EST, carrying an American flag.

If Mr. Truman hadn't shown up for his inauguration it would have cost Lloyds of London $200,000. That was the amount of insurance taken out by local merchants who contributed $260,000 to underwrite costs of the inaugural celebration. An official disclosed the premium was more than $10,000.

Though the Weather Bureau waited almost until the last minute to make its inaugural weather forecast, a Smithsonian scientist, Dr. Charles Abbott, told a reporter early in December there was a "pretty good chance" for fair

Bill To Outlaw Klan Symbols Is Defeated

ATLANTA, Jan. 20 (AP)—A bill to outlaw hoods and masks, eerie symbols of the Ku Klux Klan, was defeated in the Georgia House today after the secret order was defended as a "glorious symbol."

After two hours of stormy debate, the Georgia House voted 89 to 65 to postpone the measure indefinitely. That killed the bill for this session of the legislature.

1,000,000 See Greatest Parade In Capital History

Truman, Barkley Lead Procession; Planes By Hundreds Form Mighty Air "Umbrella"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—The mightiest crowd and the greatest parade in the proud history of famous Pennsylvania Avenue hailed Harry S. Truman's inauguration today.

The chief of police estimated that more than 1,000,000 people saw the parade. The estimate seemd exceptionally liberal, since the parade route was only a mile and a half long.

The temperature wasn't far above freezing and there was a wintry wind. Nevertheless the crowd maintained a holiday mood.

Block by block, they roared out a warm and friendly greeting at the first sight of Mr. Truman.

Mostly solemn of face, the silk-hatted President rode beside Vice President Alben W. Barkley at the head of the parade, from the Capitol to the White House.

There they and their families dismounted to watch the rest of the procession from special stands.

It was almost 2 p. m. (EST), about an hour late, when the parade got started.

B-36s Herald Procession

Heralding the vast procession, six mighty B-36 bombers thundered at the head of an armada of some 700 military planes of all types. They pointed northwesterly along the parade route.

Washington had never seen anything to match it.

The Capitol plaza throngs sent up a roar.

A third car carried Mrs. Truman and daughter Margaret.

The presidential salute could be heard booming out from a distance.

Mr. Truman talked frequently with Barkley as they rode along. Together they waved to the crowds.

There was hand clapping and frequent "Hi Harry" greetings from the throngs standing in deep rows behind steel cables.

Many unable to see used mirrors as periscopes. Alert hawkers got $1 apiece for them.

Greets War Buddies

Mr. Truman turned occassionally to voice a greeting to some member of his old World War I Battery D, which formed a guard of honor on each side of his car.

The top hats of the two leaders glistened. It was an unusually bright day.

At the White House, the President's natural jollity quickly assert-

Soviet Envoy Has Fine Poker Face

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) — Alexander Panyushkin, the Soviet Ambassador to the United States, has one of the world's finest poker faces.

President Truman lashed out at Communism in his inaugural address today. But if it had any effect on Panyushkin, seated 20 feet behind Mr. Truman, he didn't show it.

Communism was wrong, said Mr. Truman, when it decided that wrongs can be corrected by violence.

'LOVE EXPERT' AND HIS ATTRACTIVE RED-HAIRED ASSISTANT CONVICTED

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20 (AP) — Claude Marsan, who imported his love - making techniques from France for lecture tours in America, was found guilty today of presenting and participating in an obscene show.

Also convicted was his attractive red-haired model, Miss Barbara Weir, 24, who helped the self-styled "love expert" demonstrate kisses and embraces at a show which police raided last November 19.

A jury of nine women and three men deliberated a little more than an hour before convicting each of presenting and participating in a show "tending to corrupt the morals of youth and others."

The prosecution contended the audience at an auditorium adjoining a beer parlor consisted mainly of college students.

Marsan and Miss Weir climaxed their defense with a reenactment of their show for the jury. Marsan gave his lecture, which included an intimate discussion of sexual matters, and then he and Miss Weir demonstrated what he called the American and French ways of wooing.

Marsan claimed his lecture-demonstration was educational, not obscene.

T-H "Basic Provisions" Supported By C. Of C.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—Directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce urged Congress today to stick to the "basic provisions" of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

The directors said they will go along with changes "clearly demonstrated to be in the public interest."

President Brings Stop-Reds Policy To Complete Turn

Suggests There Can Be No Compromise

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—President Truman committed himself today to a finish fight on Communism as he launched a new campaign for world betterment and universal peace.

In his strongly-worded inaugural address, Mr. Truman left without specific answer the question of whose Communism he was talking about—because he never named Russia outright.

But his speech carried the strong intimation that even Communism in Russia must either be wiped out or radically modified, before the present, world-splitting division between East and West can be bridged.

No Compromise

He seemed at least to suggest that no compromise can be considered likely between the western countries and the Soviet Union with its "false philosophy" of Communism full of "deceit and mockery, poverty and tyranny."

International settlements can be reached, he said, only when the Communist nations "abandon their delusions" and realize the strength and well being of the democracies.

It was in this connection that Mr. Truman proclaimed a new world crusade for "peace and freedom." He described it as a program to raise the standards of more than half the world's population, now living in misery and want.

Policy Completes Turn

In this project, which he described only in general terms, Mr. Truman apparently has brought his stop-Russia policy a full turn beyond the point at which it was first formulated in March, 1947, when he called for aid to Greece and Turkey.

The Truman Doctrine was mainly an "against" policy—against the spread of Russian Communists in the Eastern Mediterranean.

The next major move was development of the European recovery program, projected by Secretary of State Marshall in June, 1947, and finally brought into reality last year. Its aim is to remove the root causes of Communism, as officials here see them, by replacing disorder and want in Western Europe with economic help and strength.

Two U. S. Pilots Killed

NEUBIBERG, Germany, Jan. 20 (AP)—A three-plane collision killing two United States fighter pilots and injuring a third in a formation flight 10 miles south of this air base today.

Asian Countries Back Indonesia

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 20 (AP)—Speakers representing various Asian countries unanimously demanded today the establishment of Indonesian independence.

Many of them also indicated that their 20-nation conference here might develop into a vast regional organization similar to the Pan American Union. Such a body, it was could be sent up within the framework of the United Nations.

The conference was called to protest Dutch military action against the young Indonesian republic. Delegates selected a committee to prepare a resolution the the United Nations Security Council dealing with the setting up of an interim Indonesian government. Australia, Pakistan, Ceylon and India were named to the committee.

India submitted a paper proposing that all fighting on Java and Sumatra be stopped, Republican leaders freed and Netherlands troops withdrawn to positions held before the Dutch operation against the Republican was launched in mid-December.

The paper also suggested that the interim government be set up by March 15, a constituent assembly elected by Oct. 1 and a complete transfer of power be made to the new government by next January 1.

Conference leaders who stressed the idea of a regional Asian organization said such a body is needed to represent what Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, of India, referred to as "half the circumference of the globe and the greater part of its population."

Precedent for such an organization exists in the regional arrangements now found in the Western Hemisphere and Western Europe, the delegates were told.

Israel, Lebanon Are Negotiating

TEL AVIV, Israel, Jan. 20 (AP) — Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok told the state council today that Israel and Lebanon were negotiating but had not yet reached the decisive stage of straight armistice talks.

He said also that Israel and Trans-Jordan were in communication but no official armistice negotiations have started.

This was the first official statement on armistice reports current here for the past few days.

Overshowing the entire picture was the Israeli-Egyptian armistice talks on Rhodes called by the United Nations.

Shertok told the council it was too early to predict the outcome of this conference.

"The Rhodes negotiations are proceeding clause by clause, but partial agreement reached on every paragraph will not be enforced unless total agreement is reached," he said.

Four Reported Killed In Virginia Auto Crash

SHENANDOAH, Va., Jan. 20 (AP) —A Shenandoah doctor, J. J. Waff, said four persons were killed tonight when a car in which they were riding struck a post on the Eastside Highway near Grove Hill, about five miles north of here.

Two other persons in the car were reported injured.

Dr. Waff listed the following persons as occupants of the car:

Elwood Dellinger, Jr., and Leon Dellinger, New Market; Russell Smith, Harold Dofflemoyer, Charles Rosenberger, and one unidentified person. He could not say which of the men had been killed.

Reds Would Put Judges On Stand

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP)—A defense attorney for 11 high United States Communists moved today to put New York federal judges—and possibly the trial judge himself—on the witness stand.

George W. Rockett, Detroit negro, announced in court a plan to call the judges as a part of the defense attack on the methods by which federal juries are selected here.

The 11 Communists, all members of the party's national committee, went on trial Monday on charges of working for the forcible overthrow of the United States government.

Presiding Judge Harold R. Medina characterized the new defense plan as an "extraordinary" maneuver and said he would have to study the law to determine if such a thing were possible.

United States Attorney John F. X. McGohey said he did not know whether the law permitted it. However, he indicated that such procedure, if found to be proper, might disqualify Judge Medina from further connection with the trial.

Red Peace Drive Called Move In Right Direction

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 20 (AP)—Warren R. Austin said tonight the reported Russian peace offensive is a move in the right direction. But he warned the world not to get its hopes up at this time.

Austin, chief United States delegate to the United Nations, told newsmen "any movement of that character (the reported Russian peace feelers) is good. The direction is the thing. I feel encouraged. When we have an opportunity like that we ought to welcome it. But I'm not talking about how far we will go with it."

"Lucky" 5,300 Attend Truman Inaugural Ball

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) — Everybody wanted to dance at President Truman's inaugural ball tonight, but only 5,300 got to.

The Fire Department turned the rest away.

The capital's fire laddies are not snobbish. The would have been happy if they could have admitted all the Democrats in town (roughly 1,000,000) into the District of Columbia Armory to waltz, samba or rumba. Even if many of the distinguished guests and their dolls did look as if they would be more familiar with the Charleston, the bunny hug, or the mazurka.

But fire regulations say a maximum of 5,300 persons in the armory, and 5,300 it was.

The committee which arranged the ball sort of lost track sending out the invitations, mailing some 8,000 or 10,000 bids. To the committee's surprise, almost every recipient replied yes, thanks, he'd love to come. Some of them came from across the continent.

Still looking remarkably fresh and chipper despite an exhausting day, the President, his wife and daughter, Margaret, arrived at the climatic inaugural ball at 11:10 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

The glittering assembly gave the President a massed standing ovation as the dancing paused.

Mr. Truman waved and smiled down on the throng from his box in the District of Columbia Armory and then the dancing resumed.

As far as could be determined, Margaret Truman was not escorted to the ball by any one other than her parents.

U. S. Without President For Almost Half An Hour

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—For 29 minutes today the United States had no President.

The technical gap was closed, however, at 12:29 p. m. (EST), with no mishaps. At that time Harry S. Truman took the oath of office as the nation's 32nd Chief Executive. His previous term had expired at noon, under the Constitution, but no rival contender filed a protest with the assembled Supreme Court justices.

Mr. Truman ran through his inaugural address in just 21 minutes. He was interrupted by applause 12 times. As he talked a small boy stood at the base of the platform nonchalantly munching on a banana.

The first person to arrive at the Capitol stands was Miss Florence Simenhoff, 53-year-old employe of the naval gun factory. She got there at 5:45 a. m. EST, carrying an American flag.

If Mr. Truman hadn't shown up for his inauguration it would have cost Lloyds of London $200,000. That was the amount of insurance taken out by local merchants who contributed $260,000 to underwrite costs of the inaugural celebration. An official disclosed the premium was more than $10,000.

Though the Weather Bureau waited almost until the last minute to make its inaugural weather forecast, a Smithsonian scientist, Dr. Charles Abbott, told a reporter early in December there was a "pretty good chance" for fair

Truman Plan Gets Mixed Reception

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—Democrats and Republicans alike apparently agreed today with President Truman's estimate that the nation is entering a period which will be "eventful, perhaps decisive for us and for all the world."

But the lawmakers differed as to whether his call for a vast new development program in backward areas of the globe provided the soultion to the still unresolved problem of universal peace.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), for example, said government guarantees of private investments for such purposes would "not be wise or practical."

But Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) declared: "This plan will preserve the system of private property if we handle it in harmony with the President's concept, as repeatedly set forth in his messages and speeches."

Even the Republicans varied in their interpretation.

Sen. Brewster (R-Me) said it was a "very strong speech" with "no signs of appeasement. Now it is a question of practical application of the principles on which we could substantially agree."

But Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) said the President's statement "was so vague that it might be fairly said he is contemplating foreign investments without profit. I would be against that."

Chairman George (D-Ga), of the Senate Finance Committee, said he thinks the plan is "all right," but he added that he has some doubts it will work out as expected.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 20 (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers took a page out of John L. Lewis' book tonight and set its pension demand to $100 a month.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther announced the figure to 2,500 delegates at the union's international education conference.

He said the $100 figure would be over and above federal social security benefits.

Lewis' United Mine Workers receive a $100 pension on retirement at the age of 62. Reuther made no mention of a satisfactory retirement age for auto workers.

In the past, Reuther has said management would have to foot 70 per cent of an adequate pension plan. The miners' pensions come from a welfare fund provided by a 20-cent-a-ton royalty on coal.

Pensions and medical care plans will be the UAW's major demands in auto industry negotiations this year.

Earlier, Reuther's brother, Victor, made it plain that the union still hasn't given up the thought of a new political party.

Victor Reuther, director of the UAW's far-flung education department gave the union's views at a news conference.

"What this Congress and this administration do," he said, "will determine how labor feels about the Democratic Party. While we work with the Democratic Party, we keep our CIO political action machinery independent."

RUSSIA HAS URANIUM FOR ATOMIC POWER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) — Russian discoveries of uranium in Central Asia in the last 10 years might be sufficient for developing atomic power there, a Harvard researcher said today.

D .B. Shimkin, of Harvard's Russian research center, also declared that possibilities exist for discovery of "significant uranium deposits" associated with a certain kind of granite in an area of Siberia, and also in the Ukraine.

"Contrary to popular impressions," Shimkin said in "Science," weekly journal of the American Association for the advancement of science, "a fair amount of authentic information has been published on the uranium resources of the Soviet Union. Because of widespread interest in this subject I believe it worthwhile to summarize the pertinent facts."

"In brief," he said, "Soviet discoveries of uranium in Central Asia within the last decade, while in no sense approaching the great significance of the African and Canadian deposits, appear to provide a possible basis for the development of atomic power in that area."

But there was barely a smile on the presidential lips when Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina, rode past. Thurmond was the States' Rights Party candidate for President. Barkley waved though.

At 3:58, Mrs. Truman, Margaret and Mrs. Max Truitt, Barkley's daughter, had had enough. They got up and left the reviewing stand. That was a cue for others to do so. But the Truman - Barkley team stuck it out, taking occasional sips of hot drinks.

Gunman Shoots French Lawmaker, Daughter

PARIS, Jan. 20 (AP)—A gunman shot and wounded a member of the French Parliament and his daughter on the streets of Paris tonight. The condition of the daughter was described as serious.

The gunman in a taxi forced the car of Etienne De Raulin-Laboureur to a halt on the Avenue MacMahon. The gunman got out of the taxi and fired. He hit the lawmaker in the leg and his daughter in the stomach.

The assailant climbed back into the taxi, which sped away. Police were unable to establish any motive.

The crowds whooped and hollered, lifting cascades of applause, as the seven-mile parade swung by crowded pine and steel-pipe spectators' stands, with exhibits running the gamut from a bellowing circus steam calliope—a voice out of the past—to giant B-36 bombers in the aerial show overhead.

Crackling bursts of applause greeted the President's indictment of Communism—undoubtedly his strongest pronouncement on foreign policy since he took over the White House upon the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, April 12, 1945.

"Communism," he said, "holds that the world is so widely divided into opposing classes that war is inevitable."

"Democracy holds that free nations can settle differences justly and maintain lasting peace."

Then he went on to propose a four-point program of action, pledging:

1. "Unfaltering support" to the United Nations.

2. Continued aid for world economic recovery.

3. Support—including military aid—to bolster freedom-loving nations against aggression."

4. A "bold new program" to help the world's needy areas.

Damage Suit May Be Transferred On Judge's Rule

The possibility that a $20,000 damage suit filed in Allegany County Circuit Court will be transferred to Washington County for rehearing loomed yesterday when Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., disqualified himself on the basis of an earlier hearing.

The judge said he is not eligible because he officiated at the hearing in which the defendant was charged with manslaughter.

The Maryland Court of Appeals on December 15, 1948, ordered the new trial in the damage suit brought by Edna Whitaker, 35, Frostburg, against Robert J. Greaves, Columbus, Ohio, as the result of an accident on Route 40, March 22, 1947, in which her father, Clarence Whitaker, 65, was killed.

Greaves had been found not liable by a Circuit Court jury here in January, 1948.

In reversing the lower court and ordering a new trial, the Appeals Court in an opinion by Judge Marbury said his (Greaves) "undisputed testimony does not give rise to any inference that the accident could not have been avoided by care exercised before the slushy place was reached."

The opinion refers to defense testimony in which it was claimed the Greaves' car skidded on an icy highway.

Observers at the Court House said the new trial will probably be held in Washington county. Leslie E. Clark, this city, and Evan McC. Crossley, Hagerstown, are attorneys for Greaves while Attorneys Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., represent the plaintiff.

When the case comes to court it will mark the third action resulting from the suit. In addition to the local court decision absolving Greaves, the Ohioan also faces another damage suit, for $15,000, brought in March, 1948 and filed by Attorneys William C. Walsh and Thomas B. Finan for the State of Maryland for the use of Cobey Engle, employer, and Glen Falls Indemnity Company, insurer.

The suit claims Edna Whitaker and Phyllis Whitaker, 10, a granddaughter, were solely dependent on Whitaker's earnings from his employment with Engle. Finan, in filing the suit, said it was based on the right of an employer and the insurer to recover damages if possible.

Negro Charged With Statutory Rape

A local negro was lodged in County Jail last night on a warrant charging him with statutory rape of his 14-year-old daughter.

The prisoner, Frank Milton Paige, 444 Pine Avenue, is the father of six children. He is charged with having carnal knowledge of his daughter November 1; 1948, when the girl was allegedly under 14. Paige was docketed shortly before noon yesterday.

A half-hour earlier Detective Thomas J .See obtained the statutory rape warrant from Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti and Paige was brought to City Jail from the State's Attorney's office where he had been questioned.

Police said Paige was taken into custody after the daughter's story had been investigated thoroughly. She had been given a physical examination, authorities said.

Paige has reportedly admitted to having relations with his daughter.

Clothing Classes To Open Today

Mrs. Edna Bryte Bishop, Pittsburgh, will conduct a clothing demonstration today and Saturday at the Fort Hill High School Home Economics Department.

Mrs. Bishop has worked in the Paris workrooms of several French designers. For the past 20 years, she has supervised fittings for a noted fashion clinic in New York City.

Teachers of home economics and of clothing construction in the adult education program as well as members of the adult classes will be in attendance. Representatives from 14 counties are expected.

Today's session will be from 9:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. and the Saturday meeting will be from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Evelyn F. Miller, supervisor of home economics education in county schools, said the demonstration is the outgrowth of the interest shown by women in adopting Mrs. Bishop's method of sewing which is taught in county schools. Mrs. Bishop will discuss the choice of clothes for different figures, she said.

Sponsored by the Allegany County Board of Education and the State Department of Elducation, the meeting is a follow-up of a two-week work shop held last summer at Fort Hill at which Mrs. Bishop was supervisor.

Miss Miller said any person who has registered as a member of a class in clothing construction during the school year is invited to attend the demonstration.

Action On President's Tax Proposals To Wait

The signs are increasing on Capitol Hill that the new Congress will delay action for several months at least on the President's $4,000,000,000 tax proposal —and may even scrap his recommendations.

There are those in the Eighty-first Congress who are of the opinion that a "good surplus" is in sight for the fiscal year beginning next July, hence no new taxes will be needed. The tendency to "wait and see" is well marked among the members—Democrats as well as Republicans—of the House and Senate committees which must act first on any new tax bill.

Sensibily, these members want to see how much of the Truman spending program is enacted before deciding how much new revenue will be needed. They also want to see how much money pours in from the March 15 income tax collections, which would mean no action on taxes at least until May.

One reason why so many members are reluctant to plunge into a tax debate soon is Mr. Truman's past record as a prognosticator of federal income and outgo. In 1947 his estimate of expenditures proved 17 per cent too low. The same year his estimate of receipts was 27 per cent too low. Last year his guess about receipts was 16 per cent off, again on the pessimistic side.

Of course, any presidential budget involves a good deal of risky guesswork, since it must be submitted to Congress six months before the new fiscal year begins and 18 months before it ends. But even after making that allowance, Mr. Truman's guessing has been poor. Many members of his own party in responsible posts in Congress realize this and want to see how much the government will actually spend and how much revenue is actually coming in before risking the always painful plunge into higher taxes.

Train Characters, Schools Are Told—headline. Another view is that the schools have gone too far in this direction.

A Situation, Long Foreseen, Comes To Pass

Here's a prosperity item in reverse and its not too difficult to find a very good reason, or a whole lot of reasons, why it is in reverse. With coal selling at the highest price in its history, short working schedules are reported continuing in all the coal fields. Coal, on the average, is being mined in the George's Creek region only four days a week. Wages are high, the coal cost is high and profits are, in all probability, greater, but there's a short market for coal.

The industry finds a "downward slump." Coal production is at the lowest level in two years. Many mines throughout the nation's coal fields are closed. Others work spasmodically. As one area reports it, "business conditions" are to blame. Most industries are busy and flourishing, but coal orders are not being placed. Shipment of coal abroad has been reduced, affecting not only underground operations but strip mining enterprises.

Also affecting the coal industry is the use of Diesel-electric engines by many railroads. Ships likewise don't use much coal. Other fuels are being employed by industry and homes, which is causing a lessening in demand for coal. All this was foreseen a few years ago but little or no effect was made to encourage the continued use of coal. Coal, then, was king and ruled accordingly. Other fuels began moving into popularity. They provided nearly as cheap and practically just as efficient service, not to mention accompanying conveniences.

Everybody wanted coal for so many years and orders poured in to give high production. Now some coal dealers have to hustle for business and they have trouble bidding against other fuels. The coal industry faces an uphill battle to bring its product back into popularity.

Judging by recent displays it seems 1949 weather will come in assorted sizes and colors, with a variety designed to please all customers.

The Trial Of Twelve On Sedition Charges

The Smith Act of 1940, under which twelve members of the "politburo" of the American Communist Party are now being prosecuted, was hotly debated at the time of its passage. It was the first peacetime sedition law in this country since the Federalist sedition acts were abandoned in 1798.

The law broke with the traditional principle that it is permissable in this country for people to shoot off their mouths about revolution, as long as they don't actually try to start one.

Stalinists—supporters of the Communist Party—will now fight the law as unconstitutional "persecution." But they were strongly in favor of that sort of "persecution" when the law was invoked in 1941 against alleged Trotskyites, or anti-Stalin Communists. And in 1943 they were equally eager for the conviction of a group of alleged "native fascists." They are opposed to the Smith Act only when the shoe pinches.

The Trotskyites, eighteen of them, were convicted on one count of conspiring to incite insubordination in the U. S. Army, and sentenced to serve terms of a little more than a year. They were acquitted on a second count charging conspiracy to cause the violent overthrow of the government. Trial of the alleged "native fascists" was called off after the judge died.

The indictment under which the present trial is being conducted is similar to the one that could not be made stick against the Trotskyites. The 12 Stalinist leaders are charged with conspiring to advocate and teach the overthrow of the American government. No overt acts are charged against them.

The United States Supreme Court has never been asked to rule on this aspect of the act, as there have been no convictions on the advocating-overthrow count. On past form, the court would probably insist on a showing of a clear and present danger, both great and immediate.

But the twelve men have also been indicted, and may later be tried on counts charging not conspiracy but specific violations.

A celestial formation of dust so large it would take 1,000 years to pass has been discovered. Certainly they cannot blame that one on the Oklahoma Panhandle.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

(Copyright: 1949: By The Chicago Tribune)

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Toxins Produced By Diphtheria

If a physician were to return to a contagious hospital, in which he interned years ago, he would be impressed with the changes that took place in the interim. One would surely be in the diphtheria wards, which might be more than half empty or the space utilized for other purposes. The side rooms in which many youngsters received emergency surgery to prevent suffocation from the disease also might be bare or filled with unused equipment. The sight would bring back memories of exhausted children struggling to breathe, and the measures taken to save their lives.

Dr. Van Dellen

Such progress can be traced to immunization, which virtually wiped out diphtheria in children. In fact, the ailment is encountered more frequently now in adults and hardly deserves the title, "childhood disease." Prior to 1894, when antitoxin came into general use, from 30 to 50 per cent of all victims died. This can be appreciated more fully when we realize that in those days, diphtheria was common which is one reason why infant mortality was so high before the turn of the century.

Diphtheria bacilli attack the membranes of the nose, throat, tonsils, and larynx in much the same manner as the organisms responsible for the ordinary cold. Early symptoms are similar, depending upon the part involved. A "running nose" denotes nasal inflammation; a sore throat, the pharynx; and hoarseness and difficulty in breathing, the voice box. In the latter, the swollen membranes block the air passageway. At first the patient breathes faster in order to obtain his quota of oxygen but as the channel becomes narrower, he is forced to struggle for air.

To save life, an incision is made into the neck and the windpipe is opened just below the larynx. A tube is then passed through the opening and into the bronchial tree in order to permit the flow of air. After this is done, the exhausted sufferer breathes more easily and falls into a deep sleep.

There are additional characteristics that differentiate diphtheria from other respiratory infections. The invading germs literally eat into the tissues, producing a dirty, grayish membrane. Whenever a physician sees this lesion in the nose, throat, or tonsils, he becomes suspicious and immediately orders a throat culture for diagnostic purposes. Another distinguishing feature is that diphtheria organisms manufacture a deadly poison which affects the heart, kidneys, glands, and other structures. This is the chief reason why antitoxin is administered.

Heart involvement usually manifests itself in from one to three weeks after the inception of the infection. The toxins poison the muscle, causing the pumping apparatus to enlarge or beat in an irregular fashion. All too often this aftermath develops after the height of the disease has passed, when the sufferer seems to be well on the road to recovery. Exertion at this time may be disastrous. There are some examples of unexpected deaths from heart failure following trivial effort such as sitting up in bed or walking across the room. But if the victim recovers, complications of this nature rarely leave permanent damage and the "ticker" becomes as good as new. The earlier antitoxin is given, the less chance of complications.

GI Nerves

Mrs. B. M. writes: Since returning from service on the European front my husband has been a nervous wreck. He cannot sleep more than four or five hours at night and cannot relax enough to take a nap during the day. He refuses to enter a hospital as he says confinement would make him desperate. The only relaxation he can obtain is thru the use of alcohol. He has never missed a day's work since his return but I was wondering if there is a cure for such war nerves?

REPLY

Psychiatric care is needed and you should do everything in your power to convince your husband that he ought to consult the veterans administration. His drinking must be stopped because a man in his condition is a perfect candidate for alcoholism.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

So long, Texas. Beaumont is our 8th city in Texas in 8 days and tomorrow we head for New Orleans.

Just before we got to Beaumont, Arthur Rubenstein played here and I had to change my material because I was following the classical pianist into town. That's the first time I ever got laughs in the key of G.

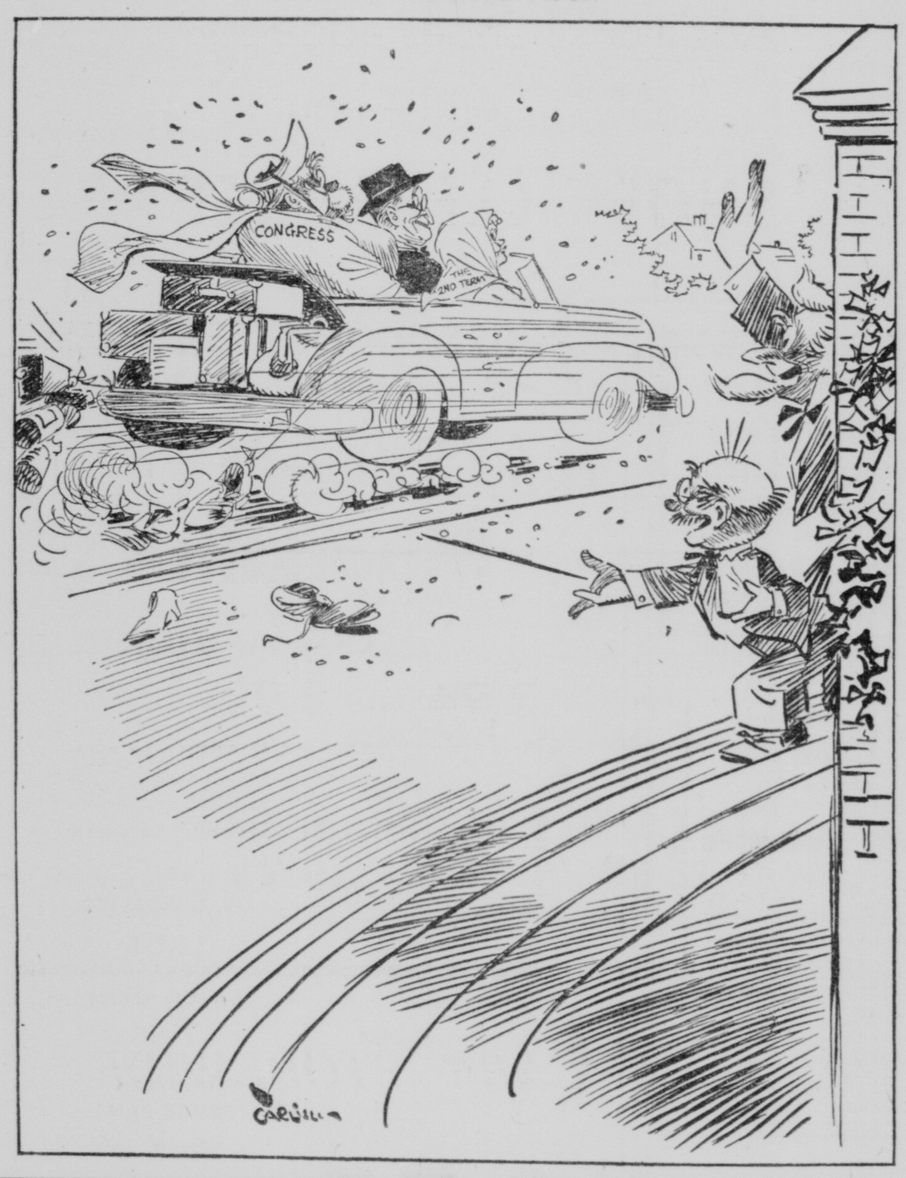

Les Brown's band is sorry to be leaving Texas because they sure enjoyed it. The saxaphone player discovered a way to siphon a cactus and Doris Day will have to start rehearsing new numbers.

For a week she's been singing nothing but "Moon Over El Paso," "Stars Fell On Fort Worth" and "Her Sweet Little Dallas Blue Gown."

We have a wonderful acrobatic act touring with the show called "The Titans," and even they're sorry to leave Texas. They need plenty of room to throw each other around and small states worry them.

Spike Jones and his orchestra come into Beaumont right after we leave and they've already started preparing for him. As we boarded the bus we could see them hiding in the municipal auditorium.

OFF ON THE HONEYMOON

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Southern Congressman Lanham Puts Civil Rights To Work; Negro Congressman Dawson To Be Honored At Dinner; Truman Regime Unity Bruised

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Without benefit of flashbulbs or fanfare, an important Southern Congressman has put civil rights to work on a voluntary basis.

Congressman Henderson Lanham of Rome, Georgia, who believes in cooperation with Negroes but doesn't like laws forcing cooperation, walked into the office of the leading Negro member of Congress, William Dawson of Chicago, the other day and offered to serve under him.

Lanham is No. 3 man on the important House Committee on Executive Expenditures, and he agreed to take a back seat to the Negro. He also had a pleasant talk with the Chicago Democrat about their boyhood back in Georgia. It developed that they had been reared only a few miles apart.

Lanham asked about Dawson's family and learned his grandparents had been slaves, once owned by the founders of Dawson, Georgia. Discussing politics, the two agreed there was no reason to let Jim Crowism keep them from working together in Congress.

"We used to play with white children," recalled Dawson. "There was no hatred between children. We used to get in fights, but they were children's fights. There was no racial bitterness."

Another Southern Congressman, Porter Hardy of Virginia, has also announced he will stay on Dawson's committee.

Dinner For Dawson

Meanwhile a dinner is being held tonight at the Interior Department in honor of the first Negro ever to become chairman of a Congressional committee. Actually, Congressman Dawson tried to discourage the dinner. He felt it would put too many of his Southern colleagues on the spot. However, his Northern friends had proceeded with the plans without consulting him.

So far, Southern Congressmen have all declined, though many have paid tribute to Dawson personally. Congressman Albert Thomas of Texas sent a $25 check for the dinner's testimonial fund, which will be used to grant loans to Negro college students. Thomas also wrote: "Permit me to say I have served with Bill for many years. He is a fine man, a great public servant and a close friend. . . ."

Other Southerners also wrote kind words of tribute, such as Kentucky's Congressman Frank Chelf who scribbled underneath his formal letter turning down the invitation: "Congressman Dawson has the respect of all the members of Congress. He is a good man."

The reason for these tributes is modest Congressman Dawson, himself. He has plugged along quietly and efficiently, keeping in the background, avoiding clashes with such demagogues as Mississippi's John Rankin, until he has now been accepted into the leadership of the House.

White House Disunity

Only a handful of insiders know it, but the new-found "hard-hitting unity" of the Truman Administration has already suffered a few serious bruises around the Presidential inner circle.

Participants in the struggle are members of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, who are feuding among themselves, and with officials of the Interior Department. Their worst split is over expansion of the steel industry. Undersecretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman and Assistant Secretary of Interior "Jebby" Davidson joined with such 100 per cent Trumanites as Senator O'Mahoney in demanding that Truman force the steel industry to expand.

However, the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, Dr. Edwin Nourse, dissented vigorously. As a result, snide remarks have begun to fly back and forth across the President's desk. Nourse now calls the steel-expansion advocates "eager beavers." They, in turn, call him a "Tory."

President Truman is reported upset and disappointed over the row, because only last November he asked all his economic aides to get together on a joint program on which there could be complete harmony.

Again, just before New Year's Day, Truman spent another hour with his economic advisers plus Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, Secretary of Labor Tobin, Secretary of Interior Krug and Secretary of Commerce Sawyer. It was only after he thought he had their complete approval that he later made his economic proposals to Congress.

Despite this, Dr. Nourse has openly broken the unity by delivering an off - the - record speech in New York denouncing the President's proposals to expand the steel industry as unwise and unnecessary." It was the work, he said, of "some eager beavers around the President."

Mystery Speech

Washington correspondents are still wondering what happened to that rootin'-tootin' speech by Labor Secretary Maurice Tobin at the Academy of American Arbitrators' dinner which the press associations and big-city newspapeds carried in great detail, but which Tobin actually didn't deliver.

Three hours before the banquet, Tobin gave the press an advance copy of his "speech"—a stem-winder. It demanded increased powers for the Labor Department and predicted that the U.S. Mediation and Conciliation Service soon would be under him.

This was like declaration of war to another dinner guest, Cyrus Ching, Director of Mediation and Conciliation. An arch foe of Tobin, Ching makes no secret that he will quit if his Conciliation Service is returned to Labor. So, when reporters showed Ching an advance copy of Tobin's remarks, he persuaded Academy officials to let him hit back in rebuttal after Tobin spoke.

This meant Ching would make two talks, since he was already on the program for an address preceding Tobin. However, toastmaster Ralph Seward and Academy official George Taylor consented, provided Tobin delivered his prepared text as written.

Tobin, however, never delivered it. He dumbfounded everyone when he rose to talk by leaving his prepared speech in his pocket.

Glancing at his watch, the Cabinet member announced that he had only four minutes to speak, as he had to catch a train for Boston. Then he ad-libbed a brief talk on labor-management cooperation that bore no resemblance to his prepared speech. By this time, however, bulldog editions carrying his prepared speech were already on the streets in many big cities.

The astute Secretary of Labor had decided that he wasn't going to emulate the Council of Economic Advisers and wash any dirty linen in public.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

REPORTS from China swell on the subject of possible Soviet Russian mediation between the Chinese government and the Chinese communists. Although a mediation note has been addressed to four powers, the report is to the effect that the cabinet has put pressure on Chiang to accept Russian mediation, if there is any way of getting it. Since 1925, Sun Fo has been intermittently pro-and anti-Russian and there is no telling which way he will jump in the present situation, which is as critical as any China has faced in recent years.

Should Soviet Russia accept China's invitation, it will be on the basis of the treaty between the two countries. There can be no question but that this is distasteful to General Chiang, whose relations with Soviet Russia have been unsatisfactory since 1927. However, a responsible cabinet has come into existence under Sun Fo and it has been pressing for an end to the war. Also, Chiang has no alternative, having been deserted by the United States.

The difficulties between Chiang Kai-Shek and the United States go back to the Teheran and Yalta conferences at which Soviet Russia demanded either the Dardanelles or an open-water port on the Pacific as the price for participation in the war against Japan. Roosevelt and Churchill rejected the Dardanelles plan, which would have given Russia an entry into the British Mediterranean world, but agreed to give Soviet Russia Manchuria, half of Korea (north of the 38th parallel) and the Kuriles.

In fact, Roosevelt and Churchill agreed not only to doublecross Chiang, with whom they had previously come to a contrary arrangement, but they accepted Russia as the successor to Japan on the continent of Asia. Chiang was forced to swallow that in spite of a terrific loss of face.

The troubles between Chiang Kai-Shek and the United States go back to General "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell, who made impossible demands on China—impossible because his demands would have meant, practically, the transference of the authority of office from Chiang to Stilwell. Before Stilwell handed his ultimatum to Chiang, General Pat Hurley had come to satisfactory arrangements with Chiang, both as to Stilwell's authority and American participation. Stilwell bypassed Hurley and, through General George Marshall, got authority from President Roosevelt to issue his ultimatum.

Ultimately, this situation broke Stilwell. Chiang demanded his recall, to which Roosevelt had to accede. Stilwell did not long survive this failure of his policies. I suppose his friends associate his death with his disappointment and resent Chiang for that reason.

At any rate, when General Marshall came to China, he sought to reinvoke the Stilwell policy of a coalition government which would include the Communists. Subsequently, the American attitude toward the Communists in all countries changed and Marshall revised his judgement of the Chinese Communists. Nevertheless, he remained antagonistic to Chiang, seeking a successor group, among others the "political science group," which Chiang actually installed in office as a sop to the Americans. This group failed.

More recently, the official atmosphere in this country has been favorable to the aspirations of Chiang's brother-in-law, T. V. Soong, who had been in the United States for some years and left behind a group of Americans whom he had employed in connection with loan arrangements. They have been speaking up for him as a successor to Chiang. Whether they are serving him, I do not know. However, the idea seems to have been that any successor to Chiang would be acceptable.

Of such minor stuff, of personal distastes, of ambitions unsatisfied and plans thwarted, is history made. Chiang has held out a long time against American internal politics and prejudices, as it affected him and his country, until he is faced not only by personal defeat, but by prolonged civil war and the conquest of his country by Soviet Russia, which owns the Chinese Communist party as it owns the Polish of the Czech or the American Communist party. And now the Chinese of all parties are turning toward Russia for mediation which would faciliate conquest while giving the appearance of reasonable friendship.

What We Rededicated While Cheering Truman's Induction

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 — Four years ago on this day there were no parades but only a brief ceremony on the south portico of the White House as a loving son tenderly lifted Franklin D. Roosevelt to the microphones so he could make his inaugural address.

The war in Europe had not yet ended. The Battle of the Bulge had cost the lives of many American and Allied soldiers. The fact that a President was being inaugurated for the fourth consecutive term seemed only as unprecedented as the war itself—nothing was normal.

Today there is no such sense of sadness. There is anxiety in the world but also a calm confidence that it can be removed by the patience and persistence of informed peoples—for they want no more war.

The inauguration of a President can be a Roman holiday. The temptation is to emphasize the political triumph of candidate or party. This is but a one-day phase. It passes, along with the other oddities of American democracy, and might be likened to the celebrations of other peoples as they crown their kings or fete their rulers.

There Is Nothing Permanent

The difference perhaps is that there is nothing permanent about the tenure of office here. It is temporary. Four years is a brief time within which a President can try to work out a program of reform and welfare. It is punctuated, moreover, in midterm by a congressional election when a coordinate branch of the government goes before the people.

What does a man who is inaugurated President of the United States think about in this climactic moment of his career? What thoughts run through his mind as the people cheer him and the eyes of the nation are focused on him? Does he think of himself as just an extraordinary man — or a lucky man? Might he be soliloquizing on the fact that out of nearly 150,000,000 persons he has been selected for this honor in these fateful times? Does he think of himself as better fitted than the opponent that he defeated? Does he think of himself as better than anyone else his party might have selected?

In short, does a President as he stands there on the east front of the Capitol and takes the oath allow the ego within him to suffuse his mind or does he conquer that ego by thoughts of humbleness and service to the people who have honored him?

The words that come forth on these occasions are usually words of humbleness. Presidents deliver their inaugural addresses with solemnity and dignity. They know the people expect them to be modest and almost deferential in their attitude, though it will be recalled that, in his first inaugural, Franklin Roosevelt delivered a defiant outburst with phrases reminiscent of his political campaign. He struck the first note of the class warfare which ensued with greater and greater intensity in the years that followed.

Mr. Truman

Mr. Truman is a good man in every sense of the word. He is honest. He is God-fearing. He is eager to serve the people and his country. He has courage. His stubborn pride of conviction can often be a virtue. Sometimes it hides a tragic misconception of fact. His heart reaches out with humanitarian zeal to serve his fellow men. His chief weakness is his fidelity to faction. He is a political partisan. It is the principal barrier to greatness in the presidency or any other office. That is why the challenges of public opinion will be good for Mr. Truman. They will remind him of the humbleness expressed this day.

For here is the real difference between crowning a king and inaugurating a President. A king can do no wrong—the concept associated with his reign is best expressed by the phrase "the divine right of kings." A President, however, can be wrong and—what is even more important — the humblest citizen can tell him so. It is this which we celebrate today. It is this which we rededicate when we applaud with all our hearts the inauguration of Harry S. Truman and wish him good luck, good health and a most successful administration.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—(INS)—A presidential inauguration is big business. The 500,000 visitors who have come to Washington to yell for little old Harry will spend $30,000,000 before they pack their bunions and depart.

They are blowing the thirty million on the likes of:

Hotel rooms at an average of $15 a day;

Formal banquets at $15 a plate;

Parade seats from $2.50 to $10.

Inaugural ball tickets at $10.

"Gala" tickets ranging from $2.50 to $10.

Some incredible amount of money is pouring into restaurants, sit-down saloons, department stores, shops, florists and other trades. Prices are high everywhere except in the city's little meterless taxi cabs—where in you can travel around the town about as cheaply as you could for the inauguration of Taft. And about as uncomfortably, if you stand more than five-feet-two.

To one who misspent his youth writing pieces thunderingly describing the size and magnificence of such events as heavyweight championship fights, Army-Navy football games, world series and Kentucky derbies, the inaugular show constitutes a severe strain on the vocabulary.

• — • — •

It will be hard to marvel any more at the size of the temporary bleachers set up in the Yankee Stadium for an outdoor fight, or behind the end zone for a big grid game, or the number of folks on hand for the muscle-snapping orgies.

The bleachers in Washington today were filled all the way from the Capitol to beyond the White House on both sides of the parade's line or March. The "gate" from this alone, including the tickets scalped, must have been a million dollars.

There were nearly twice as many people in the stands and on the lawn of the Capitol to watch those ceremonies than were present last October in Cleveland when all records for baseball attendance were smashed.

More than a million persons saw some portion or all of the show with the naked eye. More reporters and radio men were on hand to describe than had ever been concentrated for any event in history, and their words reached more people in more countries than the account of any other single event.

Television owners as far as 50 miles west of St. Louis saw Mr. Trumans' every move as he made that move, heard every word as quickly as he spoke. The television audience, thanks to the recent opening of the coaxial cable which joins the east coast network of video stations with the mid-west net, was estimated at 10,000,000—a figure based on the assumption that those prime custodians of public tele-viewing, the bartenders of America, switched on the inaugural doings.

Thus, visually, Truman was seen simultaneously by more human beings than any other person who ever lived. And his voice reached more people, and his words affected more peoples, than any of the countless billions of humans who preceded him on earth.

• — • — •

Nearly one million square miles of territory, now cut up into 20-odd states, were once purchased by a Truman predecessor for just half of the amount which will be spent in Washington by Friday night. Alaska, with its incredible riches, cost just one-fourth of the inaugural bill. Indeed, we won our independence from Britain for a smaller financial investment than the cost of this inauguration.

"Everything about the inauguration is superlative. More food will be consumed, more whisky swallowed, more laundry done, more arches will fall and arteries harden than ever at any event. The superlatives extend all the way down the line to "Kissin' Jim" Folsom, the biggest governor ever to march in such a parade. In the tune of the occasion, Folsom brought what he calls his "million dollar" brass band.

More hotel furniture will be broke or defaced, more ash trays stolen, crockery smashed than the annals of the city previously recorded. The multi-piano act at the "gala" was the biggest piano act ever staged, and it lacked only the accompaniment of the most famous piano-thumper who ever came in from Missouri.

P. S.—There seems to be every reason to believe that the inauguration, before its thunder dies, will provide the biggest hangover in the history of a land which has known some beauts.

Today all roads lead into President Truman's lap. He is setting as pretty as sweethearts on a bench.

If there ever was a self-made President it's the little man from Kansas City. Harry followed the old political line of breaking a promise with a bigger promise.

And all the time Governor Dewey walked around looking like he had eaten more than was punched on his cafeteria check. But he never let anybody tn on the secret.

So today completes the American saga of opportunity. If it knocks more than once it's the brush man.

Action On President's Tax Proposals To Wait

The signs are increasing on Capitol Hill that the new Congress will delay action for several months at least on the President's $4,000,000,000 tax proposal —and may even scrap his recommendations.

There are those in the Eighty-first Congress who are of the opinion that a "good surplus" is in sight for the fiscal year beginning next July, hence no new taxes will be needed. The tendency to "wait and see" is well marked among the members—Democrats as well as Republicans—of the House and Senate committees which must act first on any new tax bill.

Sensibily, these members want to see how much of the Truman spending program is enacted before deciding how much new revenue will be needed. They also want to see how much money pours in from the March 15 income tax collections, which would mean no action on taxes at least until May.

One reason why so many members are reluctant to plunge into a tax debate soon is Mr. Truman's past record as a prognosticator of federal income and outgo. In 1947 his estimate of expenditures proved 17 per cent too low. The same year his estimate of receipts was 27 per cent too low. Last year his guess about receipts was 16 per cent off, again on the pessimistic side.

Of course, any presidential budget involves a good deal of risky guesswork, since it must be submitted to Congress six months before the new fiscal year begins and 18 months before it ends. But even after making that allowance, Mr. Truman's guessing has been poor. Many members of his own party in responsible posts in Congress realize this and want to see how much the government will actually spend and how much revenue is actually coming in before risking the always painful plunge into higher taxes.

A Situation, Long Foreseen, Comes To Pass

Here's a prosperity item in reverse and its not too difficult to find a very good reason, or a whole lot of reasons, why it is in reverse. With coal selling at the highest price in its history, short working schedules are reported continuing in all the coal fields. Coal, on the average, is being mined in the George's Creek region only four days a week. Wages are high, the coal cost is high and profits are, in all probability, greater, but there's a short market for coal.

The industry finds a "downward slump." Coal production is at the lowest level in two years. Many mines throughout the nation's coal fields are closed. Others work spasmodically. As one area reports it, "business conditions" are to blame. Most industries are busy and flourishing, but coal orders are not being placed. Shipment of coal abroad has been reduced, affecting not only underground operations but strip mining enterprises.

Also affecting the coal industry is the use of Diesel-electric engines by many railroads. Ships likewise don't use much coal. Other fuels are being employed by industry and homes, which is causing a lessening in demand for coal. All this was foreseen a few years ago but little or no effect was made to encourage the continued use of coal. Coal, then, was king and ruled accordingly. Other fuels began moving into popularity. They provided nearly as cheap and practically just as efficient service, not to mention accompanying conveniences.

Everybody wanted coal for so many years and orders poured in to give high production. Now some coal dealers have to hustle for business and they have trouble bidding against other fuels. The coal industry faces an uphill battle to bring its product back into popularity.

Judging by recent displays it seems 1949 weather will come in assorted sizes and colors, with a variety designed to please all customers.

The Trial Of Twelve On Sedition Charges

The Smith Act of 1940, under which twelve members of the "politburo" of the American Communist Party are now being prosecuted, was hotly debated at the time of its passage. It was the first peacetime sedition law in this country since the Federalist sedition acts were abandoned in 1798.

The law broke with the traditional principle that it is permissable in this country for people to shoot off their mouths about revolution, as long as they don't actually try to start one.

Stalinists—supporters of the Communist Party—will now fight the law as unconstitutional "persecution." But they were strongly in favor of that sort of "persecution" when the law was invoked in 1941 against alleged Trotskyites, or anti-Stalin Communists. And in 1943 they were equally eager for the conviction of a group of alleged "native fascists." They are opposed to the Smith Act only when the shoe pinches.

The Trotskyites, eighteen of them, were convicted on one count of conspiring to incite insubordination in the U. S. Army, and sentenced to serve terms of a little more than a year. They were acquitted on a second count charging conspiracy to cause the violent overthrow of the government. Trial of the alleged "native fascists" was called off after the judge died.

The indictment under which the present trial is being conducted is similar to the one that could not be made stick against the Trotskyites. The 12 Stalinist leaders are charged with conspiring to advocate and teach the overthrow of the American government. No overt acts are charged against them.

The United States Supreme Court has never been asked to rule on this aspect of the act, as there have been no convictions on the advocating-overthrow count. On past form, the court would probably insist on a showing of a clear and present danger, both great and immediate.

But the twelve men have also been indicted, and may later be tried on counts charging not conspiracy but specific violations.

A celestial formation of dust so large it would take 1,000 years to pass has been discovered. Certainly they cannot blame that one on the Oklahoma Panhandle.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

(Copyright: 1949: By The Chicago Tribune)

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Toxins Produced By Diphtheria

If a physician were to return to a contagious hospital, in which he interned years ago, he would be impressed with the changes that took place in the interim. One would surely be in the diphtheria wards, which might be more than half empty or the space utilized for other purposes. The side rooms in which many youngsters received emergency surgery to prevent suffocation from the disease also might be bare or filled with unused equipment. The sight would bring back memories of exhausted children struggling to breathe, and the measures taken to save their lives.

Dr. Van Dellen

Such progress can be traced to immunization, which virtually wiped out diphtheria in children. In fact, the ailment is encountered more frequently now in adults and hardly deserves the title, "childhood disease." Prior to 1894, when antitoxin came into general use, from 30 to 50 per cent of all victims died. This can be appreciated more fully when we realize that in those days, diphtheria was common which is one reason why infant mortality was so high before the turn of the century.

Diphtheria bacilli attack the membranes of the nose, throat, tonsils, and larynx in much the same manner as the organisms responsible for the ordinary cold. Early symptoms are similar, depending upon the part involved. A "running nose" denotes nasal inflammation; a sore throat, the pharynx; and hoarseness and difficulty in breathing, the voice box. In the latter, the swollen membranes block the air passageway. At first the patient breathes faster in order to obtain his quota of oxygen but as the channel becomes narrower, he is forced to struggle for air.

To save life, an incision is made into the neck and the windpipe is opened just below the larynx. A tube is then passed through the opening and into the bronchial tree in order to permit the flow of air. After this is done, the exhausted sufferer breathes more easily and falls into a deep sleep.

There are additional characteristics that differentiate diphtheria from other respiratory infections. The invading germs literally eat into the tissues, producing a dirty, grayish membrane. Whenever a physician sees this lesion in the nose, throat, or tonsils, he becomes suspicious and immediately orders a throat culture for diagnostic purposes. Another distinguishing feature is that diphtheria organisms manufacture a deadly poison which affects the heart, kidneys, glands, and other structures. This is the chief reason why antitoxin is administered.

Heart involvement usually manifests itself in from one to three weeks after the inception of the infection. The toxins poison the muscle, causing the pumping apparatus to enlarge or beat in an irregular fashion. All too often this aftermath develops after the height of the disease has passed, when the sufferer seems to be well on the road to recovery. Exertion at this time may be disastrous. There are some examples of unexpected deaths from heart failure following trivial effort such as sitting up in bed or walking across the room. But if the victim recovers, complications of this nature rarely leave permanent damage and the "ticker" becomes as good as new. The earlier antitoxin is given, the less chance of complications.

GI Nerves

Mrs. B. M. writes: Since returning from service on the European front my husband has been a nervous wreck. He cannot sleep more than four or five hours at night and cannot relax enough to take a nap during the day. He refuses to enter a hospital as he says confinement would make him desperate. The only relaxation he can obtain is thru the use of alcohol. He has never missed a day's work since his return but I was wondering if there is a cure for such war nerves?

REPLY

Psychiatric care is needed and you should do everything in your power to convince your husband that he ought to consult the veterans administration. His drinking must be stopped because a man in his condition is a perfect candidate for alcoholism.

So long, Texas. Beaumont is our 8th city in Texas in 8 days and tomorrow we head for New Orleans.

Just before we got to Beaumont, Arthur Rubenstein played here and I had to change my material because I was following the classical pianist into town. That's the first time I ever got laughs in the key of G.

Les Brown's band is sorry to be leaving Texas because they sure enjoyed it. The saxaphone player discovered a way to siphon a cactus and Doris Day will have to start rehearsing new numbers.

For a week she's been singing nothing but "Moon Over El Paso," "Stars Fell On Fort Worth" and "Her Sweet Little Dallas Blue Gown."

We have a wonderful acrobatic act touring with the show called "The Titans," and even they're sorry to leave Texas. They need plenty of room to throw each other around and small states worry them.

Spike Jones and his orchestra come into Beaumont right after we leave and they've already started preparing for him. As we boarded the bus we could see them hiding in the municipal auditorium.

OFF ON THE HONEYMOON

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Southern Congressman Lanham Puts Civil Rights To Work; Negro Congressman Dawson To Be Honored At Dinner; Truman Regime Unity Bruised

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Without benefit of flashbulbs or fanfare, an important Southern Congressman has put civil rights to work on a voluntary basis.

Congressman Henderson Lanham of Rome, Georgia, who believes in cooperation with Negroes but doesn't like laws forcing cooperation, walked into the office of the leading Negro member of Congress, William Dawson of Chicago, the other day and offered to serve under him.

Lanham is No. 3 man on the important House Committee on Executive Expenditures, and he agreed to take a back seat to the Negro. He also had a pleasant talk with the Chicago Democrat about their boyhood back in Georgia. It developed that they had been reared only a few miles apart.

Lanham asked about Dawson's family and learned his grandparents had been slaves, once owned by the founders of Dawson, Georgia. Discussing politics, the two agreed there was no reason to let Jim Crowism keep them from working together in Congress.

"We used to play with white children," recalled Dawson. "There was no hatred between children. We used to get in fights, but they were children's fights. There was no racial bitterness."

Another Southern Congressman, Porter Hardy of Virginia, has also announced he will stay on Dawson's committee.

Dinner For Dawson

Meanwhile a dinner is being held tonight at the Interior Department in honor of the first Negro ever to become chairman of a Congressional committee. Actually, Congressman Dawson tried to discourage the dinner. He felt it would put too many of his Southern colleagues on the spot. However, his Northern friends had proceeded with the plans without consulting him.

So far, Southern Congressmen have all declined, though many have paid tribute to Dawson personally. Congressman Albert Thomas of Texas sent a $25 check for the dinner's testimonial fund, which will be used to grant loans to Negro college students. Thomas also wrote: "Permit me to say I have served with Bill for many years. He is a fine man, a great public servant and a close friend. . . ."

Other Southerners also wrote kind words of tribute, such as Kentucky's Congressman Frank Chelf who scribbled underneath his formal letter turning down the invitation: "Congressman Dawson has the respect of all the members of Congress. He is a good man."

The reason for these tributes is modest Congressman Dawson, himself. He has plugged along quietly and efficiently, keeping in the background, avoiding clashes with such demagogues as Mississippi's John Rankin, until he has now been accepted into the leadership of the House.

White House Disunity

Only a handful of insiders know it, but the new-found "hard-hitting unity" of the Truman Administration has already suffered a few serious bruises around the Presidential inner circle.

Participants in the struggle are members of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, who are feuding among themselves, and with officials of the Interior Department. Their worst split is over expansion of the steel industry. Undersecretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman and Assistant Secretary of Interior "Jebby" Davidson joined with such 100 per cent Trumanites as Senator O'Mahoney in demanding that Truman force the steel industry to expand.

However, the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, Dr. Edwin Nourse, dissented vigorously. As a result, snide remarks have begun to fly back and forth across the President's desk. Nourse now calls the steel-expansion advocates "eager beavers." They, in turn, call him a "Tory."

President Truman is reported upset and disappointed over the row, because only last November he asked all his economic aides to get together on a joint program on which there could be complete harmony.

Again, just before New Year's Day, Truman spent another hour with his economic advisers plus Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, Secretary of Labor Tobin, Secretary of Interior Krug and Secretary of Commerce Sawyer. It was only after he thought he had their complete approval that he later made his economic proposals to Congress.

Despite this, Dr. Nourse has openly broken the unity by delivering an off - the - record speech in New York denouncing the President's proposals to expand the steel industry as unwise and unnecessary." It was the work, he said, of "some eager beavers around the President."

Mystery Speech

Washington correspondents are still wondering what happened to that rootin'-tootin' speech by Labor Secretary Maurice Tobin at the Academy of American Arbitrators' dinner which the press associations and big-city newspapeds carried in great detail, but which Tobin actually didn't deliver.

Three hours before the banquet, Tobin gave the press an advance copy of his "speech"—a stem-winder. It demanded increased powers for the Labor Department and predicted that the U.S. Mediation and Conciliation Service soon would be under him.

This was like declaration of war to another dinner guest, Cyrus Ching, Director of Mediation and Conciliation. An arch foe of Tobin, Ching makes no secret that he will quit if his Conciliation Service is returned to Labor. So, when reporters showed Ching an advance copy of Tobin's remarks, he persuaded Academy officials to let him hit back in rebuttal after Tobin spoke.

This meant Ching would make two talks, since he was already on the program for an address preceding Tobin. However, toastmaster Ralph Seward and Academy official George Taylor consented, provided Tobin delivered his prepared text as written.

Tobin, however, never delivered it. He dumbfounded everyone when he rose to talk by leaving his prepared speech in his pocket.

Glancing at his watch, the Cabinet member announced that he had only four minutes to speak, as he had to catch a train for Boston. Then he ad-libbed a brief talk on labor-management cooperation that bore no resemblance to his prepared speech. By this time, however, bulldog editions carrying his prepared speech were already on the streets in many big cities.

The astute Secretary of Labor had decided that he wasn't going to emulate the Council of Economic Advisers and wash any dirty linen in public.

REPORTS from China swell on the subject of possible Soviet Russian mediation between the Chinese government and the Chinese communists. Although a mediation note has been addressed to four powers, the report is to the effect that the cabinet has put pressure on Chiang to accept Russian mediation, if there is any way of getting it. Since 1925, Sun Fo has been intermittently pro- and anti-Russian and there is no telling which way he will jump in the present situation, which is as critical as any China has faced in recent years.

Should Soviet Russia accept China's invitation, it will be on the basis of the treaty between the two countries. There can be no question but that this is distasteful to General Chiang, whose relations with Soviet Russia have been unsatisfactory since 1927. However, a responsible cabinet has come into existence under Sun Fo and it has been pressing for an end to the war. Also, Chiang has no alternative, having been deserted by the United States.

The difficulties between Chiang Kai-Shek and the United States go back to the Teheran and Yalta conferences at which Soviet Russia demanded either the Dardanelles or an open-water port on the Pacific as the price for participation in the war against Japan. Roosevelt and Churchill rejected the Dardanelles plan, which would have given Russia an entry into the British Mediterranean world, but agreed to give Soviet Russia Manchuria, half of Korea (north of the 38th parallel) and the Kuriles.

In fact, Roosevelt and Churchill agreed not only to doublecross Chiang, with whom they had previously come to a contrary arrangement, but they accepted Russia as the successor to Japan on the continent of Asia. Chiang was forced to swallow that in spite of a terrific loss of face.

The troubles between Chiang Kai-Shek and the United States go back to General "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell, who made impossible demands on China—impossible because his demands would have meant, practically, the transference of the authority of office from Chiang to Stilwell. Before Stilwell handed his ultimatum to Chiang, General Pat Hurley had come to satisfactory arrangements with Chiang, both as to Stilwell's authority and American participation. Stilwell bypassed Hurley and, through General George Marshall, got authority from President Roosevelt to issue his ultimatum.

Ultimately, this situation broke Stilwell. Chiang demanded his recall, to which Roosevelt had to accede. Stilwell did not long survive this failure of his policies. I suppose his friends associate his death with his disappointment and resent Chiang for that reason.

At any rate, when General Marshall came to China, he sought to reinvoke the Stilwell policy of a coalition government which would include the Communists. Subsequently, the American attitude toward the Communists in all countries changed and Marshall revised his judgement of the Chinese Communists. Nevertheless, he remained antagonistic to Chiang, seeking a successor group, among others the "political science group," which Chiang actually installed in office as a sop to the Americans. This group failed.

More recently, the official atmosphere in this country has been favorable to the aspirations of Chiang's brother-in-law, T. V. Soong, who had been in the United States for some years and left behind a group of Americans whom he had employed in connection with loan arrangements. They have been speaking up for him as a successor to Chiang. Whether they are serving him, I do not know. However, the idea seems to have been that any successor to Chiang would be acceptable.

Of such minor stuff, of personal distastes, of ambitions unsatisfied and plans thwarted, is history made. Chiang has held out a long time against American internal politics and prejudices, as it affected him and his country, until he is faced not only by personal defeat, but by prolonged civil war and the conquest of his country by Soviet Russia, which owns the Chinese Communist party as it owns the Polish of the Czech or the American Communist party. And now the Chinese of all parties are turning toward Russia for mediation which would faciliate conquest while giving the appearance of reasonable friendship.

What We Rededicated While Cheering Truman's Induction

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 — Four years ago on this day there were no parades but only a brief ceremony on the south portico of the White House as a loving son tenderly lifted Franklin D. Roosevelt to the microphones so he could make his inaugural address.

The war in Europe had not yet ended. The Battle of the Bulge had cost the lives of many American and Allied soldiers. The fact that a President was being inaugurated for the fourth consecutive term seemed only as unprecedented as the war itself—nothing was normal.

Today there is no such sense of sadness. There is anxiety in the world but also a calm confidence that it can be removed by the patience and persistence of informed peoples—for they want no more war.

The inauguration of a President can be a Roman holiday. The temptation is to emphasize the political triumph of candidate or party. This is but a one-day phase. It passes, along with the other oddities of American democracy, and might be likened to the celebrations of other peoples as they crown their kings or fete their rulers.

There Is Nothing Permanent

The difference perhaps is that there is nothing permanent about the tenure of office here. It is temporary. Four years is a brief time within which a President can try to work out a program of reform and welfare. It is punctuated, moreover, in midterm by a congressional election when a coordinate branch of the government goes before the people.

What does a man who is inaugurated President of the United States think about in this climactic moment of his career? What thoughts run through his mind as the people cheer him and the eyes of the nation are focused on him? Does he think of himself as just an extraordinary man — or a lucky man? Might he be soliloquizing on the fact that out of nearly 150,000,000 persons he has been selected for this honor in these fateful times? Does he think of himself as better fitted than the opponent that he defeated? Does he think of himself as better than anyone else his party might have selected?

In short, does a President as he stands there on the east front of the Capitol and takes the oath allow the ego within him to suffuse his mind or does he conquer that ego by thoughts of humbleness and service to the people who have honored him?

The words that come forth on these occasions are usually words of humbleness. Presidents deliver their inaugural addresses with solemnity and dignity. They know the people expect them to be modest and almost deferential in their attitude, though it will be recalled that, in his first inaugural, Franklin Roosevelt delivered a defiant outburst with phrases reminiscent of his political campaign. He struck the first note of the class warfare which ensued with greater and greater intensity in the years that followed.

Mr. Truman

Mr. Truman is a good man in every sense of the word. He is honest. He is God-fearing. He is eager to serve the people and his country. He has courage. His stubborn pride of conviction can often be a virtue. Sometimes it hides a tragic misconception of fact. His heart reaches out with humanitarian zeal to serve his fellow men. His chief weakness is his fidelity to faction. He is a political partisan. It is the principal barrier to greatness in the presidency or any other office. That is why the challenges of public opinion will be good for Mr. Truman. They will remind him of the humbleness expressed this day.

For here is the real difference between crowning a king and inaugurating a President. A king can do no wrong—the concept associated with his reign is best expressed by the phrase "the divine right of kings." A President, however, can be wrong and—what is even more important — the humblest citizen can tell him so. It is this which we celebrate today. It is this which we rededicate when we applaud with all our hearts the inauguration of Harry S. Truman and wish him good luck, good health and a most successful administration.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—(INS)—A presidential inauguration is big business. The 500,000 visitors who have come to Washington to yell for little old Harry will spend $30,000,000 before they pack their bunions and depart.

They are blowing the thirty million on the likes of:

Hotel rooms at an average of $15 a day;

Formal banquets at $15 a plate;

Parade seats from $2.50 to $10.

Inaugural ball tickets at $10.

"Gala" tickets ranging from $2.50 to $10.

Some incredible amount of money is pouring into restaurants, sit-down saloons, department stores, shops, florists and other trades. Prices are high everywhere except in the city's little meterless taxi cabs—where in you can travel around the town about as cheaply as you could for the inauguration of Taft. And about as uncomfortably, if you stand more than five-feet-two.

To one who misspent his youth writing pieces thunderingly describing the size and magnificence of such events as heavyweight championship fights, Army-Navy football games, world series and Kentucky derbies, the inaugular show constitutes a severe strain on the vocabulary.

It will be hard to marvel any more at the size of the temporary bleachers set up in the Yankee Stadium for an outdoor fight, or behind the end zone for a big grid game, or the number of folks on hand for the muscle-snapping orgies.

The bleachers in Washington today were filled all the way from the Capitol to beyond the White House on both sides of the parade's line or March. The "gate" from this alone, including the tickets scalped, must have been a million dollars.

There were nearly twice as many people in the stands and on the lawn of the Capitol to watch those ceremonies than were present last October in Cleveland when all records for baseball attendance were smashed.

More than a million persons saw some portion or all of the show with the naked eye. More reporters and radio men were on hand to describe than had ever been concentrated for any event in history, and their words reached more people in more countries than the account of any other single event.

Television owners as far as 50 miles west of St. Louis saw Mr. Trumans' every move as he made that move, heard every word as quickly as he spoke. The television audience, thanks to the recent opening of the coaxial cable which joins the east coast network of video stations with the mid-west net, was estimated at 10,000,000—a figure based on the assumption that those prime custodians of public tele-viewing, the bartenders of America, switched on the inaugural doings.

Thus, visually, Truman was seen simultaneously by more human beings than any other person who ever lived. And his voice reached more people, and his words affected more peoples, than any of the countless billions of humans who preceded him on earth.

Nearly one million square miles of territory, now cut up into 20-odd states, were once purchased by a Truman predecessor for just half of the amount which will be spent in Washington by Friday night. Alaska, with its incredible riches, cost just one-fourth of the inaugural bill. Indeed, we won our independence from Britain for a smaller financial investment than the cost of this inauguration.

"Everything about the inauguration is superlative. More food will be consumed, more whisky swallowed, more laundry done, more arches will fall and arteries harden than ever at any event. The superlatives extend all the way down the line to "Kissin' Jim" Folsom, the biggest governor ever to march in such a parade. In the tune of the occasion. Folsom brought what he calls his "million dollar" brass band.

More hotel furniture will be broke or defaced, more ash trays stolen, crockery smashed than the annals of the city previously recorded. The multi-piano act at the "gala" was the biggest piano act ever staged, and it lacked only the accompaniment of the most famous piano-thumper who ever came in from Missouri.

P. S.—There seems to be every reason to believe that the inauguration, before its thunder dies, will provide the biggest hangover in the history of a land which has known some beauts.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Today all roads lead into President Truman's lap. He is setting as pretty as sweethearts on a bench.

●—●—●

If there ever was a self-made President it's the little man from Kansas City. Harry followed the old political line of breaking a promise with a bigger promise.

●—●—●

And all the time Governor Dewey walked around looking like he had eaten more than was punched on his cafeteria check. But he never let anybody tn on the secret.

●—●—●

So today completes the American saga of opportunity. If it knocks more than once it's the brush man.

Court Nullifies Factory Sale

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 20 (AP) — The Court of Appeals ordered set aside the sale of the Cumberland Mattress Factory by relatives of Richard Wiegand, who died in 1947.

The court upheld in part and reversed in part an Allegany County Circuit Court decree in a lawsuit among members of the family over settlement of Wiegand's estate.

The case was sent back to the county court for entering a decree setting aside the sale of the factory, formerly owned in part by Weigand, to Abe Feldstein. The property was sold by Mrs. Theresa Shipes for $8,000 on June 19, 1947, a month after Wiegand's death.

The high court's opinion, written by Judge Charles Markell, favored six brothers and sisters: Mary Sines, Edith Kenney, William and Charles Wiegand, Elizabeth Daughton and Amanda Kenney. Their suit was against Mrs. Theresa Shipes, her husband W. Clavin Ship , Elizabeth Janes (Shipes) Fisher and Abe Feldstein.

Evidence in the case was complex, Markell said. "Some of it is contradictory, some of it incredible, some immaterial."

Charles Z. Heskett and Clarence Lippel were attorneys for the six brothers and sisters, D. Lindley Hoan and Estel C. Kelley represented the Shipes while F. Brooke Whiting was counsel for Feldstein in the hearing last year.

Margaret Stemple To Be Bride Of R. R. Brotemarkle

Wedding Planned For Saturday

Miss Margaret Ellen Stemple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Stemple, 28 Browning Street, is to become the bride of Richard Ralph Brotemarkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Brotemarkle, 509 Dilley Street, tomorrow. The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized at 2:30 in St. John's Lutheran Church with Rev. Donald F. Brake officiating.

Her bridal party will include Mrs. Norma Emerick as her matron of honor; Miss Mina Jean Bucy, Mrs. Jean Brotemarkle, Miss Dorothy Lease, Mrs. Marian Wallis, bridesmaids; Janice Gray, flower girl; and Sharon Ann Blume, train bearer. Allen Brotemarkle will serve as his brother's best man and the ushers will be Robert Myers and Kenneth Henderson.

Vocalists for the ceremony will be Miss Sadie Cook and John Weber; Miss Mary Louise Bender will accompany them on the organ and play the traditional wedding marches.

Mr. and Mrs. Stemple will entertain in honor of their daughter and her bridal party following the ceremony. The reception will be held in the Sunday School recreation room.

Miss Stemple was honored by members of the King's Daughters Sunday School Class earlier in the week at the home of Mrs. Georgia Davey, Massachusetts Avenue. The gifts were arranged in a little wagon in which was a miniature doll of a boy in blue and girl in pink under a red wax umbrella, which when lit released a shower of water. The bridal motif was carried out in the cake which centered the refreshment table.

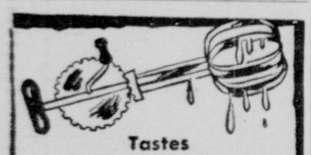

Other guests attending were Jessie Wiley, Mary Louise Bender, Marjory Hook, Ruth Eichhorn, Martha Weber, Mrs. Donald Brake and Norma Emerick.

Members of the Stitch and Chatter Club entertained with a miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Stemple recently at the home of Mrs. R.R. Brotemarkle, Dilley Street. The shower and bridal themes were combined with a pink, green and white color scheme in the cake and table appointments. Approximately 28 guests attended.

Marriage Announced

The marriage of Miss Rita Katherine Buskey to Salvatore Artino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Artino, Sr., Washington, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. George F. Buskey, 35 Humbird Street, parents of the bride. The ceremony was performed January 2 in St. Francis DeSales Church, Benedict, by Rev. W. Joyce Russell. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Artino, Jr., were the attendants.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents. The couple will reside at Mt. Ranier.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

The Sunshine

While writing one of these talks recently, I looked out of the windows upon a very dark and dismal day, and noted how very bleak it was—but I wrote on. Then suddenly, as though from nowhere, the sunshine broke through the clouds and everything was bright. I immediately forgot all about any outside darkness.

That is the way it is with life. No sorrow, no unhappiness, no disappointment lasts long. There are always better days, and more sunshine yet to come. Celia Thaxter, the poet, once wrote out a little line, in her own handwriting, and a friend gave it to me. It is under the glass of my work desk. It says: "The sunrise has never failed us yet."

There are hope, healing, and happiness in sunshine. It is the source of life, growth, and beauty. In the Springtime it warms the earth, pulls the tiny blades of grass from their long sleep, and thousands of buds appear in magic flowers. Leaves break out from the bare limbs of Winter's trees, and soon the earth has become transformed into a great and miraculous garden.

Nothing heals like the sunshine. It cheers, too, and it blesses everything that it touches. It's God smiling over all. How the birds sing in it, as though expressing in song their grateful doxology! It bathes the heart with hope and gives courage to the faint. Recently, in my northern home, I have looked out upon a beautiful mantle of snow that has been spread like a great blanket, and with the sunshine sweeping over it, casting long shadows from naked trees, I have looked upon it all in wonder at such great beauty.

And when there is no sunshine out of doors, there may be much inside, if you will but look for it. In great books there is the sunshine of noble and inspiring thoughts, many of which owe their inception to the sunshine of nature. Robert Burns, ploughing in the field, and stopping to pick up a tiny flower, or watching a field mouse scamper in play. And then a poem about it all!

You can find sunshine in a number of places, if you will but look for it. It shines out from many a hurt heart, or from one buried in pain, but still sunshine in that heart.

New Look For Bobbies

LONDON (AP)—London police—you've seen them in the movies—are going to pop out of those tight-collar jackets and into something more comfortable.

A government commission on British police uniforms has recommended an open-neck, lapeled tunic for summer wear with a light shirt and dark four-in-hand tie. Scotland Yard, headquarters of the metropolitan police, will hand out the new garb to its "bobbies" beginning next April.

The police will keep their tall, stiff helmets.

Happy Birthday, Sis

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., Jan. 19 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Jane Hessler received birthday greetings today from her "little" brother, 97-year-old Samuel Edler. She's 100.

The first American theater was opened in Charleston, S. C., in 1736.

New Look For Bobbies

LONDON (AP)—London police—you've seen them in the movies—are going to pop out of those tight-collar jackets and into something more comfortable.

A government commission on British police uniforms has recommended an open-neck, lapeled tunic for summer wear with a light shirt and dark four-in-hand tie. Scotland Yard, headquarters of the metropolitan police, will hand out the new garb to its "bobbies" beginning next April.

The police will keep their tall, stiff helmets.

Is Jumbo Peanut Butter Really as Good as We Say?

Here's a Fair Way to Decide:
Make the Easy "TWIN CRACKER" Test

1. Serve each member of your family two crackers, one spread with Jumbo, one with your present peanut butter brand. Be sure you remember which one is spread with Jumbo.

2. Unless everyone prefers Jumbo Peanut Butter, your grocer will refund your money upon return of the partly empty jar.

Honestly—could we make this offer unless we knew there was no finer peanut butter on the market?

Taste the delightful difference when peanut butter contains only the meat of the nut—no bitter parts or shreds of brown skins. Enjoy the special blend of choice Spanish and Virginia peanuts, slow-roasted; see and taste the delectable buttery texture of Jumbo Peanut Butter, homogenized to retard oil separation. You've discovered peanut butter at its best!

Premiums youngsters will enjoy! See the label!

Credit Union To Elect Officers

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Employes Federal Credit Union will elect officers and map future policy at the annual meeting to be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Queen City Ball Room, according to C. R. Wheeler, president.

Wheeler stated the meeting will mark the climax of a prosperous year for the organization. He pointed out that share holdings, which represent savings for members, stands at approximately $20,000.

Earnings have been sufficient to permit a payment of a three per cent dividend on shares, and the board of directors has recommended that this rate be declared by the members, White reported.

The group was formed here last February with 16 members, and has grown to 602. During the first year of operation the credit union made 237 loans to members, ranging in size from $15 to $430. The total amount loaned was $28,165, of which $19,551 is outstanding.

Cleveland, O., came very near to being the automobile capital of the United States, instead of Detroit, as more than 80 different makes of cars were built there during the early days of the industry.

First Federal Group Elects Officers

The Board of Directors of the First Federal Savings and Loan Company yesterday elected officers for the institution.

Those elected were George W. Martin, president; Robert T. Powell, vice president; Lynn C. Lashley, executive vice president; Gerald L. Harrison, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Henrietta C. Ponton, assistant secretary; Mrs. Cora Z. Hardin, assistant treasurer; William H. Harmon, assistant treasurer, and George W. Legge, attorney and counsel.

Harmon is a newly-elected officer, while Harrison previously held only the position of treasurer.

Two Divorces Granted

Two divorces were granted in Circuit Court Wednesday. Alda Faye McDonald was given an absolute divorce from Garrett Keith McDonald and the custody of their two minor children. Virginia S. Matthews was given an absolute divorce from Gilbert Matthews.

Before the American Revolution Philadelphia was the second largest city in the British Empire.

Grandma's Favorite Bread Pudding Comes To Life In New Recipes

Possibly no other dessert lingers in our memories so pleasantly as grandmother's favorite bread pudding. It is well remembered for its delicate texture and excellent flavor.

A new twist to this old favorite is "Pineapple Bread Pudding." Canned crushed pineapple is the flavor accent that makes this dessert exceptionally delicious.

Just like grandmother's recipe, it is easy to make. For ease in serving make the pudding in individual casseroles. When ready to serve—hot or cold—garnish the top with mounds of crushed pineapple, colorful jelly or preserves. Some like to serve vanilla milk or light cream with the pudding.

Pineapple Bread Pudding

2 cups cubed day-old bread
2 cups milk
2 eggs
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 8-oz. can crushed pineapple

Soak bread in milk until softened. Add slightly beaten eggs and other ingredients. Mix and pour into a one-quart casserole (or 6 individual casseroles). Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) one hour, or until an inserted knife blade comes out clean. Serve hot with vanilla milk, if desired. Six generous servings.

With your Pineapple Bread Pudding as dessert, a main course dish of Cheese Cups with Buttered Peas and Olives pleases big appetites on winter evenings.

Cheese Cups

1 cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup grated American cheese
⅓ cup shortening
3 tablespoons cold water
Salt
Pepper

To make the cheese cups: Sift together the flour and salt. Cut grated cheese and shortening into flour mixture. Add cold water and roll to the thickness of pastry. Cut in squares and line muffin tins; the corners will extend over the edge giving an attractive shape. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F) about 15 minutes or until browned. When shells are baked remove and fill with peas and olive mixture.

Buttered Peas With Olives

1 No. 2 can peas
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup chopped ripe olives

To make buttered peas and olives: Drain the liquid from the peas and reduce, by boiling, to about one-half cup. Add the peas, butter and ripe olives. Season to taste. Six servings.

Serve hot luncheon sandwiches for late evening entertaining on crisp cool nights. Slice a 12-ounce can of luncheon meat and place in a shallow pan. Heat in a moderate oven (350 degrees F) until slices start to curl. Mix ⅓ cup grated American cheese with ½ cup sharp mayonnaise. Remove hot pork slices, place on buns, or bread slices, and spread with cheese mixture. Return to oven to heat until cheese partly melts.

Gold Recovery Work Halted

SYDNEY—(AP)—A Sydney syndicate's plan to recover gold from the sunken liner Niagara has been abandoned.

The Niagara was sunk by mines 30 miles north of Auckland in the early war years. Gold worth $7,776,000 was recovered by divers. Bullion valued at $490,000 remains in the wreck at a depth of 438 feet. The syndicate planned to salvage this gold.

Deep sea diver John Johnstone told newsmen in Sydney the revaluation of New Zealand currency has forced the syndicate to abandon the scheme. The syndicate, he said, was unable to raise sufficient extra money to make up the exchange loss between Australia and New Zealand.

Mixing Alky With Gas

SOUTH BENT, Ind. (AP)—Alcohol and gasoline can be mixed. At least for high-speed airplanes. A fuel system designed by Bendix Aviation corp. and widely used on fast military planes uses a mixture of alcohol, water and gasoline for increased power in takeoffs of for bursts of speed in maneuvers or combat.

Metered quantities of acohol and water are sprayed into the cylinders with the regular gasoline mixture. The alcohol prevents freezing at high altitudes. Engineers say the power of engines can thus be increased momentarily by as much as 30 per cent.

Grandma's Favorite Bread Pudding Comes To Life In New Recipes

Possibly no other dessert lingers in our memories so pleasantly as grandmother's favorite bread pudding. It is well remembered for its delicate texture and excellent flavor.

A new twist to this old favorite is "Pineapple Bread Pudding." Canned crushed pineapple is the flavor accent that makes this dessert exceptionally delicious.

Just like grandmother's recipe, it is easy to make. For ease in serving make the pudding in individual casseroles. When ready to serve—hot or cold—garnish the top with mounds of crushed pineapple, colorful jelly or preserves. Some like to serve vanilla milk or light cream with the pudding.

Pineapple Bread Pudding

2 cups cubed day-old bread
2 cups milk
2 eggs
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 8-oz. can crushed pineapple

Soak bread in milk until softened. Add slightly beaten eggs and other ingredients. Mix and pour into a one-quart casserole (or 6 individual casseroles). Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) one hour, or until an inserted knife blade comes out clean. Serve hot with vanilla milk, if desired. Six generous servings.

With your Pineapple Bread Pudding as dessert, a main course dish of Cheese Cups with Buttered Peas and Olives pleases big appetites on winter evenings.

Cheese Cups

1 cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup grated American cheese
⅓ cup shortening
3 tablespoons cold water
Salt
Pepper

To make the cheese cups: Sift together the flour and salt. Cut grated cheese and shortening into flour mixture. Add cold water and roll to the thickness of pastry. Cut in squares and line muffin tins; the corners will extend over the edge giving an attractive shape. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F) about 15 minutes or until browned. When shells are baked remove and fill with peas and olive mixture.

Buttered Peas With Olives

1 No. 2 can peas
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup chopped ripe olives

To make buttered peas and olives: Drain the liquid from the peas and reduce, by boiling, to about one-half cup. Add the peas, butter and ripe olives. Season to taste. Six servings.

Serve hot luncheon sandwiches for late evening entertaining on crisp cool nights. Slice a 12-ounce can of luncheon meat and place in a shallow pan. Heat in a moderate oven (350 degrees F) until slices start to curl. Mix ⅓ cup grated American cheese with ½ cup sharp mayonnaise. Remove hot pork slices, place on buns, or bread slices, and spread with cheese mixture. Return to oven to heat until cheese partly melts.

Plain Talk Best Method To Stop Untrue Rumor

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I've been dating this girl for about two months now, and from what I hear, I'm definitely out of circulation as far as any other dates are concerned, and I'm tagged as hers. I can't see it this way. I like to take her out now and then, but have no ideas of settling down to go steady. But what can I do to get out of this situation now?"

(A) It calls for fast action and plain talk. Since she's behind it, you'd better talk to her and set her straight before the gossip has a chance to spread. Make it clear that your dating has been fun, but you have no intentions of concentrating on just one, and it would be best to stop seeing her for a while. The cold shoulder isn't necessary, but once you're seen with different girls, the word that you're still on the loose will get around. Whether or not you date the girl in question later will be up to you.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I've just started going around with a new crowd in my high school, and we've been getting along swell; but there's one thing I don't like. A couple of the girls who've become my friends have certain ideas on how I should change my hair-do and expressions; and they give free advice on which type of clothes to wear. Everybody comments on those things, but these two really harp on it. I don't want to lose their friendship by telling them off, but I would like to know how to stop them."

(A) You can't please everyone, but it's no one's business to attempt to reform a new friend. It will only cause hard feelings if you put it plainly that you'd appreciate it if they'd tend to their own affairs and leave you alone. About the best answer you can give when they begin pulling you apart and putting you back together according to their ideas is to smile, say thank you, but that you're satisfied with you the way you are. Say that you realize you could improve, but you'll decide when and how.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I can't ever have a long talk with my pal without having it end in a wild argument. He insists he's right, no matter which side he takes on any question; and once he really gets mad, he doesn't care what he says or does. In spite of all this, he's a fine friend; and yet some of the crowd are beginning to leave him out when we set out to do things. I don't like it, but what can I do about it?"

(A) It looks as though he'll become an outsider in no time unless you give him the word, set him right, and let him in on the feelings of his friends. He can't continue to ride rough-shod over the people he knows and expect to get away with it time after time. His best bet is to stay out of these long discussions, or to count to 10 before giving forth with his opinions. It's a choice and it's up to him. Either he changes his attitude or he settles down to being a hermit.

Miss Mottram cannot answer all letters personally, but the most important ones will be answered in her column.

Many Austrian Women Work

VIENNA—(AP)—A recent government survey shows that women comprise more than one third of the total employed population in this country.

Although no figures are available for the pre-war period, it is believed that many more women are working now than there were before the war.

Many women who learned trades during the war have continued to hold jobs to supplement the family income especially apparent following the currency reform when a shortage of cash was accompanied by a greater availability of all kinds of goods. At that time, the survey shows, many women who should not ordinarily work obtained jobs.

Plain Talk Best Method To Stop Untrue Rumor

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I've been dating this girl for about two months now, and from what I hear, I'm definitely out of circulation as far as any other dates are concerned, and I'm tagged as hers. I can't see it this way. I like to take her out now and then, but have no ideas of settling down to go steady. But what can I do to get out of this situation now?"

(A) It calls for fast action and plain talk. Since she's behind it, you'd better talk to her and set her straight before the gossip has a chance to spread. Make it clear that your dating has been fun, but you have no intentions of concentrating on just one, and it would be best to stop seeing her for a while. The cold shoulder isn't necessary, but once you're seen with different girls, the word that you're still on the loose will get around. Whether or not you date the girl in question later will be up to you.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I've just started going around with a new crowd in my high school, and we've been getting along swell; but there's one thing I don't like. A couple of the girls who've become my friends have certain ideas on how I should change my hair-do and expressions; and they give free advice on which type of clothes to wear. Everybody comments on those things, but these two really harp on it. I don't want to lose their friendship by telling them off, but I would like to know how to stop them."

(A) You can't please everyone, but it's no one's business to attempt to reform a new friend. It will only cause hard feelings if you put it plainly that you'd appreciate it if they'd tend to their own affairs and leave you alone. About the best answer you can give when they begin pulling you apart and putting you back together according to their ideas is to smile, say thank you, but that you're satisfied with you the way you are. Say that you realize you could improve, but you'll decide when and how.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I can't ever have a long talk with my pal without having it end in a wild argument. He insists he's right, no matter which side he takes on any question; and once he really gets mad, he doesn't care what he says or does. In spite of all this, he's a fine friend; and yet some of the crowd are beginning to leave him out when we set out to do things. I don't like it, but what can I do about it?"

(A) It looks as though he'll become an outsider in no time unless you give him the word, set him right, and let him in on the feelings of his friends. He can't continue to ride rough-shod over the people he knows and expect to get away with it time after time. His best bet is to stay out of these long discussions, or to count to 10 before giving forth with his opinions. It's a choice and it's up to him. Either he changes his attitude or he settles down to being a hermit.

Miss Mottram cannot answer all letters personally, but the most important ones will be answered in her column.

Many Austrian Women Work

VIENNA—(AP)—A recent government survey shows that women comprise more than one third of the total employed population in this country.

Although no figures are available for the pre-war period, it is believed that many more women are working now than there were before the war.

Many women who learned trades during the war have continued to hold jobs to supplement the family income, especially apparent following the currency reform when a shortage of cash was accompanied by a greater availability of all kinds of goods. At that time, the survey shows, many women who should not ordinarily work obtained jobs.

Oatmeal Base Of Delicious Hot Breakfast Bread

If you'd like to serve your family a delicious hot bread for breakfast without getting up at the crack of dawn, you'll like new Oatmeal Coffee Bread. Most of the preparation can be done the night before. Follow the recipe below and, in making advance preparations, sift together the dry ingredients and mix in the raisins and nuts. All you'll have to do in the morning is combine with the remaining ingredients and pop the bread in the oven. You can bake it in muffin pans, if you like, or in a shallow pan and then cut it into squares.

Borrow breakfast's new treat for lunch when you're serving fruit salad . . . or anytime you want to feature a hot homemade bread that does right by your reputation as a cook.

Oatmeal Coffee Bread

CRUMB TOPPING

3 tablespoons butter or margarine.
¼ cup sugar.
3 tablespoons flour.
½ teaspoon cinnamon.
¼ teaspoon nutmeg.

Cut butter into dry ingredients with pastry blender or two knives until mixture resembles coarse meal. Set aside for use on top of batter.

BREAD

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour.
2½ teaspoons baking powder.
4 tablespoons sugar.
1 teaspoon salt.
½ cup raisins.
½ cup chopped nuts.
1 egg.
¾ cup quick-cooking rolled oats.
1 cup milk.
4 tablespoons melted fat.

Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt; stir in raisins and nuts. Beat egg slightly; add rolled oats, milk, and fat. Add to first mixture, mix quickly but thoroughly. Fill greased muffin pans, 2 inches in diameter, ⅔ full or turn into greased 9-inch square pan; sprinkle with crumb topping. Bake in hot oven (425-450 degrees F.) about 25 minutes. YIELD: 12 muffins.

Total color blindness is extremely rare.

Coffee Bread Brings Rolled Oats To Breakfast in a New Way

HERE'S a new breakfast idea in two parts. Delicious Oatmeal Coffee Bread is partly made the night before and finished up in a jiffy in the morning. Besides sturdy rolled oats, this breakfast treat boasts raisins and nuts. See the easy recipe elsewhere on this page.

Talleyrand, French diplomat of the Napoleonic era, was for a time a flour salesman in Philadelphia.

Tracks Picture Extinct Animal

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—A scientist has worked out an ingenious way to tell what an extinct animal looked like merely by studying its tracks. Some animals lived so long ago that fossil footprints are the only evidence of their existence. Such a creature was the chirotherium, a reptile which lived about 200 million years ago. The tracks of its hind feet resemble prints made by a human hand.

Dr. Frank E. Peabody, University of California paleontologist, coaxed salamanders to walk across sheets of smoked paper and layers of mud in his laboratory. From the resulting tracks he learned how to describe a modern salamander. The size and length of the tracks told him something about the size and weight of the animal. The length and width of the stride added other data. Orientation of the feet gave other facts. A lot was gained from what he called "pace angulation"—the angle formed by three consecutive steps.

Then he worked on some 20-million-year old salamander tracks. These results indicated the method applied to chirotherium tracks would give a similarly accurate picture. Dr. Peabody concluded that the chirotheria, which lived long before the dinosaur, varied in weight and size ranging from that of a chicken to a beast standing about 6 feet high at the hips. He has been able to predict what its bones should look like.

The university's excavators already have found in Arizona some fossil bone fragments which may turn out to be the first skeletal remains of a chirotherium. However, they are not sure yet.

Elgin Marbles On Display

LONDON—(AP)—The all-clear has been sounded for the famous Elgin Marbles. They are coming out of their wartime hide-out in a London subway station (Aldwych) where they have been stored for nine years.

There are 100 tons of Greek sculptures which were removed from the Acropolis in Athens by Lord Elgin at the beginning of the last century, when the temples had been turned into a Turkish fortress.

Among the works, bought by Britain in 1816 for £36,000 ($144,000), is a part of the frieze of the Parthenon. The sculptures are being taken back to the British Museum where they will be placed on view in the Duveen gallery.

Lutherans To Aid Children

GENEVA—(AP)—Two hundred and fifty children, who lost their fathers, mothers and homes in the war, are going to find new homes in the United States through an offer of the National Lutheran Council.

Dr. Clarence Krumbholz, director of the welfare division of the council, in a letter to William Hallam Tuck, director general of the International Refugees organization, outlined the plan and said sick and handicapped children would be taken along with the healthy and normal.

Dr. Krumbholz said the council guaranteed care for all the orphans "either in foster homes or in institutions as would be indicated by their particular needs." All the children are now under IRO care in Germany.

British Count War Births

LONDON — (AP) — Britain, slowly catching upon war-interrupted records of vital statistics, reports its birthrate reached in 1943 its highest level in 13 years.

A general statistical review said the birthrate during that wartime year amounted to 16.2 per 1,000 total population as compared with 16.3 in 1930.

Simultaneously, there were 296,432 marriages during that year — the lowest number since 1926 when they totalled 279,860.

Japs Like Cooperatives

TOKYO—(AP)—Japanese farmers seem to like the idea of running their own co-operatives. Occupation orders reformed the old government-controlled, compulsory co-ops. Membership is now voluntary. More than 7,250,000 farmers joined 28,000 co-ops and 10,500 mutual relief associations in the first year under the occupation plan.

Oatmeal Base Of Delicious Hot Breakfast Bread

If you'd like to serve your family a delicious hot bread for breakfast without getting up at the crack of dawn, you'll like new Oatmeal Coffee Bread. Most of the preparation can be done the night before. Follow the recipe below and, in making advance preparations, sift together the dry ingredients and mix in the raisins and nuts. All you'll have to do in the morning is combine with the remaining ingredients and pop the bread in the oven. You can bake it in muffin pans, if you like, or in a shallow pan and then cut it into squares.

Borrow breakfast's new treat for lunch when you're serving fruit salad . . . or anytime you want to feature a hot homemade bread that does right by your reputation as a cook.

Oatmeal Coffee Bread

CRUMB TOPPING

3 tablespoons butter or margarine.
¼ cup sugar.
3 tablespoons flour.
½ teaspoon cinnamon.
¼ teaspoon nutmeg.

Cut butter into dry ingredients with pastry blender or two knives until mixture resembles coarse meal. Set aside for use on top of batter.

BREAD

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour.
2½ teaspoons baking powder.
4 tablespoons sugar.
1 teaspoon salt.
½ cup raisins.
½ cup chopped nuts.
1 egg.
¾ cup quick-cooking rolled oats.
1 cup milk.
4 tablespoons melted fat.

Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt; stir in raisins and nuts. Beat egg slightly; add rolled oats, milk, and fat. Add to first mixture, mix quickly but thoroughly. Fill greased muffin pans, 2 inches in diameter, ⅔ full-or turn into greased 9-inch square pan; sprinkle with crumb topping. Bake in hot oven (425-450 degrees F.) about 25 minutes. YIELD: 12 muffins.

Total color blindness is extremely rare.

Talleyrand, French diplomat of the Napoleonic era, was for a time a flour salesman in Philadelphia.

Coffee Bread Brings Rolled Oats To Breakfast in a New Way

HERE'S a new breakfast idea in two parts. Delicious Oatmeal Coffee Bread is partly made the night before and finished up in a jiffy in the morning. Besides sturdy rolled oats, this breakfast treat boasts raisins and nuts. See the easy recipe elsewhere on this page.

Tracks Picture Extinct Animal

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—A scientist has worked out an ingenious way to tell what an extinct animal looked like merely by studying its tracks. Some animals lived so long ago that fossil footprints are the only evidence of their existence. Such a creature was the chirotherium, a reptile which lived about 200 million years ago. The tracks of its hind feet resemble prints made by a human hand.

Dr. Frank E. Peabody, University of California paleontologist, coaxed salamanders to walk across sheets of smoked paper and layers of mud in his laboratory. From the resulting tracks he learned how to describe a modern salamander. The size and length of the tracks told him something about the size and weight of the animal. The length and width of the stride added other data. Orientation of the feet gave other facts. A lot was gained from what he called "pace angulation"—the angle formed by three consecutive steps.

Then he worked on some 20-million-year old salamander tracks. These results indicated the method applied to chirotherium tracks would give a similarly accurate picture. Dr. Peabody concluded that the chirotheria, which lived long before the dinosaur, varied in weight and size ranging from that of a chicken to a beast standing about 6 feet high at the hips. He has been able to predict what its bones should look like.

The university's excavators already have found in Arizona some fossil bone fragments which may turn out to be the first skeletal remains of a chirotherium. However, they are not sure yet.

Elgin Marbles On Display

LONDON—(AP)—The all-clear has been sounded for the famous Elgin Marbles. They are coming out of their wartime hide-out in a London subway station (Aldwych) where they have been stored for nine years.

There are 100 tons of Greek sculptures which were removed from the Acropolis in Athens by Lord Elgin at the beginning of the last century, when the temples had been turned into a Turkish fortress.

Among the works, bought by Britain in 1816 for £36,000 ($144,000), is a part of the frieze of the Parthenon. The sculptures are being taken back to the British Museum where they will be placed on view in the Duveen gallery.

Lutherans To Aid Children

GENEVA—(AP)—Two hundred and fifty children, who lost their fathers, mothers and homes in the war, are going to find new homes in the United States through an offer of the National Lutheran Council.

Dr. Clarence Krumbholz, director of the welfare division of the council, in a letter to William Hallam Tuck, director general of the International Refugees organization, outlined the plan and said sick and handicapped children would be taken along with the healthy and normal.

Dr. Krumbholz said the council guaranteed care for all the orphans "either in foster homes or in institutions as would be indicated by their particular needs." All the children are now under IRO care in Germany.

British Count War Births

LONDON — (AP) — Britain, slowly catching upon war-interrupted records of vital statistics, reports its birthrate reached in 1943 its highest level in 13 years.

A general statistical review said the birthrate during that wartime year amounted to 16.2 per 1,000 total population as compared with 16.3 in 1930.

Simultaneously, there were 296,432 marriages during that year — the lowest number since 1926 when they totalled 279,860.

Japs Like Cooperatives

TOKYO—(AP)—Japanese farmers seem to like the idea of running their own co-operatives. Occupation orders reformed the old government-controlled, compulsory co-ops. Membership is now voluntary. More than 7,250,000 farmers joined 28,000 co-ops and 10,500 mutual relief associations in the first year under the occupation plan.

Fort Hill And AHS Battle For WMI Lead Tonight

Bob Lookabaugh Is Eligible For League Contest

Game 49th Of Series, Sentinels Unbeaten

Hawks At Fort Ashby, Lions Test Jackets

Cumberland's top scholastic basketball teams — Fort Hill and Allegany — will clash for the 49th time tonight at Campobello.

Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's undefeated Sentinels will put their 10-game winning streak on the line against an Allegany High team that has won seven contests and lost three.

It's the second game of the three-cornered intra-city series which was launched by Fort Hill's 45-32 victory over LaSalle. The game is also a battle for first place in the W. M. I. League, each team having 4-0 records to date in the six-club county circuit.

Fort Hill is the defending champion of the W.M.I. League as well as city titleholder, having captured double honors last season by defeating AHS in a playoff game in March on SS. Peter and Paul court, 46-38. During the regular 1948 season the teams split even, Fort Hill taking the opener at home, 41-34 while the Campers won at Campobello, 33-29. Allegany had won five consecutive W.M.I. League titles before being dethroned in last season's playoff.

In 48 contests between the schools Allegany holds a 35-13 lead in the series with Penn Avenue-Fort Hill teams.

May Use Lookabaugh

Coach Walter L. Bowers of AHS last night announced that he may use Bob Lookabaugh in tonight's game.

Lookabaugh is eligible for WMI League games but he's ineligible for city contests until the end of the first semester.

"Our team is much stronger with Lookabaugh playing," Bowers declared. "If we win with him in the lineup we'd forfeit to Fort Hill in the city series yet we'd get credit for a win in the league where there is more at stake because the Class "A" winner in the county is eligible to compete for state honors."

When asked if Lookabaugh would start the game, Bowers replied: "I'll make a definite decision at game time."

Lookabaugh has appeared in all of the W.M.I. League contests played by Allegany to date and in those tilts the Bowersmen have averaged 53 points per game. Ed Landefeld, Ned Clopton, John Vernall and Jim Ruehl will be the other AHS players if Lookabaugh starts. Mason, Alderson, Lattimer, Burke and Eckard will likely start for the Sentinels.

The game will get under way at 8 o'clock.

At 7 o'clock the Fort Hill and Allegany Reserves will clash.

Other WMI League games on tap for tonight are Barton at Beall and Central at Bruce.

Ridgeley Seeks 3rd Win

Four Potomac Valley Conference games are also on tap. Ridgeley's defending champions, victorious over Piedmont and Keyser, will go after their third conference win when they test Tom Small's Fort Ashby Eagles at Fort Ashby.

Moorefield's Yellow Jackets with a 4-1 record play hosts to the Piedmont High Lions, Circleville battles Petersburg's Vikings at Petersburg and Keyser tests Elk Garden at the latter place.

The "Battle of Tucker County" pits Thomas against Parsons at Thomas. Davis High's Wildcats lead in that race with a 48-36 win over Thomas. Davis plays at Greenbank tonight Paw Paw is scheduled to invade Warrensville.

In a collegiate contest set for Keyser, Potomac State Shool meets Westinghouse Apprentice School of Pittsburgh at 8 o'clock.

Girls Battle For Lead

First place in the W.M.I. Girls' League will be at stake today when Fort Hill meets Allegany on the Fort Hill court at 3:30 o'clock. The teams are now tied for first place with 2-0 records.

Central will play host to Bruce in the other girls' league game listed today.

St. Louis led by two points — 14 to 12 — at the half. But twice-beaten A. & M. bounced back to knot the game at 25-all and the game moved into overtime.

National League Gives Bert Bell 10-Year Contract

Guarantees Boosted For Visiting Teams

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 20 (AP) — The National League, apparently looking ahead to a secure future, today gave Commissioner Bert Bell a 10-year contract, guaranteed visiting teams a $20,000 take and cut player limits in a minor economy move.

Bert Bell

Bell, with three years to serve on a contract signed in 1947, will draw a salary of approximately $30,000 on his new 10 year pact.

Clubs traveling on the road in 1949 will receive a minimum of $20,000 when they play—an increase of $5,000.

The guarantee, is made to offset the "gate" percentage should it fall below $20,000. Visiting teams receive 40 per cent of the gross. At some parks last year the take barely covered expenses although a $15,000 guarantee was assured. One exception was teams playing against the Chicago Bears in Wrigley Field where the "gate" percentage was well above the guarantee—ranging from $35,000 to $40,000.

The All-America Conference has a guarantee of $15,000 and percentage is based on 32 per cent of the net.

The club player limit was reduced from 35 to 32, a saving of approximately $20,000 per team.

Commissioner Bell said the $20,000 would be the equivalent of the added money that would be taken in if attendance increased and the games began drawing a $100,000 gate, the league's goal.

The NFL voted to test the free substitution rule for 1949, allowing subs to enter the game at any time rather than during a "time out" and when the ball is exchanged.

The optional use of plastic, rather than all-leather, helmets was okayed. Player benches also may be on the same side of the field instead of opposite sides. This was agreed to offset beefs that in some fields the separation of opposing player benches detracted from the view of the paying customers.

The NFL continued its business meeting without discussing 1949 schedules. This was significant because the All-America conference has yet to determine next season's operations, whether with a full eight team complement or a reduced alignment. There still was a possibility of the NFL taking in two AAC members which would mean a new mapping of schedules.

Piedmont Cagers Defeat Central

550 Track, Field Athletes To Vie In Philadelphia

5th Annual Inquirer Games Billed Tonight

By HERB ALTSCHULL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20 (AP)—Five hundred and fifty young men flashing the colors of 100 schools, colleges and clubs put their speed and skill on display at Convention Hall tomorrow night in the first major intersectional meet of the 1949 indoor track campaign.

Heading up the competition in the fifth annual Philadelphia Inquirer games will be an attempt by American milers and two-milers to reverse their failures in the 1948 London Olympic.

Europeans scored a clean sweep in the Olympic distances, and there's a strong chance they'll repeat in their American debuts. And that despite the fact that none of the three invaders ever competed indoors before.

Likely to be the best race on the 22-event program is the Lawson Robertson two-mile, last event of the evening.

Swedish Star Entered

Seven of the United States' best distance runners will try to catch up with Erik Ahlden, the Swedish salesman who ran a strong fourth in the 5,000 meter race at the Olympics.

Forest Efaw of Stillwater, Okla., who has won the two-mile here for the last three years, is rated a good chance of beating Ahlden and so are Fred Wilt of Indiana and Curt Stone of Philadelphia's Shanahan C. C.

Efaw was clocked at 9:18.1 last year. The word going around here is that he'll have to beat 9:15 to win tomorrow night.

Others in the field are Jack Milne of Warinanco (N.J.) A.C., Herman Goffberg of Shanahan, Jack St. Clair of Penn State, Dick Church of Syracuse and Armand Osterberg of New York University.

Two Europeans—Ingvar Bentsson of Sweden and Willy Slykhuis of Holland—run the mile route, against such proficient Americans as Gerry Karver of Shanahan and Browning Ross of Villanova.

Also featured on the track menu are runs over distances of 300, 600 and 1,000 yards, a 50-yard sprint and a 50-yard high hurdles, pole vault and high jump. College, high school and prep school mile relay events round out the program.

Olympic Aces On Card

Some 15 Olympic athletes are on the card, including Bob Mathias, the Olympic decathlon winner and America's outstanding amateur athlete of 1948. Mathias will run for Kiski Prep, Saltsburg, Pa., in one of the mile relays.

George Guida of Villanova is the top contender in the Charles W. Paddock Memorial 300, won last year by Barney Ewell of Lancaster, Pa., the American Olympic star who recently was declared a professional. Pitted against Guida are Joe Cianciabella of Manhattan, Lafayette Robinson of Lincoln and Wilbert Lancaster of Penn State.

Running in the 600 are Phil O'Connell of Manhattan, Jim Gilhooley of N. Y. U., Tom Dickey of Louisiana State, Ed Matthews of Maryland and others.

The 1,000-yard competition is headed by Mal Whitfield, Ohio State winner of an Olympic middle distance event. Running against Whitfield will be Reggie Pearman of N. Y. U., last year's winner, as well as Bill Hulse, outdoor mile record holder for this country, and Dan Kirk of Pennsylvania.

Stadium Inn, Frostburg, scored a 2-1 win over South End Republican Club. B. Rice was high man for Frostburg with 17 points, John Sharp scored 20 for the G.O.P.

Viaduct Inn made it two out of three from the Owls. Jones headed the winners with 17 and Robinette's 19 was tops for the Owls.

Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, grabbed two out of three from Ruth's Tavern. John Kelly of the Legion and Bill Largent of the Tavern tied for high score with 27s.

PARIS, Jan. 20 (AP)—Simone Berteaut, a French secretary, charged today that Tony Zale was not the only one on the receiving end of punches from world middleweight boxing champion Marcel Cerdan last November.

She caught a few, herself, Miss Berteaut said. She filed formal charges of "brutality and forced seclusion" against Cerdan for what, she said, he did to her in New York about the time of the Zale fight.

The "forced seclusion" referred to charges by the secretary that Cerdan and Edith Piaf, a French night club singer, kept her tied up for five days in a Park Avenue (891 Park Ave.) apartment.

She was given the rough treatment, she said, to keep her from talking about the friendship between Cerdan and Miss Piaf. Miss Piaf is also named in the charges. Miss Berteaut at the time was the singer's secretary.

Cerdan, who was married and has three children, was not available for direct comment.

A spokesman for the boxer denied the charges as "ridiculous."

Allegany Ace Receives Gold Wrist Watch

Tatum Presents K. Of C. Award At Maryland

Twelve Candidates Are Given Sweaters

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Earl "Lefty" Bruce, diminutive Allegany High School speedster, was the proud recipient of the first annual Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus "Player-of-the-Year" football award last night at the Maryland Theatre when he was picked as the best of a group of 12 "player-of-the-week" nominations.

A handsomely engraved gold wrist watch was presented to Bruce in recognition for his outstanding play as fullback on Coach Bob Pence's undefeated Campobello eleven by James M. "Big Jim" Tatum, head football coach and athletic director of the University of Maryland. Tatum was guest speaker of the affair sponsored by the football selection committee of the local chapter of the K of C.

Twelve boys from Allegany, Ridgeley, Fort Hill, and LaSalle appeared on the stage last night to be honored for their selection to the group of outstanding players.

They were Edgar Tucker, Fred Corbin, Glen Burke and Charley Lattimer of Fort Hill, Bruce, Wes Abrams, Jim Ruehl, and Johnny Vernall of Allegany, Dick Leo, and Mickey Clark of LaSalle and Leo Day and Paul Lindsay of Ridgeley.

Twelve Receive Sweaters

Each of these boys received a beautiful white sweater with a large school letter on the front and the "player of the week" emblem on the left sleeve.

Bruce, the only player to be so honored twice, also had a large white star placed just under the "player" emblem on the left sleeve of his sweater.

Jim Condon, grand knight of the local K of C council, introduced Tatum to a large audience who attended the presentation and the Maryland grid mentor responded with a short talk before presenting the watch to Bruce.

Tatum told the fans and players that he considered Cumberland as the biggest contributor of scholastic and athletic talent to the University of Maryland of all the cities in the state.

He expressed the desire to bring the city and the university much closer together in the future, stating that he thought it possible to continue staging the West Virginia-Maryland freshmen football game each year in the local Fort Hill stadium.

Big Jim also said he would endeavor to bring at least one University of Maryland basketball game to Fort Hill's huge gym as an annual event.

Tatum Congratulates Boys

Congratulating the selectees on their fine records, Tatum remarked

Bruce, center, is displaying the engraved wrist watch he received and is being congratulated by James M. "Big Jim" Tatum, director of athletics and head football coach of the University of Maryland. Fort Hill And AHS Battle For WMI Lead Tonight

Bob Lookabaugh Is Eligible For League Contest

Game 49th Of Series, Sentinels Unbeaten

Hawks At Fort Ashby, Lions Test Jackets

Cumberland's top scholastic basketball teams — Fort Hill and Allegany — will clash for the 49th time tonight at Campobello.

Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's undefeated Sentinels will put their 10-game winning streak on the line against an Allegany High team that has won seven contests and lost three.

It's the second game of the three-cornered intra-city series which was launched by Fort Hill's 45-32 victory over LaSalle. The game is also a battle for first place in the W. M. I. League, each team having 4-0 records to date in the six-club county circuit.

Fort Hill is the defending champion of the W.M.I. League as well as city titleholder, having captured double honors last season by defeating AHS in a playoff game in March on SS. Peter and Paul court, 46-38. During the regular 1948 season the teams split even, Fort Hill taking the opener at home, 41-34 while the Campers won at Campobello, 33-29. Allegany had won five consecutive W.M.I. League titles before being dethroned in last season's playoff.

In 48 contests between the schools Allegany holds a 35-13 lead in the series with Penn Avenue-Fort Hill teams.

May Use Lookabaugh

Coach Walter L. Bowers of AHS last night announced that he may use Bob Lookabaugh in tonight's game.

Lookabaugh is eligible for WMI League games but he's ineligible for city contests until the end of the first semester.

"Our team is much stronger with Lookabaugh playing," Bowers declared. "If we win with him in the lineup we'd forfeit to Fort Hill in the city series yet we'd get credit for a win in the league where there is more at stake because the Class "A" winner in the county is eligible to compete for state honors."

When asked if Lookabaugh would start the game, Bowers replied: "I'll make a definite decision at game time."

Lookabaugh has appeared in all of the W.M.I. League contests played by Allegany to date and in those tilts the Bowersmen have averaged 53 points per game. Ed Landefeld, Ned Clopton, John Vernall and Jim Ruehl will be the other AHS players if Lookabaugh starts. Mason, Alderson, Lattimer, Burke and Eckard will likely start for the Sentinels.

The game will get under way at 8 o'clock.

At 7 o'clock the Fort Hill and Allegany Reserves will clash.

Other WMI League games on tap for tonight are Barton at Beall and Central at Bruce.

Ridgeley Seeks 3rd Win

Four Potomac Valley Conference games are also on tap. Ridgeley's defending champions, victorious over Piedmont and Keyser, will go after their third conference win when they test Tom Small's Fort Ashby Eagles at Fort Ashby.

Moorefield's Yellow Jackets with a 4-1 record play hosts to the Piedmont High Lions, Circleville battles Petersburg's Vikings at Petersburg and Keyser tests Elk Garden at the latter place.

The "Battle of Tucker County" pits Thomas against Parsons at Thomas. Davis High's Wildcats lead in that race with a 48-36 win over Thomas. Davis plays at Greenbank tonight Paw Paw is scheduled to invade Warrensville.

In a collegiate contest set for Keyser, Potomac State Shool meets Westinghouse Apprentice School of Pittsburgh at 8 o'clock.

Girls Battle For Lead

First place in the W.M.I. Girls' League will be at stake today when Fort Hill meets Allegany on the Fort Hill court at 3:30 o'clock. The teams are now tied for first place with 2-0 records.

Central will play host to Bruce in the other girls' league game listed today.

National League Gives Bert Bell 10-Year Contract

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 20 (AP) — The National League, apparently looking ahead to a secure future, today gave Commissioner Bert Bell a 10-year contract, guaranteed visiting teams a $20,000 take and cut player limits in a minor economy move.

Bert Bell

Bell, with three years to serve on a contract signed in 1947, will draw a salary of approximately $30,000 on his new 10 year pact.

Clubs traveling on the road in 1949 will receive a minimum of $20,000 when they play—an increase of $5,000.

The guarantee, is made to offset the "gate" percentage should it fall below $20,000. Visiting teams receive 40 per cent of the gross. At some parks last year the take barely covered expenses although a $15,000 guarantee was assured. One exception was teams playing against the Chicago Bears in Wrigley Field where the "gate" percentage was well above the guarantee—ranging from $35,000 to $40,000.

The All-America Conference has a guarantee of $15,000 and percentage is based on 32 per cent of the net.

The club player limit was reduced from 35 to 32, a saving of approximately $20,000 per team.

Commissioner Bell said the $20,000 would be the equivalent of the added money that would be taken in if attendance increased and the games began drawing a $100,000 gate, the league's goal.

The NFL voted to test the free substitution rule for 1949, allowing subs to enter the game at any time rather than during a "time out" and when the ball is exchanged.

The optional use of plastic, rather than all-leather, helmets was okayed. Player benches also may be on the same side of the field instead of opposite sides. This was agreed to offset beefs that in some fields the separation of opposing player benches detracted from the view of the paying customers.

The NFL continued its business meeting without discussing 1949 schedules. This was significant because the All-America conference has yet to determine next season's operations, whether with a full eight team complement or a reduced alignment. There still was a possibility of the NFL taking in two AAC members which would mean a new mapping of schedules.

550 Track, Field Athletes To Vie In Philadelphia

5th Annual Inquirer Games Billed Tonight

By HERB ALTSCHULL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20 (AP)—Five hundred and fifty young men flashing the colors of 100 schools, colleges and clubs put their speed and skill on display at Convention Hall tomorrow night in the first major intersectional meet of the 1949 indoor track campaign.

Heading up the competition in the fifth annual Philadelphia Inquirer games will be an attempt by American milers and two-milers to reverse their failures in the 1948 London Olympic.

Europeans scored a clean sweep in the Olympic distances, and there's a strong chance they'll repeat in their American debuts. And that despite the fact that none of the three invaders ever competed indoors before.

Likely to be the best race on the 22-event program is the Lawson Robertson two-mile, last event of the evening.

Swedish Star Entered

Seven of the United States' best distance runners will try to catch up with Erik Ahlden, the Swedish salesman who ran a strong fourth in the 5,000 meter race at the Olympics.

Forest Efaw of Stillwater, Okla., who has won the two-mile here for the last three years, is rated a good chance of beating Ahlden and so are Fred Wilt of Indiana and Curt Stone of Philadelphia's Shanahan C. C.

Efaw was clocked at 9:18.1 last year. The word going around here is that he'll have to beat 9:15 to win tomorrow night.

Others in the field are Jack Milne of Warinanco (N.J.) A.C., Herman Goffberg of Shanahan, Jack St. Clair of Penn State, Dick Church of Syracuse and Armand Osterberg of New York University.

Two Europeans—Ingvar Bentsson of Sweden and Willy Slykhuis of Holland—run the mile route, against such proficient Americans as Gerry Karver of Shanahan and Browning Ross of Villanova.

Also featured on the track menu are runs over distances of 300, 600 and 1,000 yards, a 50-yard sprint and a 50-yard high hurdles, pole vault and high jump. College, high school and prep school mile relay events round out the program.

Olympic Aces On Card

Some 15 Olympic athletes are on the card, including Bob Mathias, the Olympic decathlon winner and America's outstanding amateur athlete of 1948. Mathias will run for Kiski Prep, Saltsburg, Pa., in one of the mile relays.

George Guida of Villanova is the top contender in the Charles W. Paddock Memorial 300, won last year by Barney Ewell of Lancaster, Pa., the American Olympic star who recently was declared a professional. Pitted against Guida are Joe Cianciabella of Manhattan, Lafayette Robinson of Lincoln and Wilbert Lancaster of Penn State.

Running in the 600 are Phil O'Connell of Manhattan, Jim Gilhooley of N. Y. U., Tom Dickey of Louisiana State, Ed Matthews of Maryland and others.

The 1,000-yard competition is headed by Mal Whitfield, Ohio State winner of an Olympic middle distance event. Running against Whitfield will be Reggie Pearman of N. Y. U., last year's winner, as well as Bill Hulse, outdoor mile record holder for this country, and Dan Kirk of Pennsylvania.

CANDIDATES ALL DRESSED UP— Twelve candidates for the Knights of Columbus football "Player Of the Year" award are shown above all dressed up in the new white sweaters presented by Cumberland Council No. 586 for having been chosen "players of the week" during the 1948 season. Sweaters were presented last night at the Maryland Theatre. CERDAN IS CHARGED WITH BRUTALITY BY FRENCH SECRETARY

PARIS, Jan. 20 (AP)—Simone Berteaut, a French secretary, charged today that Tony Zale was not the only one on the receiving end of punches from world middleweight boxing champion Marcel Cerdan last November.

She caught a few, herself, Miss Berteaut said. She filed formal charges of "brutality and forced seclusion" against Cerdan for what, she said, he did to her in New York about the time of the Zale fight.

The "forced seclusion" referred to charges by the secretary that Cerdan and Edith Piaf, a French night club singer, kept her tied up for five days in a Park Avenue (891 Park Ave.) apartment.

She was given the rough treatment, she said, to keep her from talking about the friendship between Cerdan and Miss Piaf. Miss Piaf is also named in the charges. Miss Berteaut at the time was the singer's secretary.

Cerdan, who was married and has three children, was not available for direct comment.

A spokesman for the boxer denied the charges as "ridiculous."

Allegany Ace Receives Gold Wrist Watch

Tatum Presents K. Of C. Award At Maryland

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Earl "Lefty" Bruce, diminutive Allegany High School speedster, was the proud recipient of the first annual Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus "Player-of-the-Year" football award last night at the Maryland Theatre when he was picked as the best of a group of 12 "player-of-the-week" nominations.

A handsomely engraved gold wrist watch was presented to Bruce in recognition for his outstanding play as fullback on Coach Bob Pence's undefeated Campobello eleven by James M. "Big Jim" Tatum, head football coach and athletic director of the University of Maryland. Tatum was guest speaker of the affair sponsored by the football selection committee of the local chapter of the K of C.

Twelve boys from Allegany, Ridgeley, Fort Hill, and LaSalle appeared on the stage last night to be honored for their selection to the group of outstanding players.

They were Edgar Tucker, Fred Corbin, Glen Burke and Charley Lattimer of Fort Hill, Bruce, Wes Abrams, Jim Ruehl, and Johnny Vernall of Allegany, Dick Leo, and Mickey Clark of LaSalle and Leo Day and Paul Lindsay of Ridgeley.

Twelve Receive Sweaters

Each of these boys received a beautiful white sweater with a large school letter on the front and the "player of the week" emblem on the left sleeve.

Bruce, the only player to be so honored twice, also had a large white star placed just under the "player" emblem on the left sleeve of his sweater.

Jim Condon, grand knight of the local K of C council, introduced Tatum to a large audience who attended the presentation and the Maryland grid mentor responded with a short talk before presenting the watch to Bruce.

Tatum told the fans and players that he considered Cumberland as the biggest contributor of scholastic and athletic talent to the University of Maryland of all the cities in the state.

He expressed the desire to bring the city and the university much closer together in the future, stating that he thought it possible to continue staging the West Virginia-Maryland freshmen football game each year in the local Fort Hill stadium.

Big Jim also said he would endeavor to bring at least one University of Maryland basketball game to Fort Hill's huge gym as an annual event.

Tatum Congratulates Boys

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Harry R. Leasure and Rachel Irene Leasure, his wife, and C. Edward Wharton, vs. The Unknown Heirs of Leo Campbell, sometimes known as Cleo Campbell. No. 21094 Equity, In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The Object of this suit is to reform and correct a deed from Leo Campbell unto Harriett Wharton dated the 5th day of September, 1933.

The Bill states that certain property in Gilpintown, Allegany County, Maryland, was conveyed by said deed and that the description is ambiguous in that it conveys: "All that tract and parcel of land conveyed and described in a deed from Barbara E. Twigg to Harriett Wharton, said deed bearing date the 3rd day of March, 1924, and recorded in Liber No. 146, folio 74, one of the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, and being the same property conveyed by and described in a deed from the said Harriett Wharton to Leo Campbell, said deed bearing date the 30th day of September, 1931, and recorded in Liber No. 166, folio 467, of said land records," the said two deeds being for different parcels of land; and the Bill prays for the reforming and correcting of said deed by striking out the words: "Barbara E. Twigg to Harriett Wharton, said deed bearing date [illegible] day of March, 1924, and recorded in Liber No. 146, folio 74, one of the Land Records of Allegany County, Md., and being the same property conveyed by and described in a deed from." The Bill further avers that to the best of the Orators' information the said Leo Campbell has left the State of Maryland and is now deceased, leaving no heirs known unto the Orators.

IT IS, THEREUPON, this 20th day of January, 1949, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant cause a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper in Alelgany County, Maryland, once in each of four (4) successive weeks, before the 22nd day of February, 1949, giving notice to the absent and unknown Respondents of the object and purpose of this suit and warning them to be and appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 10th day of March, 1949, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

JOSEPH E. BODEN,
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Lawyer John Marshall once aged a case before a judge who was a close personal friend, but so determined not to allow this to influence him, that he actually fined Marshall twenty-five dollars for contempt of court. Taken aback for a moment, Marshall rallied quickly and said, "Unfortunately, I haven't twenty-five dollars with me. Will His Honor lend me the amount please?"

The judge already regretted his quick temper, cleared his throat and declared, "The fine is remitted. The United States government can spare twenty-five dollars better than I can!"

"What do you keep in that lovely vase on the mantel?" asked Mrs. Treeger.

"My husband's ashes," answered Mrs. Ullman.

"Forgive me," gasped Mrs. Treeger. "I didn't know he was dead."

"He's far from dead," explained Mrs. Ullman. "He's simply too lazy to look for an ash tray."

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Harry R. Leasure and Rachel Irene Leasure, his wife, and C. Edward Wharton, vs. The Unknown Heirs of Leo Campbell, sometimes known as Cleo Campbell. No. 21094 Equity, In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The Object of this suit is to reform and correct a deed from Leo Campbell unto Harriett Wharton dated the 5th day of September, 1923.

The Bill states that certain property in Gilpintown, Allegany County, Maryland, was conveyed by said deed and that the description is ambiguous in that it conveys: "All that tract and parcel of land conveyed and described in a deed from Barbara E. Twigg to Harriett Wharton, said deed bearing date the 3rd day of March, 1924, and recorded in Liber No. 146, folio 74, one of the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, and being the same property conveyed by and described in a deed from the said Harriett Wharton to Leo Campbell, said deed bearing date the 30th day of September, 1921, and recorded in Liber No. 166, folio 467, of said land records," the said two deeds being for different parcels of land; and the Bill prays for the reforming and correcting of said deed by striking out the words: "Barbara E. Twigg to Harriett Wharton, said deed bearing date [illegible] day of March, 1924, and recorded in Liber No. 146 folio 74, one of the [illegible] Records of Allegany County, Md., and being the same property conveyed by and described in a deed from" The Bill further avers that to the best of the Orators' information the said Leo Campbell has left the State of Maryland and is now deceased, leaving no heirs known unto the Orators.

IT IS, THEREUPON, this 20th day of January, 1949, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant cause a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper in Allegany County, Maryland, once in each of four (4) successive weeks, before the 22nd day of February, 1949, giving notice to the absent and unknown Respondents of the object and purpose of this suit and warning them to be and appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 10th day of March, 1949, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

JOSEPH E. BODEN,
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Lawyer John Marshall once aided a case before a judge who was a close personal friend, but so determined not to allow this to influence him, that he actually fined Marshall twenty-five dollars for contempt of court. Taken aback for a moment, Marshall rallied quickly and said, "Unfortunately, I haven't twenty-five dollars with me. Will his Honor lend me the amount I lease?"

The judge already regretted his quick temper, cleared his throat and declared, "The fine is remitted. The United States government can spare twenty-five dollars better than I can!"

"What do you keep in that lovely vase on the mantel?" asked Mrs. Treeger.

"My husband's ashes," answered Mrs. Ullman.

"Forgive me," gasped Mrs. Treeger, "I didn't know he was dead."

"He's far from dead," explained Mrs. Ullman. "He's simply too lazy to look for an ash tray."

In the 18th century mahogany was a luxury wood, and was used only for the furniture of the titled, or the wealthy who aped the titled gentry. Common folk of that day made use of the wood nearest at hand and available at the least cost.

Buying Flurry In Last Few Minutes Flips Prices Forward In Market

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP) — A flurry of buying in the last few minutes of business flipped prices forward in the stock market today.

The President's inaugural address was received favorably in the financial district but there was some disagreement over the question of whether the rally was touched off by the speech.

Richfield Oil at 30⅛ and Plymouth at 43⅜ were each up better than two points. Higher by a piont or more were Gulf at 70⅛, Amerada Petroleum at 101¼, Mission at 54⅛, Sinclair at 23½.

Others higher included Nickel Plate common and preferred, Illinois Central, Atlantic Coast Line, American Telephone, Consolidated Natural Gas, Western Union, Republic Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Schenley, General Electric, Dow Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Philip Morris, Radio Corp., United States Gypsum, and American Tobacco.

United States Steel slipped one-fourth to 71⅛, and small losses were posted for Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, National Distillers, Electric Power and Light, Anaconda Copper, Phelps Dodge, Westinghouse Electric, and Eastern Air Lines.

The bond market had its busiest day in 10 weeks today and prices of many issues shoved forward from one to more than three points.

Lackawanna 4½s gained three points to close at 81. Trading of a block of 25 Erie 2s sent that lien to 99, a 3½ point rise. Santa Fe stamped adjustment 4s advanced 2 at 115 and Central Pacific Railway 3⅝s also gained 2 at 105⅛.

Other gainers of a point to nearly two points included Baltimore and Ohio "G" 5s, Central of Georgia "A" 4½s, Monon income 4s, Big Four general 4s, Hudson and Manhattan refunding 5s, Northern Pacific 4s, Pennsylvania general 4½s.

Baltimore and Ohio (Toledo and Cincinnati division) 4s were down 2¾ at 75¼ on quiet dealing. Others down fractionally included Chesapeake and Ohio "D" 3½s, Gulf, Mobile and Ohio "B" bonds of 2044 and Katy Railroad first 4s.

A majority of United States Treasuries were unchanged to up 1/32.

RAYMOND KENNEY WEDS PITTSBURGH GIRL

FROSTBURG—Announcement is made of the marriage of Raymond Kenney, son of Trial Magistrate and Mrs. James Kenney, West Main Street, and Miss Julia Guiser, Pittsburgh.

The ceremony was performed December 10 in St. Mary's of the Mount Catholic Church, Pittsburgh. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Phil Eizenhafer, Pittsburgh, with whom the bridegroom, a Navy veteran of World War II, resided while attending school in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Kenney is a graduate of the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing of Pittsburgh.

Following their marriage, the couple went to Evanston, Ill., to reside. Mr. Kenney, who completed a course in office equipment repairing, is engaged in business there.

Greaseless cream hides pimples and blackheads at once, relieves itching while it exposes and inhibits growth of germs
Science has at last found an amazingly effective treatment for the pimples, blackheads, itching, burning skin and other unsightly blemishes which are externally caused and associated with various abnormal conditions commonly known as ACNE. The new formula, containing Tyrothricin (one of the new anti-biotics) does exactly that. This "wonder formula" is applied to the skin and three-way action takes place.
(1) ENCA'S flesh-tinted film instantly hides unsightly skin blemishes, thus leaving a noticeably improved appearance.
(2) ENCA'S anti-biotic ingredients are held in contact with skin pores for hours to expose germs and inhibit their growth.
(3) With germ growth inhibited, pimply skin surface can start natural healing. Unsightly appearance tends to improve. Many are amazed to see prompt results. You can face the world with confidence.

PITCHING IN A PINCH

By JOHN W. WHEELER

Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio, who has just been elected again after missing a term, is a great friend of Louis Bromfield, the author, so I met him at the latter's Malabar Farm. The Governor told me he had used lifers from the penitentiary in the executive mansion as house servants in an effort to rehabilitate them, and the experiment seems to have turned out satisfactorily, since no one got robbed or murdered. He intends to try it again now that he is back in office.

This brings up a favorite story of George Ade's about the District Attorney who later became Governor of Indiana and paid a visit to the state prison. He said to the warden.

"I didn't have time to shave this morning so I want to go outside to the barber shop before lunch."

"Don't bother," answered the warden proudly. "We have a better shop inside here. Try it."

The Governor being new and enthusiastic, accepted, and soon was stretched out in the chair, relaxed, while the prison expert honed the razor.

"I guess you don't remember me," he said pleasantly to the Governor as he felt the edge with his finger, but I remember you all right."

The tonsorial patient set up in his chair, puzzled, and then lay back again. The barber was now shaving his neck and delicately around his Adam's apple as he reminisced.

"It wasn't the twenty years I got I minded so much," he went on, "but it was the damn bawling out you gave me in court."

Realizing fast action was needed, the Governor interrupted to say,

"Sure I remember you, and I'm glad you brought it up because only this morning I was talking about you to the parole board. The prospects look fine. And, remember, my man, when you get out, honesty is the best policy. I've tried both."

Inside Newspaper Stuff

Many years ago, Bugs Baer, the great humorist, needed a little extra income besides what he was getting from the Hearst papers so he was writing fifteen or twenty paragraphs a day for the North American Newspaper Alliance as follows:

"Wiregrams"
By GRAHAM WYER

These made such a hit the general manager of the Hearst papers sent Damon Runyon three or four times to try to hire Graham Wyer, but he would always come back with a discouraging report.

"He doesn't seem to want to work for us," said Runyan with his usual dead pan, knowing full well who Mr. Wyer was.

The general manager died without ever finding our Graham Wyer and Bugs Baer were one and the same.

When Walter Winchell first started his column on the old New York Graphic, he was unhappy about a contract he had signed and which he couldn't break. Just about this time Joe Moore, formerly general manager of the Hearst papers, bought the New York Morning Telegraph and tried to convert it into a daily something like the New Yorker Magazine. Through me a meeting was arranged between Messrs. Moore and Winchell, and a deal was made for a Sunday column at $100 a week under the name of Beau Broadway. Mr. Broadway then joined the Telegraph stable of celebrities which included Ring Lardner, Dorothy Parker, Gene Fowler, etc., continuing on the Graphic as Walter Winchell.

To make it look good the author of the Sunday Telegraph column would pan Winchell good every week, making nasty cracks and criticizing him as a writer and newspaperman. As far as I know Winchell continued to be the masked marvel until he stopped this weekly column when he went to the New York Mirror.

This is an item about probably the most favorable book review ever pulished. When I was working on the old New York Herald, Christy Mathewson and I had written a book called "Pitching In a Pinch" which was supposed to give the lowdown on inside baseball. James Ford, a dignified gentleman who had only heard vaguely of the Big Leagues, was the book reviewer, and I waited patiently but somewhat breathlessly to see what he would have to say about "Pitching In A Pinch."

Our acquaintance was quite casual because there was a big gap between the Sports Department and the book reviewer's sanctum, and Mr. Ford was not even aware of the fact I worked on the paper. Meeting him in the hall one day, I stuck out my hand, and he greeted me cordially, being a genial gentleman.

"Have you read 'Pitching In A Pinch' by Christy Mathewson?" I asked, mildly reflecting my enthusiasm.

He admitted he had not, so I followed with a suggestion he should and review it. He said to me, "Have you read it and could you review it?"

Suppressing my feelings, I agreed. Not only had I read the book, I had written it and could recite it and so could my whole family. Probably no book has ever had as favorable a press as was given it in the New York Herald.

PITCHING IN A PINCH

By JOHN W. WHEELER

Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio, who has just been elected again after missing a term, is a great friend of Louis Bromfield, the author, so I met him at the latter's Malabar Farm. The Governor told me he had used lifers from the penitentiary in the executive mansion as house servants in an effort to rehabilitate them, and the experiment seems to have turned out satisfactorily, since no one got robbed or murdered. He intends to try it again now that he is back in office.

This brings up a favorite story of George Ade's about the District Attorney who later became Governor of Indiana and paid a visit to the state prison. He said to the warden.

"I didn't have time to shave this morning so I want to go outside to the barber shop before lunch."

"Don't bother," answered the warden proudly. "We have a better shop inside here. Try it."

The Governor being new and enthusiastic, accepted, and soon was stretched out in the chair, relaxed, while the prison expert honed the razor.

"I guess you don't remember me," he said pleasantly to the Governor as he felt the edge with his finger, but I remember you all right."

The tonsorial patient set up in his chair, puzzled, and then lay back again. The barber was now shaving his neck and delicately around his Adam's apple as he reminisced.

"It wasn't the twenty years I got I minded so much," he went on, "but it was the damn bawling out you gave me in court."

Realizing fast action was needed, the Governor interrupted to say,

"Sure I remember you, and I'm glad you brought it up because only this morning I was talking about you to the parole board. The prospects look fine. And, remember, my man, when you get out, honesty is the best policy. I've tried both."

Inside Newspaper Stuff

Many years ago, Bugs Baer, the great humorist, needed a little extra income besides what he was getting from the Hearst papers so he was writing fifteen or twenty paragraphs a day for the North American Newspaper Alliance as follows:

"Wiregrams"
By GRAHAM WYER

These made such a hit the general manager of the Hearst papers sent Damon Runyon three or four times to try to hire Graham Wyer, but he would always come back with a discouraging report.

"He doesn't seem to want to work for us," said Runyan with his usual dead pan, knowing full well who Mr. Wyer was.

The general manager died without ever finding our Graham Wyer and Bugs Baer were one and the same.

When Walter Winchell first started his column on the old New York Graphic, he was unhappy about a contract he had signed and which he couldn't break. Just about this time Joe Moore, formerly general manager of the Hearst papers, bought the New York Morning Telegraph and tried to convert it into a daily something like the New Yorker Magazine. Through me a meeting was arranged between Messrs. Moore and Winchell, and a deal was made for a Sunday column at $100 a week under the name of Beau Broadway. Mr. Broadway then joined the Telegraph stable of celebrities which included Ring Lardner, Dorothy Parker, Gene Fowler, etc., continuing on the Graphic as Walter Winchell.

To make it look good the author of the Sunday Telegraph column would pan Winchell good every week, making nasty cracks and criticizing him as a writer and newspaperman. As far as I know Winchell continued to be the masked marvel until he stopped this weekly column when he went to the New York Mirror.

This is an item about probably the most favorable book review ever pulished. When I was working on the old New York Herald, Christy Mathewson and I had written a book called "Pitching In a Pinch" which was supposed to give the lowdown on inside baseball. James Ford, a dignified gentleman who had only heard vaguely of the Big Leagues, was the book reviewer, and I waited patiently but somewhat breathlessly to see what he would have to say about "Pitching In A Pinch."

Our acquaintance was quite casual because there was a big gap between the Sports Department and the book reviewer's sanctum, and Mr. Ford was not even aware of the fact I worked on the paper. Meeting him in the hall one day, I stuck out my hand, and he greeted me cordially, being a genial gentleman.

"Have you read 'Pitching In A Pinch' by Christy Mathewson?" I asked, mildly reflecting my enthusiasm.

He admitted he had not, so I followed with a suggestion he should and review it. He said to me, "Have you read it and could you review it?"

Suppressing my feelings, I agreed. Not only had I read the book, I had written it and could recite it and so could my whole family. Probably no book has ever had as favorable a press as was given it in the New York Herald.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 20—(INS)—Mae West has been a sick girl—but not too sick to sign a contract and send it back to Edward Nassour in Hollywood agreeing to make a picture for him in April.

Imagine signing for a movie when she is surrounded by doctors insisting she needs an operation and that she should take a long rest? You have to admire her for her spunk.

Susan Hayward

There are two stories for her to choose between when she gets here. One is "Catherine Was Great" which she played on Broadway and the other is an original. It is about a cafe queen who innocently becomes involved with racketeers and gangsters.

Edward Nassour, along with his brother, William, just completed "Africa Screams" with Abbott and Costello. But it will be Edward, alone, producing the West film.

—o—

I know scientists are saying trips to the moon are just around the corner—but not for this gal. I don't mind reporting, however, that there will be some movies on the subject—the most interesting to date, from George Pal.

Pal will make "Operation Moon" based on the juvenile best seller, "Rocketship Galileo" by Robert Heinlein. The thrill-packed yarn, about a military man and a scientist who established rocket bases on the moon, will be part "live" action, part cartoon and part scientific model technique, filmed in Technicolor, with an accent on the grayish mystery tones.

—o—

I have news for Joan Crawford.

Her good friend, Noel Coward, arrives in New York next week on the Queen Mary. If he sells the screen rights to his play "Point Valaine" to the Danziger Brothers, he wants Joan to star in it.

The Danzigers—Ed and Harry—filmed "Zig Zag" in New York with Franchot Tone last year. "Point Valaine" will be shot in the West Indies, locale of the story.

Arriving with Coward is Fanny Holtzman, famous woman lawyer.

—o—

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Now that Susan Hayward has been elected the most beautiful girl in the world, Susan promises to make those unruly red locks stay in place—not that she isn't beautiful when they fly all around her head.

That reminds me—Virginia Fields has been telephoning Paul Douglas since her romance with Clif Squires has suffered a setback.

Paul Christian's wife, Ursula, and has four-year-old son, Peter, are on their way here from Switzerland. He is the new Universal-International actor, and he and his family are making their home in Hollywood.

Louis B. Mayer has been made the motion picture industry chairman of the gigantic Friars Frolic benefit for the Motion Picture Relief Fund, which will be held at the Shrine auditorium, April 16. L. B. will ask representatives from all branches of the industry to help make this the biggest single charity affair ever staged.

Freddie De Cordova cabled Bob Taylor in London to ask . . he could take Barbara Stanwyck dancing Saturday night. Bob cabled back "Have a wonderful time." By the way, Barbara has gone blonde on us for her role in "The Lady Gambles."

Mrs. Ted Lewis has almost finished a biography of her famous husband. She's calling it "Just Around the Corner" and it's really a saga of show business.

The Dan Toppings (Kay Sutton, formerly of the movies) are reconciling.

The one girl Montgomery Clift talked to before he went to Switzerland, is Ann Lincoln. He worked with her in a Broadway stage play and they have been friendly for a long time.

The woman Ray Milland most admired at the Jack Benny party was Mrs. Milland. Ray said, "Have you ever seen Mal look so beautiful? She's wearing a new dress." Nice compliment from a husband of all those years.

That's all today.

Beware Coughs Following Flu
After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and to aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Beware Coughs Following Flu
After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and to aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

We're Going To Be Entertained To Death

It seems to me after only the most cursory examination of the entertainment industry in this dream village, that the competition for our time—you and me, the patrons—is going to become critical within the next two years. It isn't far short of that right now.

John Crosby

I recall way back in the early almost prehistoric days of the New Deal there was a lot of deep thinking about the New Leisure. Brain trusters were detailed to think about it and they thought about it profoundly. How would twentieth century man fill his spare time now that he worked only forty hours a week? Some sort of program would have to be devised to keep him from drinking himself to death out of sheer ennui.

Well, they needn't have bothered. Twentieth century man is in greater danger of being entertained to death. Movies, theater, radio, television, bowling alleys, race tracks, magazines and even newspapers, which "C.B.S. Views the Press" recently accused with some justice of being more and more interested in entertainment and less and less in news, are all intent on entertaining the hell out of us. Each one demands an increasing amount of our time. More and more a man has to gallop through his leisure hours at anything but a leisurely pace to get it all in.

We may have to cut down to a twenty-hour week in order to absorb our fair quota of amusement. And sooner or later there will be a reform administration which will pass a law limiting the amount of amusement a man has to stand for to forty hours a week.

Edgar Bergen, who just quit radio temporarily, and Al Jolson who threatens to quit, both mentioned the appalling task of amusing people once a week. Bergen pleaded for quality in entertainment rather than quantity, a sensible plea but one which runs counter to all the trends. The trend is toward more and more entertainment—twenty-hour a day entertainment. The amusement pages in newspapers, limited not so long ago to a single page, have mushroomed to four or five pages.

While the major studios remain aloof from television, refusing to allow their contract stars to appear on it, and with minor exceptions refusing use of their good films, small-time movie producers are plunging into production for television. Most of them are known here as glove compartment operators. That is, their entire equipment could be put into the glove compartment of an automobile with room left over for the gloves.

However, even these small time operators are suddenly discovering their integrity, something they never thought about much before. They have bumped suddenly and painfully into the advertising industry and into the man behind the advertising industry, the sponsor. If the sponsor happens to be a soft drink manufacturer, the film makers discover that all mention of liquids—except for the sponsor's particular liquid—is verboten.

Operating as they do under a whole host of restrictions of their own, film makers have had an entirely new and different collection of don'ts thrust on them. This sort of censorship violates what the glove compartment boys just this minute discovered to be their integrity and there have been minor and quickly suppressed rebellions.

"The sponsor!" roared one producer when told that he couldn't make a joke about Frank Sinatra. "Who the devil is the sponsor?"

"He's the man who pays the bills."

Paint For Britain's Navy

LONDON (AP)—The British Admiralty has developed a new grey paint which it claims largely does away with the use of scarce linseed oil as a binder. Synthetic oil is used instead.

The new paint, the Admiralty said, will last longer than the linseed oil-bound paint and is more impervious to seawater. It will have its first extensive use when the home fleet is repainted this winter.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

We're Going To Be Entertained To Death

It seems to me after only the most cursory examination of the entertainment industry in this dream village, that the competition for our time—you and me, the patrons—is going to become critical within the next two years. It isn't far short of that right now.

John Crosby

I recall way back in the early almost prehistoric days of the New Deal there was a lot of deep thinking about the New Leisure. Brain trusters were detailed to think about it and they thought about it profoundly. How would twentieth century man fill his spare time now that he worked only forty hours a week? Some sort of program would have to be devised to keep him from drinking himself to death out of sheer ennui.

Well, they needn't have bothered. Twentieth century man is in greater danger of being entertained to death. Movies, theater, radio, television, bowling alleys, race tracks, magazines and even newspapers, which "C.B.S. Views the Press" recently accused with some justice of being more and more interested in entertainment and less and less in news, are all intent on entertaining the hell out of us. Each one demands an increasing amount of our time. More and more a man has to gallop through his leisure hours at anything but a leisurely pace to get it all in.

We may have to cut down to a twenty-hour week in order to absorb our fair quota of amusement. And sooner or later there will be a reform administration which will pass a law limiting the amount of amusement a man has to stand for to forty hours a week.

Edgar Bergen, who just quit radio temporarily, and Al Jolson who threatens to quit, both mentioned the appalling task of amusing people once a week. Bergen pleaded for quality in entertainment rather than quantity, a sensible plea but one which runs counter to all the trends. The trend is toward more and more entertainment—twenty-hour a day entertainment. The amusement pages in newspapers, limited not so long ago to a single page, have mushroomed to four or five pages.

• — • — •

While the major studios remain aloof from television, refusing to allow their contract stars to appear on it, and with minor exceptions refusing use of their good films, small-time movie producers are plunging into production for television. Most of them are known here as glove compartment operators. That is, their entire equipment could be put into the glove compartment of an automobile with room left over for the gloves.

However, even these small time operators are suddenly discovering their integrity, something they never thought about much before. They have bumped suddenly and painfully into the advertising industry and into the man behind the advertising industry, the sponsor. If the sponsor happens to be a soft drink manufacturer, the film makers discover that all mention of liquids—except for the sponsor's particular liquid—is verboten.

Operating as they do under a whole host of restrictions of their own, film makers have had an entirely new and different collection of don'ts thrust on them. This sort of censorship violates what the glove compartment boys just this minute discovered to be their integrity and there have been minor and quickly suppressed rebellions.

"The sponsor!" roared one producer when told that he couldn't make a joke about Frank Sinatra. "Who the devil is the sponsor?"

"He's the man who pays the bills."

It's a frightening new factor in film making and the glove compartment boys wouldn't endure this insult to their integrity but for one thing. Money.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Paint For Britain's Navy

LONDON (AP)—The British Admiralty has developed a new grey paint which it claims largely does away with the use of scarce linseed oil as a binder. Synthetic oil is used instead.

The new paint, the Admiralty said, will last longer than the linseed oil-bound paint and is more impervious to seawater. It will have its first extensive use when the home fleet is repainted this winter.

Allegany Ace

that only in a democracy could an affair of this type be held. In our type of government any player who had the ability could play regardless of race, creed or color the athletic director commented.

Expounding a little further, Tatum said that the game of football is democratic and that a player received out of the game just what he put into it, which was true in every walk of life.

A last bit of advice from the university coach was given the players when he said "help others and have them help you to further your fufure and always remember that a man with a direct aim never has to carry a gun."

Following Tatum's talk Condon presented J. Suter Kegg, Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times Sports Editor, who introduced the 12 athletes who were then presented their sweaters by Paul Nose and Jim Browning, members of the K. of C. grid committee.

Kegg finally introduced Bruce as the winner of the grand prize.

Vernall Wins Football

Condon then presented the football that was used in the Maryland-West Virginia freshmen football game here last fall to Johnny Vernall, co-captain of Allegany's eleven.

The ball, awarded by the Sports Shoppe, was to be given to the player selected as the most outstanding in the Fort Hill-Allegany Thanksgiving Day tussle. Vernall and Charley Lattimer of Fort Hill were co-winners of the selection, and the tall Camper end received the trophy by winning the toss of a coin.

The "players of the week" were selected by a five-man group consisting of Kegg, John Knowlton of the Cumberland News, and Jay Bechtel of radio station WTBO and two anonymous members.

In the final balloting to select the "player of the year" votes were cast for first and second choices. Five players were considered finalists with Bruce the winner and Glen Burke runner-up.

Previous to the program at the theatre a small dinner was held by the K. of C. council at Liberty Tavern in honor of Tatum with the local sports and radio writers, the 12 selectees and Coaches Bill Hahn of Fort Hill and Jesse Riggleman of Ridgeley as guests. Coach Bob Pence of Allegany was unable to attend the affair.

Truman's Home Town Celebrates Despite Fire

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Jan. 20 (AP) —President Truman's home town had one of its worst fires in its more than 100-year-old history today but that didn't stop its inauguration celebration.

They went ahead and danced at an inaugural ball just as planned before a pre-dawn fire destroyed a half block of business buildings only eight blocks from the summer White House.

The day still was a holiday for Independence's 40,000 residents. But they did have to call the parade off because it was necessary to rope off part of the courthouse square as a result of the fire.

Veteran Fire Chief D .A. Kincade called it the worst fire in Independence in his 40 years of fire-fighting here. He estimated the damage at $409,000.

Allegany Ace

that only in a democracy could an affair of this type be held. In our type of government any player who had the ability could play regardless of race, creed or color the athletic director commented.

Expounding a little further, Tatum said that the game of football is democratic and that a player received out of the game just what he put into it, which was true in every walk of life.

A last bit of advice from the university coach was given the players when he said "help others and have them help you to further your future and always remember that a man with a direct aim never has to carry a gun."

Following Tatum's talk Condon presented J. Suter Kegg, Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times Sports Editor, who introduced the 12 athletes who were then presented their sweaters by Paul Nose and Jim Browning, members of the K. of C. grid committee.

Kegg finally introduced Bruce as the winner of the grand prize.

Vernall Wins Football

Condon then presented the football that was used in the Maryland-West Virginia freshmen football game here last fall to Johnny Vernall, co-captain of Allegany's eleven.

The ball, awarded by the Sports Shoppe, was to be given to the player selected as the most outstanding in the Fort Hill-Allegany Thanksgiving Day tussle. Vernall and Charley Lattimer of Fort Hill were co-winners of the selection, and the tall Camper end received the trophy by winning the toss of a coin.

The "players of the week" were selected by a five-man group consisting of Kegg, John Knowlton of the Cumberland News, and Jay Bechtel of radio station WTBO and two anonymous members.

In the final balloting to select the "player of the year" votes were cast for first and second choices. Five players were considered finalists with Bruce the winner and Glen Burke runner-up.

Previous to the program at the theatre a small dinner was held by the K. of C. council at Liberty Tavern in honor of Tatum with the local sports and radio writers, the 12 selectees and Coaches Bill Hahn of Fort Hill and Jesse Riggleman of Ridgeley as guests. Coach Bob Pence of Allegany was unable to attend the affair.

Dr. Robert Coffman, New Creek District commissioner, emphasized the essentials of the scout movement, and James T. Handlan, Jr., member of the faculty of Potomac State School, and co-director of the course, spoke on institutional and parental responsibility.

Wednesday night's session was opened by Troop No. 27 under the leadership of Scoutmaster Thomas Bess, Jr., using the formal troop opening ceremony. A film, "The Scout Trail to Citizenship," was shown.

The training course will be held each Wednesday night through March 9, excluding Scout Week, with the topic for next week's session to deal with "The Boy and Troop Leadership." The session will feature an exhibit on Scout literature and knot tying by Lester Mc Dowell and discussions by Co-director W. H. Michaels, also a member of the faculty of Potomac State School; M. G. Thompson, chairman of the Cumberland Scout District, and Harry Biggs, commissioner of Potomac Council. The patrol method will be employed at Wednesday night's meeting, according to James H. Swadley, chairman of New Creek District.

K. S. McKee, dean of Potomac State School, who is serving as coordinator for the course, and Swadley have asked organizations and churches not yet represented, to enroll in the instructional program on Scouting.

"Everyone interested in youth in Keyser, whether they are parents, members of civic organizations, or those desiring to be active Troop leaders, should avail themselves of the opportunity offered by this course of instruction," Dean Mc Kee said.

Truman's Home Town Celebrates Despite Fire

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Jan. 20 (AP)—President Truman's home town had one of its worst fires in its more than 100-year-old history today but that didn't stop its inauguration celebration.

They went ahead and danced at an inaugural ball just as planned before a pre-dawn fire destroyed a half block of business buildings only eight blocks from the summer White House.

The day still was a holiday for Independence's 40,000 residents. But they did have to call the parade off because it was necessary to rope off part of the courthouse square as a result of the fire.

Veteran Fire Chief D A. Kincade called it the worst fire in Independence in his 40 years of fire-fighting here. He estimated the damage at $409,000.

Dr. Ray Reports Good Reaction To League In Area

11 Municipalities To Consider Membership

City officials of 11 municipalities in Allegany and Garrett Counties have indicated they plan to discuss the question of joining the Maryland League of Municipalities at their next council meeting, Dr. Joseph M. Ray said yesterday.

Dr. Ray, who is executive secretary of the League, toured Garrett County with Mayor Thomas S. Post yesterday. He said reaction of all officials toward the idea of League membership was "uniformly favorable."

Officials contacted yesterday were:

Mayors Nevin Miller of Grantsville; F. E. Spoerlein of Acident; Ray Bittinger of Mt. Lake Park; Earl George of Deer Park; Glenn Barton of Kitzmiller and Marshall Skidmore of Frostburg.

Mayor Post and Dr. Ray also visited Oakland Commissioners Earl Shartzer and Harry Stemple; and Mayor Charles S. Dayton and Commissioner Robert Stump of Luke.

Dr. Ray reported a similar favorable reaction from his visits Wednesday afternoon with Mayor Verl Ash of Midland ;Mayor Alec Burt of Lonaconing; and Dr. Lewis F. Engle and Clarence McBee, Westernport councilmen.

At present, Cumberland and Friendsville are the only members of the Maryland League of Municipalities in this area.

Dr. Ray explained that membership dues begin at $15 yearly for towns up to 300 population, with an added $5 per each 100 residents. Dues are graduated on a smaller scale for communities over 1,000 population.

The League was reorganized recently to work for passage of legislation advantageous to Maryland cities and to serve as a clearing house for information on problems of municipal government.

Meanwhile, Dr. Ray said the League expects to introduce its bill calling for constitutional home rule in Maryland within the next week or two in the State Legislature.

Dr. Ray will return to College Park today.

Harris Addresses Area Foresters On Enforcement

Outlines Powers Of Forest Wardens

In an address last night at a dinner of about 30 area foresters, State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris warned forest workers to "be sure of your facts." He also admonished them to "be fair in all law enforcement work."

Harris was guest speaker at a dinner held at the Tally-Ho Restaurant, Frostburg, in connection with a two-day training meeting of district foresters.

Harris' talk dealt principally with developing investigations of violations regarding state forests and the manner of presenting evidence in court.

Forest wardens, he reminded, have the same general powers as constables under state law in enforcing laws regarding state forests and fish and game in those forests.

Wardens, he added, have power under state law to summons or deputize men between the ages of 18 and 50 to fight forest fires, and to commandeer equipment needed to fight forest fires, such as horses, wagons and other equipment.

It is a warden's duty, Harris asserted, to arrest anyone guilty of maliciously setting a forest afire. Fines upon conviction range from $25 to $2,000 or imprisonment from 30 days to five years, he added.

Wardens also have the duty of arresting and prosecuting persons starting woods fires through carelessness, he explained, adding that fines of $10 to $100 or imprisonment from 10 days to one year are provided for this offense.

Wardens are also authorized to arrest persons who place advertising matter on roadside trees without the owner's permission, Harris stated.

The training meeting opened yesterday with sessions beginning at 10 a. m. in the auxiliary courtroom at the Court House.

Progress Cited

At yesterday's session, District Forester William A. Parr and State Forrester H. C. Buckingham spoke on the program the forestry department has made in recent years.

Buckingham pointed out that each man is equipped with a two-way radio, a part of a state-wide short-wave radio network. He added Maryland has the latest motorized fire fighting equipment in the nation.

Buckingham outlined general work to be done in preparation for the spring fire season. A. R. Bond, assistant state forester, spoke on organization of the three forestry boards in the four-county district.

Reports submitted at the meeting showed a group of 10 forest workers in this area, which covers Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties, personally contacted about 15,100 people in lectures on forest laws before service clubs, in schools and before church and Scout groups.

Parr pointed out that the public has shown increasing interest in the forest fire prevention policy since the department began group contact work, including lectures and the showing of movies.

The foresters discussed regulations concerning uniforms and proposed changes in the uniforms. Foresters from Pennsylvania and West Virginia attended the meeting, giving advice on uniform systems.

Sessions are scheduled to get underway this morning at about 9:30 and are expected to end at about 3 p. m.

Special guests at last night's dinner were County Commissioners James Holmes and William Lemmert, Somerville Nicholson, supervisor of assessments; Arthur Hoffa, chairman of the Allegany County Forestry Board, Blair Welsh, vice chairman, and Stanley Espy and Arthur Weber, members of the board.

Area Bus Heads Say ATA Right

Managers of two area transit companies said yesterday figures released by the American Transit Association showing a nation-wide decrease in net income for transit companies as compared to post-war years are indicative of the operations here.

The ATA anounced that while the 1948 operating revenue rose 6.41 per cent over the previous year, operating expenses increased 7.29 per cent. Net revenue for the entire transit industry showed a $1,060,000 decrease from the post-war level reached in 1947.

This "decline in net revenue," a spokesman for the Transit Association stated, "is due to increasing cost of labor, materials and supplies. These are rising faster than revenues, too frequently because of delayed fare increases. Unlike wages, fares cannot be collected on a retroactive basis.

H. W. Price, district manager for The Potomac Edison Company, and Adolph Blunk, manager of C. & W. Transit Company, agreed that these nation-wide figures were comparable with local bus operations. They agreed with the ATA spokesman who stated, "One of the oddities of the transit business is the fact that about 56% of income paid out is in the form of wages.

"With wages taking such a high per cent of the transit dollar, each round of wage increases must necessarily be passed on to the riders by further fare increases if the operating companies are to continue to furnish satisfactory service."

Spokesmen for local operators expressed hope that they would be able to carry out plans for replacing present equipment with newer, more comfortable, efficient and generally larger vehicles. However, they qualified their plans by stating that the ability to go through with them depend, to a large extent, on their organizations.

Post Office Elevator Is Being Repaired

Extensive repairs on the Cumberland Postoffice elevator, which have been underway for several days, are expected to be completed in the next few days, officials announced yesterday.

Damage to doors and wiring of the elevator resulting from floods in 1936 and 1942 was considerable, they added.

After the floods, they said, the automatic doors of the device would not operate and number of short circuits developed due to water damage.

Chamber Of Commerce Asks Vote Of People On Charter Proposal

Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce last night gave a vote of approval to the work of the Cumberland Charter Commission.

The Chamber recommended that the public be given an opportunity to vote on the proposed new charter "as proposed by the commission with such ammendments as the Charter Commission may recommend."

Other legislative action included the referral back to the Legislative committee a proposed roadside control bill for Maryland.

New information concerning the measure has been received, the group explained, which may have a bearing on the action taken by the Legislative committee, which recently recommended approval of the measure.

Directors approved the Legislative committee's action in asking repeal of the Declarations of Intentions Act and approval of U. S. Chamber sponsored legislation to clarify status of delivered pricing practices.

The next membership meeting will be held February 10 at the Shrine Country Club when Howard M. Smith, chairman of the Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee, will lead a panel discussion on industrial promotion for the city.

Chamber membership is now 550, an all-time high, according to Harold W. Smith, manager, as a result of a recent membership drive headed by Charles F. Helmich, chairman of the Membership committee.

W. Earl Cobey, Helmich, Albert T. Tomsko, Earl D. Chaney and Thomas F. Conlon won top honors in the contest.

Court Asked To Correct Deed

In a bill of complaint filed yesterday in Circuit Court the Court was asked to reform and correct a deed of sale of a Gilpintown property.

The bill was filed by Harry R. Leasure and Rachel Irene Leasure, his wife, and C. Edward Wharton against the unknown heirs of Leo Campbell.

The plaintiffs state Campbell, since deceased, sold the property in question to Harriet Wharton on September 5, 1933. They maintain the wording of the description of the property was ambiguous, since it referred to two separate properties.

Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., set March 10 as the date for the respondents to appear.

Appeals Court Studying LaVale District Case

Ruling May Be Made Next Month

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 20 (AP) — A taxpayers' group tossed a legal duckpin today at Cumberland's new LaVale sanitary district.

Because of bowling alley ballots, the group asked the Court of Appeals to rule that the sanitary district does not exist.

The State Legislature in 1947 created a district to provide a water, drainage and sewer system in the community of LaVale, subject to the approval of local voters. By 16 votes, the plan was approved at a referendum election Jan. 22, 1948.

Violet McGill and others representing 39 residents of Allegany County argued one of the two polling places was Jack Poisal's bowling emporium. State election law bans the use of bowling alleys for balloting, they said.

"Purely technical," replied Miles G. Thompson and others for the LaVale Civic Improvement Association.

There was "no basis" that the bowlatorium "had the slightest effect one way or the other upon the election," they said.

The Appeals Court took the case under advisement. Its opinion is expected next month.

Opponents asked the court to hold "that said sanitary district has neither in fact nor in law ever come into existence."

Thompson asked the court to rule either that the election was valid and the sanitary district is now in effect, or to order a new election.

He appealed from a decree of Former Chief Judge William A. Huster, who in Allegany County Circuit Court held the election was null and void and that the courts have no power to order a new referendum.

The county commissioners and Tax Collector William A. Strother were parties to Thompson's appeal but took a neutral stand. Thompson's group intervened when sanitary district opponents filed suit to prevent the commissioners from exercising any powers delegated to them under the Act of 1947.

Violet McGill's group said it was up to the high court to decide whether they "and other taxpayers of this district are to be saddled with a perpetual tax upon their property."

The statute provides for a special tax up to $1 per $100 of assessable property to finance a bond issue to pay for the water, sewer and drainage system.

Breaking, Thefts Probed By Police

City police were investigating two larcenies last night along with a breaking and entering that netted the intruder $8 in cash as well as candy, cigarets and pastries.

Mrs. Hazel Bobo told authorities that she found the M. and S. Restaurant, Roberts Street and Ford Avenue, ransacked and the money and merchandise missing when she opened at 9 a. m. yesterday.

Police said entrance was gaintd by breaking a pane of glass in the front door and turning the lock.

The larcenies involved a battery taken from the truck of the Miller Lumber Company and a set of plumbing tools taken from the automobile of Paul C. Lancaster, 221 Water Street. Police said the tools are valued at $55.

Mrs. Edna Beck, 110 West First Street, notified police that an unidentified man and boy attempted to steal a blanket from a clothes line about 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. The pair was frightened away, police were told.

Dairies To Drop Bottle Deposits

Effective Saturday, Cumberland and Tri-State dairies will discontinue the one-cent deposit on each bottle of milk or milk product sold through dealers, it was announced yesterday.

The action was announced by E. A. Dashiell, secretary-treasurer of the Dairy Service Corporation.

It is the hope of the distributors, he added, that customers and dealers will continue to co-operate with dairy operators in returning bottles.

Bottle costs, always an important item, have been steadily increasing during the past few years, dairy operators said. Bottles which cost about $6.50 a gross in 1941 and 1942 now cost about $11, they explained.

Prisoner Seeks Release From State Prison

Obtains Writ Of Habeas Corpus

A writ of habeas corpus was granted in Circuit Court yesterday by Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., to a prisoner who is seeking release from the House of Correction.

The plaintiff, Theodore Mentzer, Burkettsville, alleges he was not given an impartial trial. Mentzer is serving a five-year sentence on two charges of assault and battery.

He was sentenced March 3, 1948, in the Circuit Court for Frederick County by Chief Judge Charles W. Woodward of the Sixth Judicial Circuit.

Mentzer was convicted of an assault on Alton Shaff, Frederick, following an automobile accident. Shaff, a former Frederick city policeman and fireman, was first sergeant of Frederick's Company A, National Guard, in World War II.

Judge Bruce ordered the writ returnable at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Mentzer's petition follows in part: "The petitioner states that he is being held in custody unlawfully at the Maryland House of Correction by the warden thereof, said warden acting upon the pretended authority issued by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Md.

"It is the allegation of this petitioner that the Court which tried the case against him was and is prejudiced and therefore had no right to allow the proceedings to commence. After finding the petitioner guilty of assault and battery the Court imposed a sentence of five years penal servitude, regardless of the fact that it was his first and only violation of the law.

"The Court accepted perjured testimony and entertained the same as a contributing factor in reaching a verdict of guilty. These things show prejudice. The said trial was in violation of the Sixth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution which states that 'In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury.' The said trial was not conducted on an impartial basis.

"This petitioner also states that the sentence imposed on him was in excess of the legal maximum. The charge was assault and battery. The sentence imposed is five years. This is excessive and unusual. According to the Bill of Rights of the U. S. Constitution cruel and unusual punishment shall not be inflicted.

"This petitioner was denied his right to obtain witnesses in his favor and thereby denied an opportunity to defend himself against the accusations.

"This petitioner hired an attorney but at the time did not realize that the said attorney was a personal friend of the complainant, and being a friend of the prosecuting witness the said attorney acted in an incompetent and unprofessional manner by pretending to act for the defense when actually he was helping the prosecution. Had this petitioner been aware of his rights at the time he would have dismissed the said attorney and probably thereby prevented his present imprisonment.

"The main factor in this whole affair is that the petitioner was held for a considerable time without a preliminary hearing before a committing magistrate. If he had had a preliminary hearing he could have posted bond and prepared his defense as it should have been prepared; he could have engaged competent counsel. If there had been a preliminary hearing this petitioner might have been advised of his rights according to the ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States on December 13, 1948, it is in violation of law to hold a person without taking him before the nearest committing magistrate at the earliest possibility."

Sunpapers Are Unfair, Md. U. Alumni Told

Dr. Robinson Says Facts Not Complete

Recent articles appearing in the Baltimore Sunpapers concerning the University of Maryland were termed unfair and incomplete by Dr. Ben Robinson, dean of the university's dental school, who addressed members of the Alumni Club of Allegany County last night.

He told the more than 80 members attending the dinner that a statement in the Sun that only 66 per cent of the students attending the university are natives of the state "is true of all colleges and universities in about the same proportion."

Dr Robinson pointed out that the article implied that Maryland is bearing the expense of educating students from other states and explained that there are college students from Maryland to be found in educational institutions in every state in the union.

Explaining that the university is very young, he said it was founded "just 29 years ago" and financed by the state.

"The Sun gave an unfair picture of the standing of the university by referring to its non-membership in the American Association of Universities," the dean declared. It failed to state, he added, that membership requirements are based on graduate work, which takes years to attain.

It also failed to state, Dr. Robinson said, that the association gave its approval to the university five years after the schools were combined, permitting U. of Md. undergraduates to be admitted to graduate schools of the 33 colleges and university, which are all that belong out of 1,700 such institutions in the United States.

The only reason the university is not a member, the dean asserted, is because its infancy has prevented graduate schools from reaching the levels required.

The local club unanimously accepted the constitution which was presented by John Robb. Dr. Robinson was presented with a gift from the Allegany-Garrett Dental Society by Dr. J. Russell Cook, after his talk.

Local Man Held On Manslaughter Count In Romney

Municipal Employe Dies In Hospital

A Cumberland motorist was being held in Hampshire County, W. Va., jail last night on a manslaughter charge after police said he was driving a car that struck and fatally injured Dougal W. Shank, 78-year-old Romney municipal laborer.

The driver was booked as Henry Kabosky, 419 Arch Street, and authorities said he was committed to jail in default of $1,000 bond for a hearing before Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell in Romney on Monday at 3 p.m.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy Allegany County medical examiner, said the victim died in Memorial Hospital at 12:40 p.m., two hours and 35 minutes after he was admitted. Death was attributed to a cerebral concussion and shock.

Area Marked, Police Say

Trooper F. H. Tribett, West Virginia State Police, who investigated with Romney Chief of Police R. W. Daugherty, said Shank was struck in the area that was properly marked by signs, "Men at Work."

He described the area as an uphill grade and said visibility was possible for a distance of 600 feet from where the sign was posted to where Shank was struck. Police said a man working with Shank declared the "go" signal was not given to Kabosky.

In an initial statement, Kabosky declared he saw Shank at work but said the man stopped as he approached and then walked into the path of the car as he came closer. The victim was working on a section of street where a sewer line was laid and the grading had sunk.

The injured man was taken to a Romney physician for first aid and then brought to Memorial Hospital.

Going To Washington

Authorities said Kabosky was en route to Washington, D. C. to visit relatives at the time of the accident. He was held pending the outcome of injuries and then the manslaughter charge was preferred by Chief Daugherty when the victim died.

Shank, a native of West Virginia, was a son of the late Jacob W. and Ann Barrett Shank. He is survived by his widow, the former Otie Ann Starns, three daughters, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. Floyd Davis and Mrs. Roy Keister, all of Romney; two sons, Ray R. Shank, Romney, and Charles Shank, Cumberland; two brothers, Clarence Chank, Tiffin, Ohio; and Walter Shank, Willard, Ohio. Twenty grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren also survive.

Washington Street Bridge May Be Reopened Soon

City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer reported yesterday that work of reconstructing the Washington Street railroad bridge may be finished within 10 days.

Approaches to the bridge have been repaired and are ready for blacktopping.

The middle girder which formerly separated the driveway on the span has been removed, leaving a 26-foot wide space for traffic. The bridge was raised seven inches during the work.

Rizer has made several inspection visits to the bridge during the past few weeks. Work is being done by a crew furnished by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Weather

It took only a few minutes outdoors yesterday for even the hardiest of Cumberlanders to realize January is still here. It wasn't really so cold and the sun shone very accommodatingly, but there was still that chilly wind that's been hanging around for the last few days. The official temperature did quite a little bouncing around, pushing the mercury to a high of 41 at Constitution Park and allowing it to fall as low as 24 at the same place. At 9:30 p. m. the official reading at Constitution Park was 30 degrees, but the unofficial downtown recording was 38. Bad news today: mostly cloudy followed by occasional rain tonight.

A slate headed by Playford Aldridge, seeking re-election as president, pledged in its handbill to support policies of the local, the TWUA, CIO and the United States Constitution.

Will Fight Communism

The slate also pledged it will do all in its power to abolish Communism and all other "un-American isms" from organized labor and the local and continue efforts which would again lead to successful conclusion of contract negotiations, higher wages, unity in labor organizations and pursuance of policies which would lead to legislation beneficial to organized labor.

Dr. Ray Reports Good Reaction To League In Area

11 Municipalities To Consider Membership

City officials of 11 municipalities in Allegany and Garrett Counties have indicated they plan to discuss the question of joining the Maryland League of Municipalities at their next council meeting, Dr. Joseph M. Ray said yesterday.

Dr. Ray, who is executive secretary of the League, toured Garrett County with Mayor Thomas S. Post yesterday. He said reaction of all officials toward the idea of League membership was "uniformly favorable."

Officials contacted yesterday were: Mayors Nevin Miller of Grantsville; F. E. Spoerlein of Acident; Ray Bittinger of Mt. Lake Park; Earl George of Deer Park; Glenn Barton of Kitzmiller and Marshall Skidmore of Frostburg.

Mayor Post and Dr. Ray also visited Oakland Commissioners Earl Shartzer and Harry Stemple; and Mayor Charles S. Dayton and Commissioner Robert Stump of Luke.

Dr. Ray reported a similar favorable reaction from his visits Wednesday afternoon with Mayor Verl Ash of Midland ;Mayor Alec Burt of Lonaconing; and Dr. Lewis F. Engle and Clarence McBee, Westernport councilmen.

At present, Cumberland and Friendsville are the only members of the Maryland League of Municipalities in this area.

Dr. Ray explained that membership dues begin at $15 yearly for towns up to 300 population, with an added $5 per each 100 residents. Dues are graduated on a smaller scale for communities over 1,000 population.

The League was reorganized recently to work for passage of legislation advantageous to Maryland cities and to serve as a clearing house for information on problems of municipal government.

Meanwhile, Dr. Ray said the League expects to introduce its bill calling for constitutional home rule in Maryland within the next week or two in the State Legislature.

Dr. Ray will return to College Park today.

43 Contractors Seek Dam Data

Forty-three contractors have requested plans and specifications to make bids for the first phase of work on the renewed Savage River dam project, Owen E. Hitchens, a member of the Upper Potomac River Board, told Chamber of Commerce directors at a meeting last night.

Nine contractors have already inspected the site, Hitchins said.

Army Engineers have set February 1 as the date for opening bids for completion of excavation and embankment work at the dam. The project carried an initial Congressional appropriation of $400,000 for 1948-49.

John Estes, chairman of the legislative committee of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, was elected president of the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference at the annual election of officers held last night in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Other officers of the organizations representing AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods and Independent unions are:

C. E. Stutzman, vice president of Local 453, Teamsters Union, first vice president; J. H. Humbertson, of Machinists Local 212, second vice president, and Paul L. Burley, Bus Drivers Union, re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Blackwell was named Wednesday to be in charge of the union's publicity in 11 Southern states with headquarters in Atlanta, Ga.

Following a lengthy discussion on the proposed new charter for Cumberland and its effects upon city employes, the Conference voted to ask labor delegates on the Commission to erport at its next meeting on the status of city jobs under the proposed legislation.

Two new organizations, Local 258, Theatrical Workers, and Local 656, Railway Carmen, have become affiliated with the Conference.

Outlines Powers Of Forest Wardens

In an address last night at a dinner of about 30 area foresters, State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris warned forest workers to "be sure of your facts." He also admonished them to "be fair in all law enforcement work."

Harris was guest speaker at a dinner held at the Tally-Ho Restaurant, Frostburg, in connection with a two-day training meeting of district foresters.

Harris' talk dealt principally with developing investigations of violations regarding state forests and the manner of presenting evidence in court.

Forest wardens, he reminded, have the same general powers as constables under state law in enforcing laws regarding state forests and fish and game in those forests.

Wardens, he added, have power under state law to summons or deputize men between the ages of 18 and 50 to fight forest fires, and to commandeer equipment needed to fight forest fires, such as horses, wagons and other equipment.

It is a warden's duty, Harris asserted, to arrest anyone guilty of maliciously setting a forest afire. Fines upon conviction range from $25 to $2,000 or imprisonment from 30 days to five years, he added.

Wardens also have the duty of arresting and prosecuting persons starting woods fires through carelessness, he explained, adding that fines of $10 to $100 or imprisonment from 10 days to one year are provided for this offense.

Wardens are also authorized to arrest persons who place advertising matter on roadside trees without the owner's permission, Harris stated.

The training meeting opened yesterday with sessions beginning at 10 a. m. in the auxiliary courtroom at the Court House.

Progress Cited

At yesterday's session, District Forester William A. Parr and State Forrester H. C. Buckingham spoke on the program the forestry department has made in recent years.

Buckingham pointed out that each man is equipped with a two-way radio, a part of a state-wide short-wave radio network. He added Maryland has the latest motorized fire fighting equipment in the nation.

Buckingham outlined general work to be done in preparation for the spring fire season. A. R. Bond, assistant state forester, spoke on organization of the three forestry boards in the four-county district.

Reports submitted at the meeting showed a group of 10 forest workers in this area, which covers Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties, personally contacted about 15,100 people in lectures on forest laws before service clubs, in schools and before church and Scout groups.

Parr pointed out that the public has shown increasing interest in the forest fire prevention policy since the department began group contact work, including lectures and the showing of movies.

The foresters discussed regulations concerning uniforms and proposed changes in the uniforms. Foresters from Pennsylvania and West Virginia attended the meeting, giving advice on uniform systems.

Sessions are scheduled to get underway this morning at about 9:30 and are expected to end at about 3 p. m.

Special guests at last night's dinner were County Commissioners James Holmes and William Lemmert, Somerville Nicholson, supervisor of assessments; Arthur Hoffa, chairman of the Allegany County Forestry Board, Blair Welsh, vice chairman, and Stanley Espy and Arthur Weber, members of the board.

Area Bus Heads Say ATA Right

Managers of two area transit companies said yesterday figures released by the American Transit Association showing a nation-wide decrease in net income for transit companies as compared to post-war years are indicative of the operations here.

The ATA anounced that while the 1948 operating revenue rose 6.41 per cent over the previous year, operating expenses increased 7.29 per cent. Net revenue for the entire transit industry showed a $1,000,000 decrease from the post-war level reached in 1947.

This "decline in net revenue," a spokesman for the Transit Association stated, "is due to increasing cost of labor, materials and supplies. These are rising faster than revenues, too frequently because of delayed fare increases. Unlike wages, fares cannot be collected on a retroactive basis.

H. W. Price, district manager for The Potomac Edison Company, and Adolph Blunk, manager of C. & W. Transit Company, agreed that these nation-wide figures were comparable with local bus operations. They agreed with the ATA spokesman who stated, "One of the oddities of the transit business is the fact that about 56% of income paid out is in the form of wages.

"With wages taking such a high per cent of the transit dollar, each round of wage increases must necessarily be passed on to the riders by further fare increases if the operating companies are to continue to furnish satisfactory service."

Spokesmen for local operators expressed hope that they would be able to carry out plans for replacing present equipment with newer, more comfortable, efficient and generally larger vehicles. However, they qualified their plans by stating that the ability to go through with them depend, to a large extent, on their organizations.

Two Directors Renamed By Farmers Dairy

Two directors were re-elected for one year at the annual dinner meeting of officers and stockholders of the Farmers Dairy Wednesday night at the LaVale Fire Hall.

They are C. R. Armstrong, Rawlings, and W. H. Johnson, Willowbrook Road.

J. William Loar, Rawlings, president of the board, gave the annual directors' report. Other reports were given by Curtis Cox, manager, and John E. O. Feller, Washington, D. C., a certified public accountant, who presented the financial statement.

Dennis Koontz, Bedford, Pa., is secretary of the board, which also includes James Miltenberger, Ridgeley, W. Va.

Musical entertainment was presented by Paul and Hoy Breedlove, Cresaptown.

Two area men enlisted for Army service here yesterday and will leave today for Fort Jackson, S. C., to begin basic training, the Army Recruiting office announced. They are Porter E. Broadwater, Westernport, and Albert M. Welsh, Shaw, W. Va.

Post Office Elevator Is Being Repaired

Extensive repairs on the Cumberland Postoffice elevator, which have been underway for several days, are expected to be completed in the next few days, officials announced yesterday.

Damage to doors and wiring of the elevator resulting from floods in 1936 and 1942 was considerable, they added.

After the floods, they said, the automatic doors of the device would not operate and number of short circuits developed due to water damage.

Chamber Of Commerce Asks Vote Of People On Charter Proposal

Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce last night gave a vote of approval to the work of the Cumberland Charter Commission.

The Chamber recommended that the public be given an opportunity to vote on the proposed new charter "as proposed by the commission with such ammendments as the Charter Commission may recommend."

Other legislative action included the referral back to the Legislative committee a proposed roadside control bill for Maryland.

New information concerning the measure has been received, the group explained, which may have a bearing on the action taken by the Legislative committee, which recently recommended approval of the measure.

Directors approved the Legislative committee's action in asking repeal of the Declarations of Intentions Act and approval of U. S. Chamber sponsored legislation to clarify status of delivered pricing practices.

The next membership meeting will be held February 10 at the Shrine Country Club when Howard M. Smith, chairman of the Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee, will lead a panel discussion on industrial promotion for the city.

Chamber membership is now 550, an all-time high, according to Harold W. Smith, manager, as a result of a recent membership drive headed by Charles F. Helmich, chairman of the Membership committee.

W. Earl Cobey, Helmich, Albert T. Tomsko, Earl D. Chaney and Thomas F. Conlon won top honors in the contest.

Court Asked To Correct Deed

In a bill of complaint filed yesterday in Circuit Court the Court was asked to reform and correct a deed of sale of a Gilpintown property.

The bill was filed by Harry R. Leasure and Rachel Irene Leasure, his wife, and C. Edward Wharton against the unknown heirs of Leo Campbell.

The plaintiffs state Campbell, since deceased, sold the property in question to Harriet Wharton on September 5, 1933. They maintain the wording of the description of the property was ambiguous, since it referred to two separate properties.

Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., set March 10 as the date for the respondents to appear.

Quench Flue Fire

Central Fire Company extinguished a flue fire at the Silver Grill, 104 North Mechanic Street, yesterday at 6:35 p. m.

South End Fire Company was called to the 300 block of Pennsylvania Avenue yesterday at 2:22 p. m. when a car owned by Richard Bender caught fire. Firemen said the blaze was out when they arrived.

Appeals Court Studying LaVale District Case

Ruling May Be Made Next Month

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 20 (AP) — A taxpayers' group tossed a legal duckpin today at Cumberland's new LaVale sanitary district.

Because of bowling alley ballots, the group asked the Court of Appeals to rule that the sanitary district does not exist.

The State Legislature in 1947 created a district to provide a water, drainage and sewer system in the community of LaVale, subject to the approval of local voters. By 16 votes, the plan was approved at a referendum election Jan. 22, 1948.

Violet McGill and others representing 39 residents of Allegany County argued one of the two polling places was Jack Poisal's bowling emporium. State election law bans the use of bowling alleys for balloting, they said.

"Purely technical," replied Miles G. Thompson and others for the LaVale Civic Improvement Association.

There was "no basis" that the bowlatorium "had the slightest effect one way or the other upon the election," they said.

The Appeals Court took the case under advisement. Its opinion is expected next month.

Opponents asked the court to hold "that said sanitary district has neither in fact nor in law ever come into existence."

Thompson asked the court to rule either that the election was valid and the sanitary district is now in effect, or to order a new election.

He appealed from a decree of Former Chief Judge William A. Huster, who in Allegany County Circuit Court held the election was null and void and that the courts have no power to order a new referendum.

The county commissioners and Tax Collector William A. Strother were parties to Thompson's appeal but took a neutral stand. Thompson's group intervened when sanitary district opponents filed suit to prevent the commissioners from exercising any powers delegated to them under the Act of 1947.

Violet McGill's group said it was up to the high court to decide whether they "and other taxpayers of this district are to be saddled with a perpetual tax upon their property."

The statute provides for a special tax up to $1 per $100 of assessable property to finance a bond issue to pay for the water, sewer and drainage system.

Breaking, Thefts Probed By Police

City police were investigating two larcenies last night along with a breaking and entering that netted the intruder $8 in cash as well as candy, cigarets and pastries.

Mrs. Hazel Bobo told authorities that she found the M. and S. Restaurant, Roberts Street and Ford Avenue, ransacked and the money and merchandise missing when she opened at 9 a. m. yesterday.

Police said entrance was gaintd by breaking a pane of glass in the front door and turning the lock.

The larcenies involved a battery taken from the truck of the Miller Lumber Company and a set of plumbing tools taken from the automobile of Paul C. Lancaster, 221 Water Street. Police said the tools are valued at $55.

Mrs. Edna Beck, 110 West First Street, notified police that an unidentified man and boy attempted to steal a blanket from a clothes line about 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. The pair was frightened away, police were told.

Dairies To Drop Bottle Deposits

Effective Saturday, Cumberland and Tri-State dairies will discontinue the one-cent deposit on each bottle of milk or milk product sold through dealers, it was announced yesterday.

The action was announced by E. A. Dashiell, secretary-treasurer of the Dairy Service Corporation.

It is the hope of the distributors, he added, that customers and dealers will continue to co-operate with dairy operators in returning bottles.

Bottle costs, always an important item, have been steadily increasing during the past few years, dairy operators said. Bottles which cost about $6.50 a gross in 1941 and 1942 now cost about $11, they explained.

Prisoner Seeks Release From State Prison

Obtains Writ Of Habeas Corpus

A writ of habeas corpus was granted in Circuit Court yesterday by Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., to a prisoner who is seeking release from the House of Correction.

The plaintiff, Theodore Mentzer, Burkettsville, alleges he was not given an impartial trial. Mentzer is serving a five-year sentence on two charges of assault and battery.

He was sentenced March 3, 1948, in the Circuit Court for Frederick County by Chief Judge Charles W. Woodward of the Sixth Judicial Circuit.

Mentzer was convicted of an assault on Alton Shaff, Frederick, following an automobile accident. Shaff, a former Frederick city policeman and fireman, was first sergeant of Frederick's Company A, National Guard, in World War II.

Judge Bruce ordered the writ returnable at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Mentzer's petition follows in part: "The petitioner states that he is being held in custody unlawfully at the Maryland House of Correction by the warden thereof, said warden acting upon the pretended authority issued by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Md.

"It is the allegation of this petitioner that the Court which tried the case against him was and is prejudiced and therefore had no right to allow the proceedings to commence. After finding the petitioner guilty of assault and battery the Court imposed a sentence of five years penal servitude, regardless of the fact that it was his first and only violation of the law.

"The Court accepted perjured testimony and entertained the same as a contributing factor in reaching a verdict of guilty. These things show prejudice. The said trial was in violation of the Sixth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution which states that 'In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury.' The said trial was not conducted on an impartial basis.

"This petitioner also states that the sentence imposed on him was in excess of the legal maximum. The charge was assault and battery. The sentence imposed is five years. This is excessive and unusual. According to the Bill of Rights of the U. S. Constitution cruel and unusual punishment shall not be inflicted.

"This petitioner was denied his right to obtain witnesses in his favor and thereby denied an opportunity to defend himself against the accusations.

"This petitioner hired an attorney but at the time did not realize that the said attorney was a personal friend of the complainant, and being a friend of the prosecuting witness the said attorney acted in an incompetent and unprofessional manner by pretending to act for the defense when actually he was helping the prosecution. Had this petitioner been aware of his rights at the time he would have dismissed the said attorney and probably thereby prevented his present imprisonment.

"The main factor in this whole affair is that the petitioner was held for a considerable time without a preliminary hearing before a committing magistrate. If he had had a preliminary hearing he could have posted bond and prepared his defense as it should have been prepared; he could have engaged competent counsel. If there had been a preliminary hearing this petitioner might have been advised of his rights according to the ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States on December 13, 1948, it is in violation of law to hold a person without taking him before the nearest committing magistrate at the earliest possibility."

Sunpapers Are Unfair, Md. U. Alumni Told

Dr. Robinson Says Facts Not Complete

Recent articles appearing in the Baltimore Sunpapers concerning the University of Maryland were termed unfair and incomplete by Dr. Ben Robinson, dean of the university's dental school, who addressed members of the Alumni Club of Allegany County last night.

He told the more than 80 members attending the dinner that a statement in the Sun that only 66 per cent of the students attending the university are natives of the state "is true of all colleges and universities in about the same proportion."

Dr Robinson pointed out that the article implied that Maryland is bearing the expense of educating students from other states and explained that there are college students from Maryland to be found in educational institutions in every state in the union.

Explaining that the university is very young, he said it was founded "just 29 years ago" and financed by the state.

"The Sun gave an unfair picture of the standing of the university by referring to its non-membership in the American Association of Universities," the dean declared. It failed to state, he added, that membership requirements are based on graduate work, which takes years to attain.

It also failed to state, Dr. Robinson said, that the association gave its approval to the university five years after the schools were combined, permitting U. of Md. undergraduates to be admitted to graduate schools of the 33 colleges and university, which are all that belong out of 1,700 such institutions in the United States.

The only reason the university is not a member, the dean asserted, is because its infancy has prevented graduate schools from reaching the levels required.

Finger Of Machinist Is Amputated After Mishap

A Baltimore and Ohio Railroad machinist underwent a finger amputation at Allegany Hospital late yesterday afternoon after injuring his hand while at work.

The patient, Harry DeVore, 55, Ellerslie, was reported in good condition last night. Hospital attaches said he sustained injuries to the third, fourth and fifth fingers of his laft hand. The fifth finger was amputated.

Charles Lynch, 23, Oldtown, a Western Union employe, was treated at the same hospital for injuries he said he sustained in an automobile-train collision December 7. Attaches said he sustained injuries of the back and the right knee.

Emmanuel Welsh, 60 Hazen Road, received treatment for injuries to his left foot sustained when he dropped a machine dye on it while at work for the B. and O.

Local Man Held On Manslaughter Count In Romney

Municipal Employe Dies In Hospital

A Cumberland motorist was being held in Hampshire County, W. Va., jail last night on a manslaughter charge after police said he was driving a car that struck and fatally injured Dougal W. Shank, 78-year-old Romney municipal laborer.

The driver was booked as Henry Kabosky, 419 Arch Street, and authorities said he was committed to jail in default of $1,000 bond for a hearing before Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell in Romney on Monday at 3 p.m.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy Allegany County medical examiner, said the victim died in Memorial Hospital at 12:40 p.m., two hours and 35 minutes after he was admitted. Death was attributed to a cerebral concussion and shock.

Area Marked, Police Say

Trooper F. H. Tribett, West Virginia State Police, who investigated with Romney Chief of Police R. W. Daugherty, said Shank was struck in the area that was properly marked by signs, "Men at Work."

He described the area as an uphill grade and said visibility was possible for a distance of 600 feet from where the sign was posted to where Shank was struck. Police said a man working with Shank declared the "go" signal was not given to Kabosky.

In an initial statement, Kabosky declared he saw Shank at work but said the man stopped as he approached and then walked into the path of the car as he came closer. The victim was working on a section of street where a sewer line was laid and the grading had sunk.

The injured man was taken to a Romney physician for first aid and then brought to Memorial Hospital.

Going To Washington

Authorities said Kabosky was en route to Washington, D. C. to visit relatives at the time of the accident. He was held pending the outcome of injuries and then the manslaughter charge was preferred by Chief Daugherty when the victim died.

Shank, a native of West Virginia, was a son of the late Jacob W. and Ann Barrett Shank. He is survived by his widow, the former Otie Ann Starns, three daughters, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. Floyd Davis and Mrs. Roy Keister, all of Romney; two sons, Ray R. Shank, Romney, and Charles Shank, Cumberland; two brothers, Clarence Chank, Tiffin, Ohio; and Walter Shank, Willard, Ohio. Twenty grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren also survive.

Washington Street Bridge May Be Reopened Soon

City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer reported yesterday that work of reconstructing the Washington Street railroad bridge may be finished within 10 days.

Approaches to the bridge have been repaired and are ready for blacktopping.

The middle girder which formerly separated the driveway on the span has been removed, leaving a 26-foot wide space for traffic. The bridge was raised seven inches during the work.

Rizer has made several inspection visits to the bridge during the past few weeks. Work is being done by a crew furnished by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Weather

It took only a few minutes outdoors yesterday for even the hardiest of Cumberlanders to realize January is still here. It wasn't really so cold and the sun shone very accommodatingly, but there was still that chilly wind that's been hanging around for the last few days. The official temperature did quite a little bouncing around, pushing the mercury to a high of 41 at Constitution Park and allowing it to fall as low as 24 at the same place. At 9:30 p. m. the official reading at Constitution Park was 30 degrees, but the unofficial downtown recording was 38. Bad news today: mostly cloudy followed by occasional rain tonight.
